Germs Kill Germs.
The U. S. A. Moral.
Almighty Chemistry.
Poor, Poor Czar.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1927.)

SCIENCE employs methods that seem more fantastic than those of a voodoo witch doctor. Malaria germs cure softening of the brain, nothing else will.

London's Ross Cancer Institute will test the discovery of Dr. Pitta, of Funchal:

"A few drops of a mattery discharge from trachoma, a contagious disease of the eye, injected into a growing cancer, caused an immediate arrest of the malignant growth, followed by disintegration."

CANCER of the breast, beyond the reach of surgical operation, is said to have been cured by this injection. Eventually a cure for cancer will be found.

Ferrets are used to destroy their vicious half brothers, the rats. Germs of one disease might well attack and destroy malignant cancer growth.

LLOYD GEORGE, responsible for the fact that King George sits on his throne, says "another world war would be so devastating that European civilization would stagger to ruin under its shock. Weapons of war have developed so rapidly in destructive capacity that another four years' conflict between great nations would lay waste the fabric which it has taken centuries to build up."

LLOYD GEORGE says Italy, inspired with aggressive patriotism by Mussolini, "spreads that great arm across the Alps," meaning the French army, against the 3,500,000 men that Italy could call into the field. France could call 4,500,000. Russia could produce an army of 9,000,000 men, but would not have weapons, cannon or ammunition for them.

THE meaning of all this to the United States is that we ought to build fast flying machines, big submarines, as many fast battle cruisers as we might need to prevent interference with our floating commerce, and KEEP OUT OF EUROPEAN AFFAIRS, ENTANGLEMENTS, DEBTS.

DR. A. B. LAMB, who teaches chemistry at Harvard, says chemists will solve "humanity's three major problems of the future, the supply of energy, of food, and prevention and cure of disease."

Progress is swift. Twenty-seven years ago chemists solemnly agreed that in chemistry the limit of knowledge had about been reached. And since 1900 more has been learned about chemistry and its possibilities, including construction of the atom and the power locked up in it, than had been learned in all the previous centuries.

THE diary of the late Czar tells how badly he was treated by the Bolsheviki. He wasn't allowed to walk on the river bank, and guards threw all of the Czar's wine into the river.

Other diaries written in Russia, not by the Czar, tell how hundreds of men and old and young women had died under the knout, or in the dungeons of St. Peter and St. Paul. One prisoner of the Czar, fearing that he would betray his comrades under the lash, pulled himself up to the window of his cell where a little oil lamp burned, and held himself there until the flame had burned into his side sufficiently to kill him.

THE Czar's crime was the crime of being Czar. Their crime was the crime of demanding liberty.

THE automobile situation is encouraging for publishers. A great automobile advertising campaign is ahead for 1928. A half dozen makers produce what the people want. The problem is to let the people know in such a way as to force purchases. The power of suggestion, greatest force in salesmanship, resides, 99 per cent, in intelligent advertising.

MR. MORROW, our ambassador to Mexico, inspecting Mexico's wonders, accompanied by President Calles of Mexico and Will Rogers, is much interested in a gigantic dam for irrigation now being constructed by Mexican government in the State of Aguas Calientes.

AFTER a few years Will Rogers, Ambassador Morrow and President Calles may see a big dam built by this slow-moving government to utilize for power and irrigation the waters of the Colorado River. Anything can happen.

THE WEATHER

Partly cloudy, not so cold tonight. Tuesday, increasing cloudiness. Lowest temperature tonight near freezing.

"Other Woman" In Suicide Hoax

WIFE FEARS PITT GRAD 'VAMPED'

"Write a letter to Santa and tell him to bring my Pop back for Christmas," is the plea of little Jack Fitzpatrick, 4½, to his mother's oft-repeated story that his "daddy," John Fitzpatrick, 32, has gone away for a while, "but will be back some day soon."

Fitzpatrick, a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, is believed to be touring Canada with another woman, although his hat, coat and other personal effects were found on the brink of Niagara Falls, November 12, after he had sent a letter saying he would cast himself over the falls. Mrs. Fitzpatrick has appealed to city detectives for aid in locating her husband, who disappeared from Chicago last September and authorities declare they are satisfied Fitzpatrick still is alive. He is alleged by police to have registered with the woman under the name of "M. G. Fleming and wife" of Cleveland, at several Canadian hotels.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick makes her home with Mrs. R. S. Carson, 418 Lincoln avenue. With her are her two children, Jack and his younger brother, Bobby, 3. They have been the chief solace to their mother during the past few months since their father left them without a word of explanation. Failing to hear from the

8 SHOT IN CABARET

Block Vare, Smith

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—A new session of Congress, born with every promise of a career of discord and political insurgency, opened today with a curtain raiser in which William S. Vare of Pennsylvania and Frank L. Smith of Illinois, were denied, at least temporarily, the Senate seats to which they aspire.

When they presented themselves to take the oath of office the two would-be senators were stopped by a resolution presented by Senator Norris, of Nebraska, declaring them unfit to sit in the Senate because of the scandal surrounding their primary campaigns. It was agreed to postpone further action until tomorrow.

ELECTION FIGHT LOOMS

The Senate also put off until later the election of its secretary and other officers, around which another storm

1 KILLED, 2 DYING IN HOLDUP

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—An attempt to hold up 200 guests at the Parody Cafe, 1201 North State street, at 2:45 a. m., today turned into a spirited gunfight with the dance floor as the battleground. The casualties were:

One man shot dead.
Five men and two women wounded.

There were six robbers. Two, carrying pistols, entered the main entrance during an intermission in the dance program and ordered all hands up. Behind them came two others, carrying sub-machine guns, the rapid-firing automatic weapons frequently employed in gangster raids.

Want Daddy Back

ASK SANTA TO FIND FATHER

Bobby left, and Jack Fitzpatrick want their "daddy," John Fitzpatrick, who is believed to be romancing in Canada, to return to them. "Write Santa and tell him to bring back our daddy," they urged and then decided to call up the North Pole.

WIFE WILLING TO TAKE HIM BACK

Mrs. Helen Fitzpatrick, 24, left, whose devotion for her husband is so strong that she said "No matter what he has done, I want him to return." Fitzpatrick, 32, a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, disappeared from Chicago last September and then threatened to end his life by jumping in Niagara Falls.

Longworth Re-Elected Speaker

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Nicholas Longworth of Ohio today was re-elected Speaker of the House.

Longworth's election over Representative Finis J. Garrett, of Tennessee, the Democratic nominee, had been a foregone conclusion since the last general election, when the Republicans retained a safe majority in the House.

The Speaker, who is a son-in-law of former President Roosevelt, was without opposition in his own party. He first became the presiding officer of the House two years ago.

The vote today was 225 for Longworth and 187 for Garrett. Five members voted present.

Costella Held for Trial

Deputy County Treasurer James Costella waived hearing before Alderman A. M. Maloney Saturday and was held for court under $3,000 bail on charges of false pretense, making false entries and embezzlement.

Costella was arrested about a month ago on a warrant on complaint of County Controller Charles C. McGovern. The arrest occurred when Costella admitted to Controller McGovern at his public audit of county affairs that he had signed the name of Nat Brown to a number of county payrolls. Costella also confessed that he signed the name of Nat Brown to a personal identification card.

WIDOW COLLAPSES, SOBS DENIAL OF MURDER

By International News Service

COURTHOUSE, MAYS LANDING, N. J., Dec. 5.—With her voice at times choked with emotion, Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, 42, today took the witness stand in her own defense and uttered a mixture of sobbing and vigorous denials to all charges that she had indulged in an illicit romance and murdered her aged husband, Dr. William Lilliendahl, 75.

Recounting her story of an attack by Negro thugs while riding with her husband, Mrs. Lilliendahl collapsed on the stand and a recess was taken while she recovered her composure.

But once away from the details of the murder when the doctor was shot to death in a pine scrub lane, the widow came back strong and the noon recess found her fresh and composed for the cross-examination yet to come.

The placing of the widow on the stand was taken as an indication that the defense testimony, which began on Friday, was nearing a close. Beach was in the witness box for three and a half hours on Saturday, repeating his alibi that he was at home with his family when Dr. Lilliendahl was killed in a lane off the Atsion road, near Hammonton.

$2,400,500 MEXICAN FUND USED SECRETLY IN NEW YORK IN YEAR

TODAY'S DISCLOSURES

One of the most amazing revelations yet made in the series being published by the Hearst newspapers, is revealed today. These disclosures show that:

Arturo M. Elias, the Mexican financial agent and consul general in New York, was asked for an accounting of the expenditure of $2,400,500 which had been authorized over a certain period by the Mexican Treasury and secretly used in this country.

Elias refused to make this accounting. In addition, he wrote to President Calles and Alberto J. Pani, Mexican secretary of the treasury, protesting against these requests, saying that any accounting should be obtained from the President himself. Elias also berated Pani for allowing his underlings to use the mails for these requests, explaining that some of them might go astray and cause an embarrassing situation for Mexico.

(Copyright, 1927, by Washington Herald.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The expenditure of $2,400,500 for "secret" purposes by the Mexican Financial Agency in New York in the single year of 1926, is shown by The Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst papers today.

The expenditure of this huge sum for propaganda and other secret purposes is revealed in correspondence which was exchanged in December of last year between Arturo M. Elias, director of the Financial Agency, and two high Mexican officials, President Calles and the then Secretary of the Treasury, Alberto J. Pani. Copies of these letters are in the hands of the Hearst newspapers.

Refused Accounting

The correspondence shows that Secretary Pani tried to get the Mexican Financial Agent, Senor Elias, to account for the money thus spent, and that Elias refused to render an accounting. Instead of complying with the demands of the Secretary of the Treasury he replied with the accusation that Senor Pani had been very indiscreet in making such demands through the open mail, because of the "dangerous chance" that they might be intercepted and cause an "undesirable situation."

Elias also wrote a letter to President Calles, his half-brother, complaining vigorously of Pani having called for an accounting of the money, and asking Calles to put a stop to such calls.

"During the whole of this month," he informed Calles, "this Financial Agency has been receiving communications sent by subordinate employes of the Treasury Department, asking me to report regarding certain sums which have been spent for sceret purposes in this country. I understand well that these employes are doing no more than to obey superior orders, and he who gives those orders (Pani) is only doing so to prejudice me."

Complaint

One of the communications he complained of having received from the Treasury Department is in the possession of the Hearst newspapers. It follows textually:

To the Citizen Financial Agent of Mexico in New York:

By order of the Citizen President of the Republic I com-

GROUP GIVING BOOSTS 20 NEEDIEST FUND

Collective giving by employes in offices, stores and factories, by Sunday School classes and other groups of young people, as well as of grownups, promises to play an important part in bringing relief to the Twenty Neediest Cases of destitution, for whom The Sun-Telegraph is raising a Christmas fund. It offers a convenient way through which persons who hesitate to send individual contributions because they feel that they are too small, can pool their gifts and make a respectable showing.

Of course, no contribution is disdained, no matter how small. As the Scotch say, "many a mickle makes a muckle." A dime will buy a loaf of bread, and some of the unfortunates for whom the fund is being collected are having a hard time satisfying their hunger. Therefore, no person should let the smallness of the largest

200 Poison Victims Recover

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Dec. 5.—All of the 200 victims of ptomaine poisoning that resulted from the Baptist Church supper in this city have recovered.

The unanimous opinion here today, after an investigation, backed by the verdict of three responsible physicians, who were sick themselves, is that the sickness was not due to metal poisoning, but rather from a chicken that had been dead too long and had gotten mixed with the good ones presented to the Baptist ladies for their supper.

According to the statement of these three physicians, decayed chicken is one of the most prolific sources of ptomaine poisoning.

NOW ORDERED DISCHARGED AND WAITING STEAMER BACK TO MISSISSIPPI

FRENCH LEGIONNAIRE, DEATH SENTENCE REVOKED, ON WAY HOME

Bennett J. Doty, of Biloxi, Miss., joined the French Foreign Legion, that strange "Legion of Death." Twice he was cited for bravery and then, tired of privation and the lonely legionnaire life, he deserted. He was captured and sentenced to death. The death sentence was changed to imprisonment and later, in view of his splendid record, this was revoked and he was ordered back to his post. French army heads, however, could not stand this deviation from the code of their famous legion and recalled Doty from Algiers to discharge him. In Marseilles, France, where he arrived today, he was officially discharged and now waits for his steamer and longs for a sight of the Statue of Liberty and his southern home, where he says, he will enter business, cured of his lust of adventure.

Vare, Smith Fight Ouster

WILLIAM S. VARE

Outstanding in the session of Congress which opens today is Senator-elect William S. Vare, leader of the Philadelphia Republican organization, facing the hardest fight of his career to realize his life-long ambition to sit in the United States Senate. He is pinning his hopes for a seat in that body on—

BOMB WAR ON THUGS

With one man in the hospital as a result of a beating administered by footpads Sunday morning and numerous other robberies and holdups reported in various sections of the city, detectives were mobilized by Lieut. David Corbett last night and sent out in automobiles armed with riot guns and tear gas bombs to sweep the city clean of thugs and bandits.

John Sobers, 26, of 1718 Lishman avenue, New Kensington, is in the hospital suffering from a probable fracture of the skull. He was found in a semi-conscious condition in Federal street, North Side, and from his occasional mutterings at the hospital, detectives learned that he had been robbed. They were unable to determine how much the thugs got, but Sobers repeated $300 over and over, and it is believed he was trying to tell the officers how much money he had.

A bold daylight robbery was reported in the Hill district yesterday. Mrs. Sarah Kazen of 2140 Center avenue told police a Negro hit her over the head and grabbed her purse containing $6.40 while she was on her way home from church at about 10:30 o'clock. The attack occurred near Miller and Forsythe streets.

tic shotgun. This robber, the leader, stopped in the middle of the dance floor, whirling about with the weapon so as to command the four sides of tables at which sat the guests.

The man in the mask fired one shot into the ceiling as he commanded all to keep their hands above their heads.

John Fried, a policeman attached to the city prosecutor's office, who was a guest, opened fire on the man, an easy mark in the center of the polished floor. The robber pivoted around to meet the attack, fired one shot and his weapon jammed.

Fried emptied his revolver and the bandit chief dropped with four bullets in his body. Later at a hospital it was said he probably would not recover.

WAITER SHOT DEAD

When the robbers first appeared, Harry Smith, a waiter, attempted to slip out a rear exit. He was shot dead by a lookout, the sixth member of the robber band.

Fried's action in opening fire threw the place into confusion. Several police officers, off duty but present as guests, began firing.

The single shot the bandit leader let go in Fried's direction struck June Griffith, 20, an entertainer, in the left side. She may die.

Miss Fannie Hillman, 28, a guest, was shot in the hand as she held it high above her head.

Police Sergeant Cohan, seated with Mrs. Cohan at a table, began firing. He was shot in the left side either by one of the robbers or in the cross fire from policemen across the dance floor.

Charles Silverman, another guest, got a bullet in the left hip and William F. Malone, seated at one of the tables, was shot in the body, though not seriously.

Archie Schaffer, with a shot in the lung, reported at a hospital later, but said he had been shot some distance from the Parody. His story was being checked.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 5.—With the report that 165 deer have been killed in the first three days of the deer hunting season, all records have been broken in Westmoreland county, District Game Protector U. L. Wright announced today. The bulk of the kill was near Ligonier.

Two hunters named Bitner and Baughman, lost in the mountains for two days, made their way into Somerset county. They suffered from exposure. A four-inch snowfall, frozen on the steep mountain sides, made hunting today hazardous.

BODY FOUND BELIEVED FLYING COUNT'S

ST. GEORGE'S BAY, N. F., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The body of an aviator, believed to be that of Count J. De Lessepps, was picked up today on the shore at Clam Bank Cove, near here. It had been in the water some time.

Count De Lessepps disappeared some time ago, while on a flight down the St. Lawrence valley.

St. Georges Bay is near the Southern end of the West coast of Newfoundland, fronting on the Gulf of St. Lawrence. This location makes it improbable that the body is that of any of the trans-Atlantic fliers who disappeared last summer while on their way to or from Newfoundland, as their courses would not have carried them so far from the East coast.

A plane coming down the St. Lawrence River, on the other hand, if it passed south of Anticosti Island in the gulf, would be headed direct for St. Georges Bay.

husband in Chicago and having spent most of the few hundred dollars left by Fitzpatrick when he disapepared, the mother brought her children to Pittsburgh, where she made her home with friends.

She says her devotion for her husband has never wavered and her greatest desire is to welcome his return. "I still love him and no matter what he has done, I want him to come back to me and his children. Little Jack cries himself to sleep every night, calling for 'his pop,' and Bobby looks on in wonder, being so young he hardly realizes what it is all about."

"I know who my husband is with. It was that woman who worked in his office in Cincinnati. He tried to get away from her there by having his company transfer him to Chicago, but it was no use—she followed him there.

"She wouldn't let him alone for a minute. She threatened to kill him, and when that failed to move him, threatened to kill the babies and myself unless he gave her his attention, and I know she put it into his head about writing that letter."

A brother, living in Philadelphia, has written her several times since she received the suicide threat, Mrs. Fitzpatrick says, and he is of the opinion that her husband carried out his threat. Canadian police have dragged the river and searched the district carefully, but no trace of Fitzpatrick's body has been found.

Fire Truck, Auto Ram; 2 Hurt

Two persons were injured, one seriously, when an auto and a fire truck of Engine Company No. 29 collided at North Homewood and Frankstown avenues today.

Clarence McDivitt, 21, of 7263 Hermitage street, suffered lacerations, and his companion, William Grundy, 22, of 7265 Mt. Vernon street, was rushed to the Pittsburgh Hospital in a serious condition from loss of blood and lacerations.

The truck was answering a call to Lincoln avenue and Joshua street. It proved a false alarm.

5 WOMEN DIE IN HOTEL FIRE; DEAF GIRLS SAVED

TWO NURSES INJURED IN LEAP FROM BUILDING

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Five women were known to have been killed, three persons were reported missing and seven persons dangerously injured in a fire early today which destroyed the rear section of the Buckingham Hotel Annex with a loss estimated at $170,000. Police feared other bodies were in the ruins.

The identified dead were:

MRS. LUTHER H. CONN.
MISS BESSIE GROAT, 33.
MISS MARIE L. SUSANKA, 45.
MISS MAY FRASER, a teacher.

Three nurses, two of whom jumped from windows on the fourth floor, were in a critical condition. They were Miss Myrtle Morris, 39; Miss Alice Gresham, 34, and Miss Bertha Lee, 21.

There were 118 guests in the two sections of the annex when the fire was discovered shortly before 3 a. m. Many ran to the street in night clothing. Others had to be rescued from their rooms by firemen, who used gas masks because of the dense smoke.

Among those sleeping in the hotel were 32 girls, pupils at the Central Institute for the Deaf. They were led to safety.

The hotel faces Forest Park.

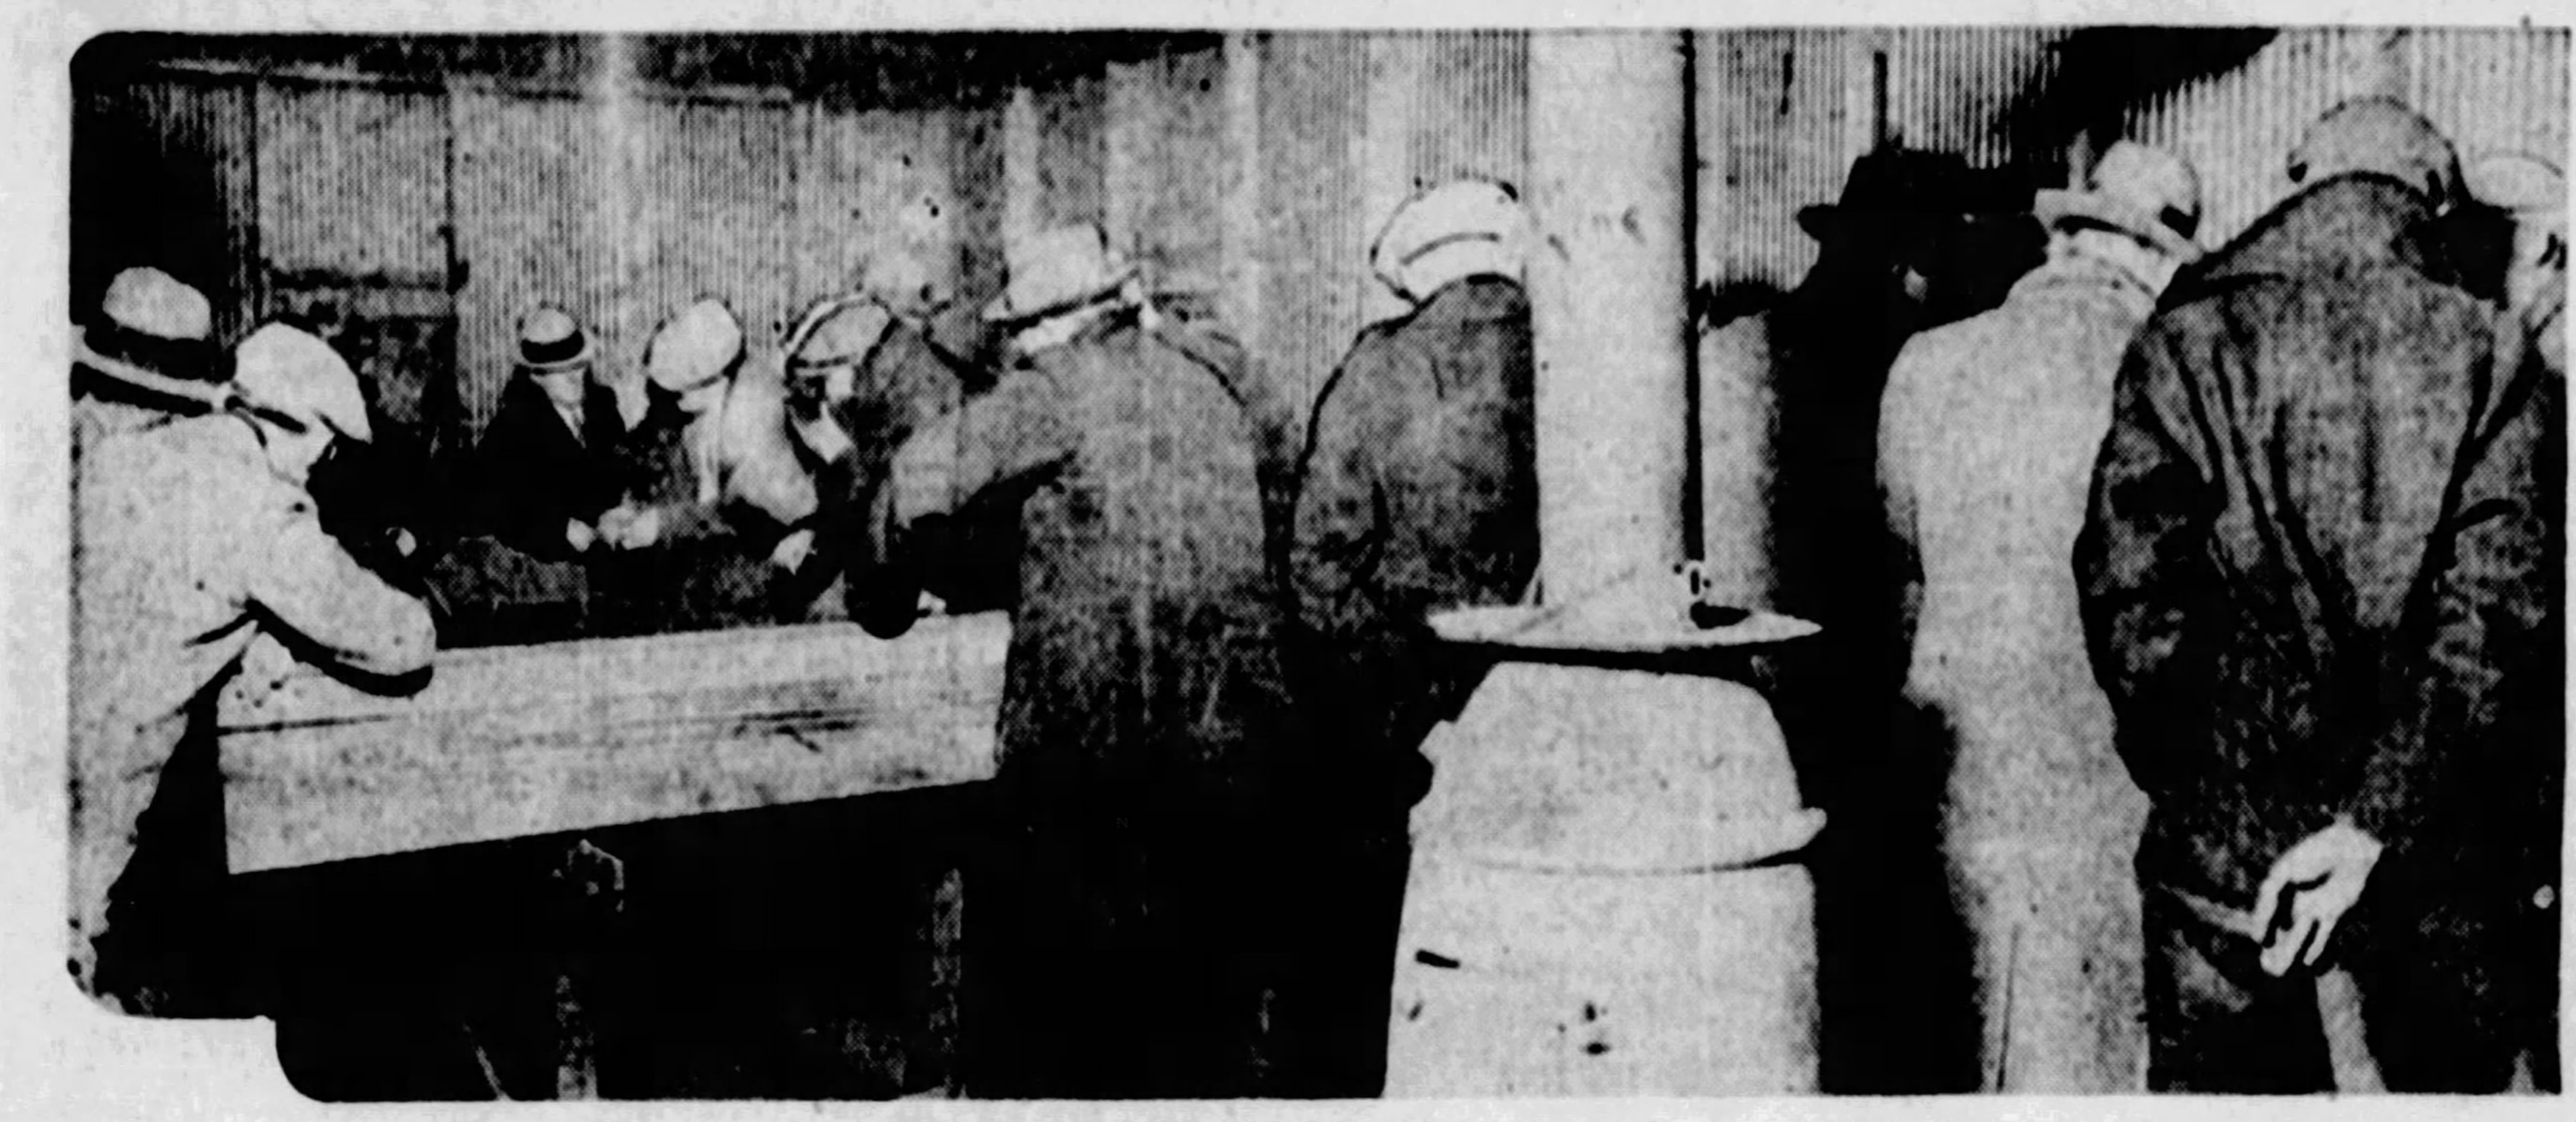
40 SUNDAY GAMBLERS -:- TRAPPED -:- ON "GOBBLERS KNOB"



IRON SHACK HOUSE BIG "GAME"

A large corrugated iron building, which boasted of a large sized "crap" table for the "big money boys;" a "blackjack" game for the smaller fry and a big coal stove for the unlucky who went broke early was raided yesterday by county detectives. Forty men were "caught with the goods." Photo above shows "the boys" crowded around the table and stove waiting for the county "Black Maria."

ALMOST GOT AWAY

One of the "customers" couldn't raise a $15 forfeit, so he tried to duck out a back window but was nabbed by Detective Alexander.

SO, THEY HAULED ANOTHER LOAD AWAY

All who were unable to "kitty out" $15 were given a ride to the jail house in the sheriff's limousine, shown above. Detectives said yesterday's raid was one of the year's largest in Allegheny county. They are looking for a man known as "Sure Thing" Walker, said to have been operating the place.

AUTO HITS HOTEL, ONE DEAD

After crashing through a drove of pigs in East Ohio street early today, an automobile swerved from the roadway and tore through the side of the Feskorn Hotel, 1900 East Ohio street, killing one of the occupants of the machine, injuring three others seriously and wrecking the hotel. A man driving the swine narrowly escaped being struck by the machine. Four of the animals were killed.

The dead man is William J. Anderson, of 21 Lanark street, North Side. Ernest Shatzell, driver of the machine, and George McAdams, both of Lanark street, and Joseph Stewart, of Leland avenue, are in the Allegheny General Hospital injured seriously. James Savage, of 1913 Denham street, escaped with slight injuries. All were occupants of the automobile.

It is believed that the driver of the car did not see the pigs until he was almost on top of them, and then turned the car to avoid striking more of the animals. When the automobile tore through the side of the hotel, a wooden building, it struck a chimney on the other side of the living room. The chimney toppled upon the men in the car.

MOTHER SAVES TOTS IN FIRE

Fire caused by an overheated furnace in the home of Mark Glavinic, 201 Robinson street, drove his wife and four small children from the house into the cold early this morning. Glavinic, before leaving for work, had built a fire in the furnace which, becoming overheated, ignited woodwork in the basement. The blaze was discovered by Mrs. Glavinic, who gave the alarm and carried the children from the house. Damage was $500.

M'KEESPORT MAN HURT BY FALL MAY DIE

Frank Maley, 57, of Sinclair street, McKeesport, is in the McKeesport Hospital in a serious condition as a result of a fall in the street near his home late Sunday night. Maley suffered a fractured skull and was unconscious until this morning. Police worked on the case for several hours, believing the man to have been the victim of footpads.

DENIES GIRL "LOVE CHILD"

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 5.—Josephine Haldeman-Julius, 18-year-old Girard (Kan.) High School girl, who became "famous" in a day in a companionate marriage November 23 to Aubrey Clay Roselle, 20-year-old college student, is not the "love child" of Mr. and Mrs. E. Haldeman-Julius, wealthy Girard publishers. She is the daughter of Jacob Wettstein, a Swiss immigrant miner.

Josephine long was known as the foster daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Haldeman-Julius, but after her marriage to Roselle, the publisher and his wife issued a statement saying she was their own daughter, born to them in New York, where they had lived together for six years before their marriage 12 years ago. Mrs. Haldeman-Julius, then Marcet Haldeman, was a student at Bryn Mawr College, and Haldeman-Julius, then known as Emanuel Julius, was an advertising salesman and Socialist writer.

The statement of Haldeman-Julius and wife, casting a cloud over the birth of Josephine, brought the real father forth from a coal mine near Girard Saturday night and, with fire in his eyes and bitterness in his voice, he charged that Haldeman-Julius had paid him "a sum of money" to say he had raised the girl for the publisher and to say she was not his own child. He charged that Mr. and Mrs. Haldeman-Julius had obtained the girl from him and his wife when she was 9 years old, through the Probate Court.

And yesterday the publisher, who was in Kansas City after his "remarriage" here Saturday night on a companionate basis, issued another and "final" statement admitting Josephine really is the daughter of Jacob Wettstein and wife.

DRIVER KILLED AS AUTO WRECKS NORTH SIDE HOTEL

MUTE EVIDENCE OF FORCE

An idea of the force with which the auto hit the building can be gathered from the size of the hole it tore in the side wall.

HOTEL'S DINING ROOM DEMOLISHED

William J. Anderson, 21, Lanark street, driver of the auto shown buried beneath this wreckage, was killed and three companions seriously injured. The car plunged into the Feskhorn hotel, 1900 East Ohio street, early today, through two partitions and into the dining rooms.

$2,400,500 Mexican Fund Used Secretly

municate to you that you will please order the sending of papers referring to the payment of the sum of $1,250,000 (one million two hundred fifty thousand dollars), transferred to the Financial Agency under your orders under date of July 10. These papers have not been received to date and they are demanded by the Citizen Controller General of the Nation for the closing of accounts for 1926.

This is communicated to you for your information and due compliance with this Presidential order.

EFFECTIVE SUFFRAGE NO RE-ELECTION

Pani Resigns

Senor Pani's resignation as Secretary of the Treasury followed hard on the heels of the letter of complaint sent by Elias. Pani was entirely too rigorous in his requirements for an accounting of national funds spent for ''secret purposes,'' and, in fact was opposed to paying them out from the Treasury for such purposes.

Government employes attached to the National Palace affirm that Calles and Pani had many violent disputes over huge expenditures of money for pro-Mexican and Communistic propaganda and for anti-American purposes, and that Pani proffered his resignation several times before it was finally accepted. They assert that Calles retained his recalcitrant Secretary of the Treasury for several months only because of the strong friendship existing between Pani and Obregon.

Elias' letter of complaint follows:

New York, N. Y.,
Dec. 30, 1926.
Senor Plutarco Elias Calles,
President of the Mexican Republic,
Mexico, D. F.
My dear brother:

This is to advise you that I have just returned from Chicago, where I went to inspect the presidential train, which could not be better or more perfectly finished. Everything is of the first quality. It will not be finished for at least two months, and for that reason I have resolved to postpone my visit to Mexico City in order to go in it.

Today I am writing to Pani (Secretary of the Mexican Treasury Department) saying to him that he ought to apply to the Executive for proofs of payment of the sums of money sent me for secret expenditures. During the whole of this month this Financial Agency has been receiving communications sent by subordinate employes of the Treasury Department asking me to report regarding certain sums which have been spent for SECRET PURPOSES in this country. I understand well that these employes are doing no more than to obey superior orders, and that he who gives these orders (Pani) is only doing so to prejudice me. I am enclosing herewith some of the communications received, and you may judge whether it is prudent that such missives should travel through the mail with the peril of being intercepted.

With a strong embrace and desiring you every happiness in this New Year,
Your Brother Who Loves
You,
AME/el.

"Friend Pani"

Senor Elias, on the same day he wrote President Calles, demanding that Pani be muzzled, addressed another letter to Pani himself, saluting the letter as "My very esteemed friend," and closing "As ever your affectionate, attentive friend and humble servant." The text, however, was sufficiently belligerent. It follows:

New York, N. Y.
Dec. 30, 1926.
Senor Don Alberto J. Pani,
Secretary of the Treasury and Public Credit.
Mexico, D. F.
My very esteemed friend:

I have just received a communication sent by the Treasury Department under your honorable direction, requesting of me proofs of payment of various sums of money totaling $2,400,500, sent to me during the course of the year, which terminates tomorrow.

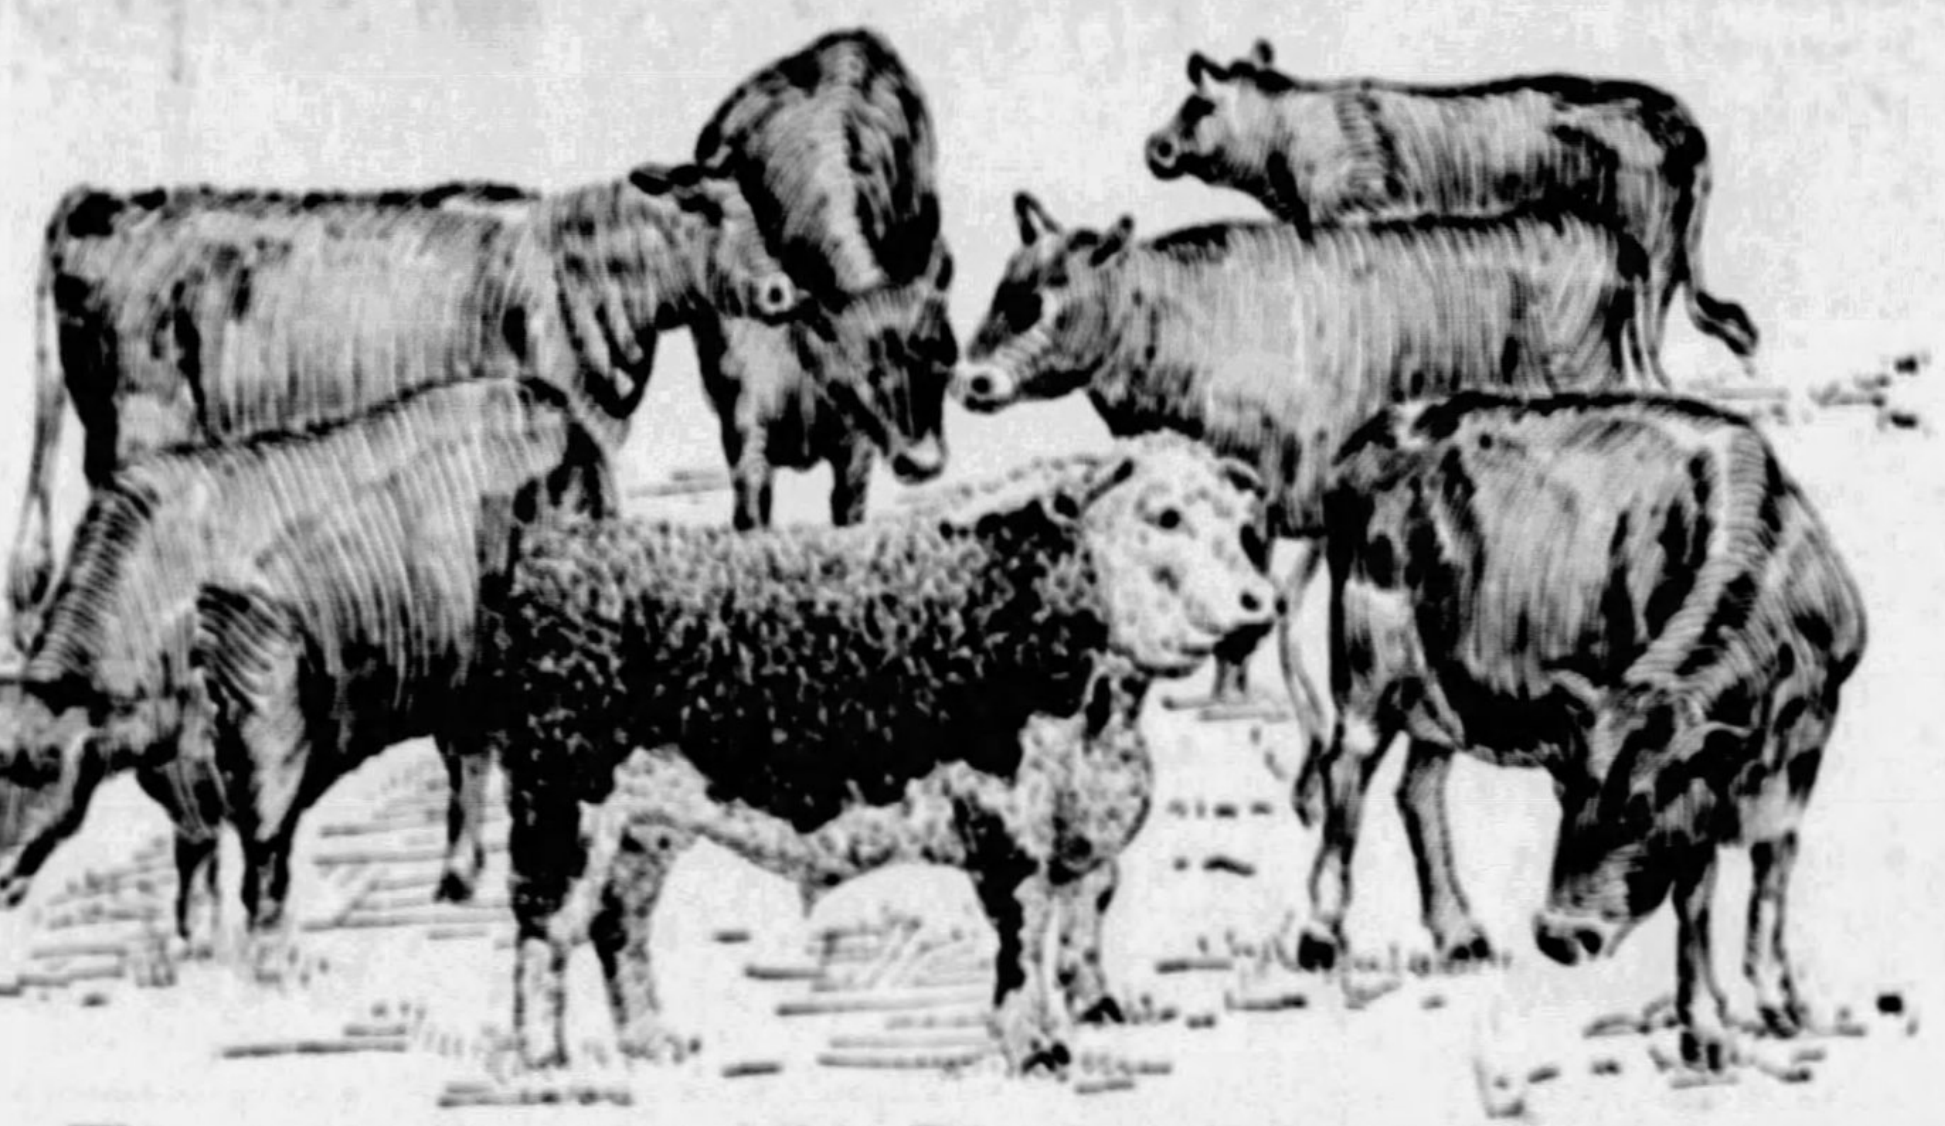
I must say to you that the text of the orders sent me indicates their SECRET CHARACTER, it being therefore utterly impossible to obtain receipts or other kinds of proofs in expenditures of such nature. As the communication of which I speak comes from an official of the department of accounting and revision of accounts, I shall be obliged if you will be so good as to order that in the future accounts of that nature, issued by order of the Executive, should be verified by application to the Executive himself, in Mexico City, and not by sending open letters to this Financial Agency, on account of the dangerous chance that they may be intercepted en route and cause an undesirable situation.

Not having any other matter of moment I remain as ever, your affectionate, attentive friend and humble servant,
AME/EL.

The American public will be informed, in succeeding articles of this series, how Senor Elias was ordered to dispose of a large part of the $2,400,500 fund spoken of in his letter to Pani.

Seventeen Grand Champion STEERS

In McCann's Diamond St. Annex
Come and See Them



The most unusual exhibit Pittsburgh has ever seen. Seventeen of the finest meat cattle produced in this country and Canada—every one a Grand Champion.

The Grand Champion carload of the International Live Stock Exhibit at Chicago—15 steers.

The Grand Champion Steer of the Canadian National Exhibit.

The Reserve Grand Champion Steer of the Royal Winter Fair of Canada.

We have assembled these interesting animals for your inspection at our Diamond Street Annex. They may be seen all this week.

Children will be interested to see where meat comes from and what can be accomplished by proper feeding and care. Exhibit open Friday evening until 9 P. M. for the kiddies' benefit; Saturday, 7 P. M.

These plump animals have been raised after the most scientific methods by Mr. E. P. Hall, who might be known as the "Champion Maker," because he has received more prizes than any other cattle exhibitor. He produced the Grand Champion carload in 1910-12-16-17-20-24 and 27, and has won many other class Championships.

Mr. Hall at McCann's Exhibit in Person

Mr. E. P. Hall, this famous cattleman, and Mr. Hopkins, his head herder, will be at McCann's, commencing Wednesday, remaining here until the end of the week to answer questions and explain to you anything you would like to know about these cattle or cattle raising.

Tune in on WCAE Thursday Night

Mr. Hall will speak over the radio at 7:45 Thursday evening and tell you some of his experiences in raising and "finishing" cattle for exhibition purposes. This should certainly be interesting, as Mr. Hall is without a doubt the leading cattle exhibitor in the country.

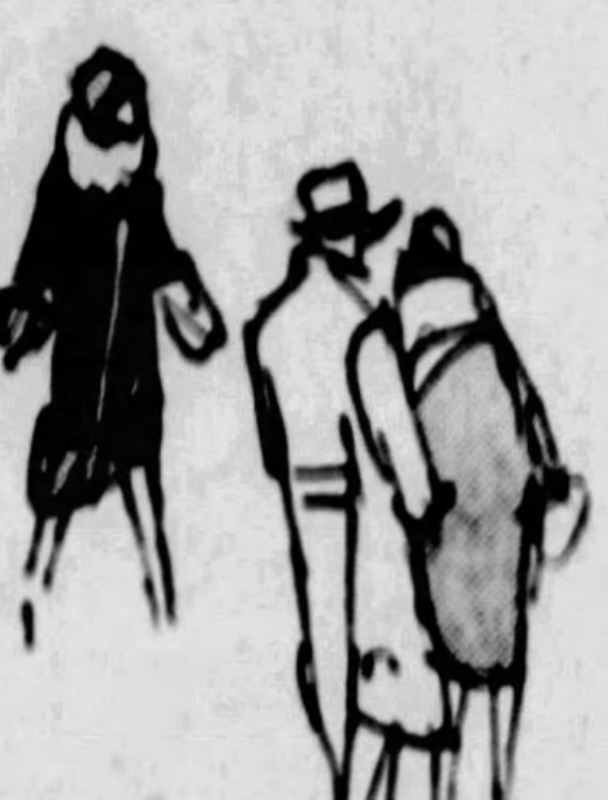
Joseph Horne Co.

CHRISTMAS STORE HOURS: 9 A. M. TO 6 P. M.

Spend Christmas Funds as Wisely as You Saved Them...



FROM a good bank to a good store... the logical step in investing in gifts which will yield the greatest returns in satisfaction and pleasure. The joys of anticipation may be turned to delightful realities at Pittsburgh's best place to shop, where thousands of gifts from the world over await your choosing.

JOSEPH HORNE CO.

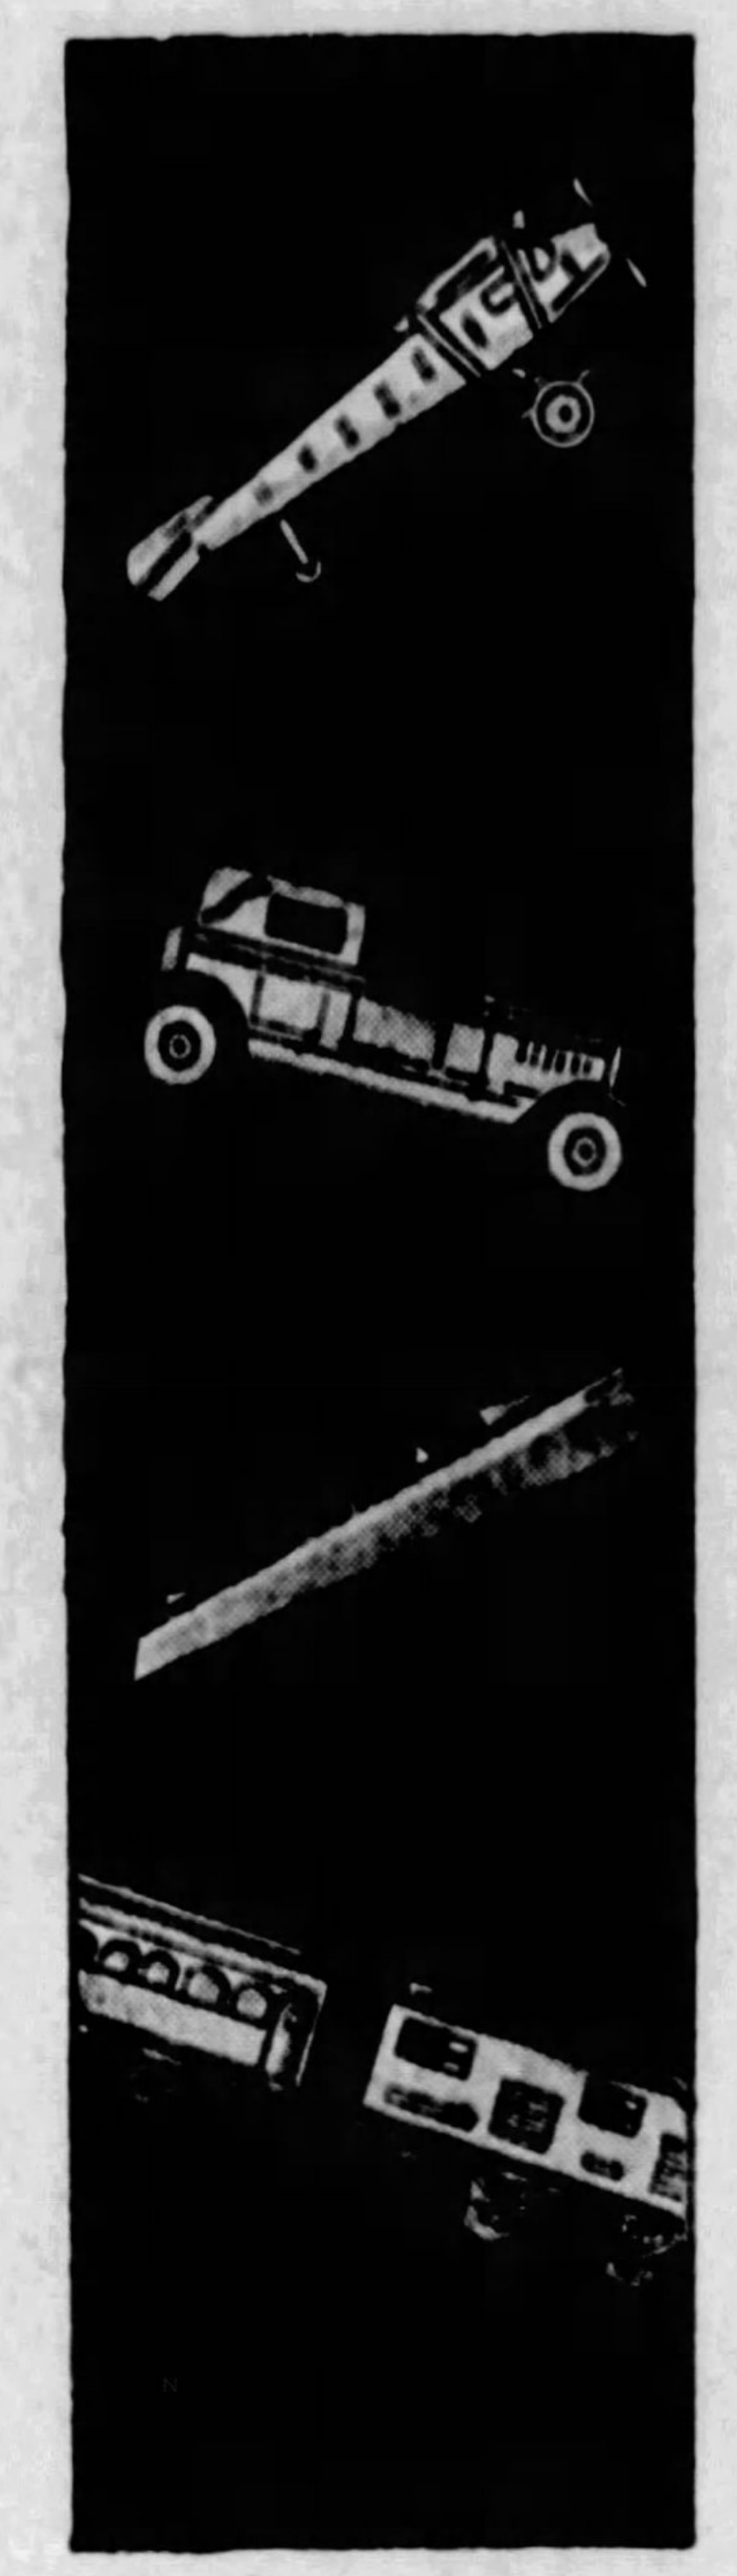
THE Fairy Ball, the fairy tale theme of our large corner window, is fascinatingly depicted in a silvery setting. Come see it, and bring the children.

SANTA'S Secretary will find out for you just what your friends would most like for Christmas, without revealing your identity. Consult her, on the Balcony.

Toys That Go....

Our Toy Department has scores of "toys that go"—it fairly hums with tiny motors—that go fast enough for the most energetic youngster.

Bring the children to see Santa—and get a letter from him.



Aeroplanes

The monoplane pictured is motor-driven and has three propellers, $2.25. Other models at $1.25 and $1.50.

Automobiles

Pressed steel motor-driven coupes, with rubber tires; attractively enameled. $2.95.

Boats

The "Miss America," sketched, is of mahogany, brass-trimmed; cuts through the water when wound. $5.00 and $7.50. Other boats, $4.25.

Trains

Speeding past is a Lionel electric train on a standard gauge track. It has three cars, all illuminated. Hours and hours of fun. $20.00.

The Baby's Shop

Is one of the prettiest spots in the entire Christmas Store. See it if there is a baby on your gift list. Much of its stocks come from abroad and are distinguished by the delicate colors and deft needlework in which France, England, Belgium and Italy excel.

One section is devoted entirely to novelties, many of which we are certain you have never seen before and which have no duplicates in Pittsburgh.

Your gift may be as inexpensive as you desire, but in every case it will be marked by exquisite good taste and charm, if it comes from Horne's.

"I SPY"

Being the observations of an adventuring Christmas Shopper in quest of the unusual.

A Poudreuse . . . seemingly a charming console table of brown mahogany in Sheraton design but when its top is lifted it exposes a mirror and all the compartments adapted to modern makeup—a powdering table. Obviously a gift for a young girl. $90.00. Sixth Floor.

Violets . . . that never die. A large bunch of them surrounded with crisp green leaves comes boxed in a miniature green hat-box and makes a shy, charming gift to that person on your gift list after whose name you have written "flowers." $4.50. Fourth Floor.

A Chaise Longue Cover . . . one of the loveliest ones imaginable. Of changeable orchid taffeta lined with gold satin and quilted by hand. A most captivating scalloped ruffle trims the edge and the under side reveals a pocket for the feet. A gift for leisure hours. $50.00. Fourth Floor.

Fireplace Accessories of antique bronze. They come from Belgium and are of sturdy, simple design, the only ornamentation being the large rosettes of bronze which surmount andirons and fireset. A gift for the hearth of that family you love. $55.00. Floor of Ideas.

George W. Deeds.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 5.—George W. Deeds, 63, of Ligonier, a former commissioner of Westmoreland county, died in the West Penn Hospital at Pittsburgh Sunday, following an operation. Mr. Deeds, a real estate operator, served two terms as county commissioner. He was elected to his first term in 1915. He leaves his widow, one daughter and two sons.

Richard Fenessy.

Richard Fenesey, 63, died Sunday in his home, 1104 Grandview avenue, Duquesne Heights. Mr. Fenessy was born in Ireland and came to the Pittsburgh district 40 years ago, where he had resided since. He was a member of St. Mary's of the Mount Catholic Church, the Holy Name Society and the Maccabees. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Kate Zone Fenessy, and two daughters, Mrs. J. Rogers and Mrs. Edna Miller.

$100,000 MANSION SOLD FOR $300 AND MORTGAGE

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 5.—T. B. Palmer's palatial residence on Beeson avenue today was sold, at sheriff's sale to Attorney John M. Core for $300, subject to a mortgage of $35,000 held by members of the Core family. It is estimated the residence is worth $100,000.

Trolley Conductors to Deliver Toys

Your trolley car conductor now is the right-hand man of Santa Claus. Beginning today you may place in his hands your gift of toys, dolls or books for the Toy Mission and the Sun-Tele Auxiliary, and the packages will be delivered without any further concern on your part.

Give your package of toys to the conductor when you go downtown in the morning, or on your way to the theater or the movie in the evening, and he will thank you for your generosity and take the bundle with other gifts to the carbarn where they will be collected by Sun-Tele trucks for delivery to the Mission.

Of, if you are not going downtown, just hail a street car and give your package to the conductor. He will do the rest.

Officials of the Pittsburgh Railways Company will co-operate with the Toy Mission and the Sun-Tele in the united effort which is being made to carry out the resolution that "no child in Pittsburgh shall be without a toy on Christmas." W. H. Boyce, commercial manager of the Railways Company, who arranged for the trolley-car collections, announced that the system of receiving packages would go into effect today and would continue until a few days before Christmas.

"We hope that trolley patrons will take advantage of the street car collections," said Mr. Boyce. "Our conductors are happy to do their share in helping the Toy Mission, and the people will find that carmen will be courteous and accomodating.

"If possible, however, packages should be securely packed and tied. This will facilitate ease in handling and will lessen the chances of breakage. Any conductor on any car line will accept packages for the Toy Mission. Donors will please remember also that the sooner toys are received, the more opportunity will be afforded the workers at the Mission to make repairs and assort them for the lucky children who will receive them."

While many persons will avail themselves of the Railways Company offer, the collections through the various agencies of the Sun-Tele will go on as usual.

FALL SUSTAINED IN ELK HILLS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Albert B. Fall, ex-Secretary of the Interior and central figure in the Teapot Dome conspiracy case, was sustained by the United States Court of Appeals today in one of his acts relating to the Elk Hills naval reserve.

Fall sustained, as Secretary, the validity of the Standard Oil Company's title to a portion of the Elk Hills reserve, and after the oil scandals broke Secretary of the Interior Work revoked the initial grant. The Standard sued for recovery and won in District Supreme Court, which decision was affirmed by the Appeals Court today.

SEEK ORDINANCE FOR BALDWIN TWP. SEWER

With the state health authorities pressing for action, an ordinance was introduced in Council today providing for an agreement between Pittsburgh and Baldwin township for the erection of a sewage treatment plant in the Glass Run drainage basin to be connected by a pipe line with the Thirtieth Ward, formerly Knoxville. The city is to pay 22.7 per cent of the cost, about $5,812, while the township is to pay the balance.

EDUCATIONAL LECTURE SERIES ENDS TONIGHT

The fourth and last of the special Monday night public addresses at the Manchester Educational Center, Chateau and Franklin streets, North Side, will be given this evening at 8:30 by Dr. Will Earhart, director of music of the public schools of Pittsburgh. His subject will be "The Gospel of Art." He will be introduced by Mrs. Stella Ladley, principal of the Manchester school.

BREAKING OUT OF BLISTERS

Over Top of Child's Head. Cuticura Healed.

"My little girl's trouble started with a breaking out of water blisters that spread all over the top of her head and around her eyes. She could hardly stand the irritation and used to scratch until the eruptions would bleed. Her hair fell out, and she could not sleep. I had to bandage her hands to keep her from scratching.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some and after using three boxes of Ointment and five or six cakes of Soap she was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Frank Allen, 308 Luzerne St., Scranton, Pa.

VOTE MACHINE OBJECTIONS ANSWERED

Martin L. Faust, assistant professor of political science in the University of Pittsburgh, today answered objections that have been raised to the adoption of voting machines by Pennsylvania. The question will come before the citizens in a proposed constitutional amendment to be passed upon at the next general election, and the campaign for and against is already under way.

In a carefully prepared formal statement, Prof. Faust aligned himself alongside of those who favor voting machines. Their specific advantage over paper ballots he summarized as follows: Voting is easier and quicker; secrecy in voting is more carefully safeguarded; spoiled and defective ballots are eliminated; the count of the votes is accurate; there is considerably less opportunity for fraudulent practice; election returns are immediate; election expenses are less. These advantages, he said, have been proved in places throughout the United States where the voting machine is in operation.

"A voting machine," says Prof. Faust, "is simply a multitude of adding machines so co-ordinated as to produce an accurate tabulation of the votes cast for candidates, constitutional amendments and other public questions. Just as the modern business man employs a cash register to secure speed, accuracy and honesty from his subordinates who handle his cash, so the modern citizen must employ a voting machine if he expects to secure speed, accuracy and honesty from the responsible agents handling his vote."

Prof. Faust deals with the expense of elections in the concluding part of his statement. He says:

"One of the objections to the installation of voting machines most frequently cited is the original cost involved in the purchasing of the machines. But those who complain of the cost fail to contrast the excessive cost involved in the use of the antiquated system of paper ballots. According to the annual report of the Controller, election costs borne by the county of Allegheny for the fiscal year ended December 31, 1926, totaled $461,269.

"Voting machines permit the consolidation of election districts, thereby eliminating the entire election expense of many districts. The machine does away with the paper ballot and the only printing expense incurred is for one set of labels for each machine and a few sample ballots.

"All of the work in a voting machine election district can be handled efficiently by three or four election officers, whereas, in paper ballot districts, six or more officials are generally required. Because of the fact that the work of election officials in voting machine districts is over within an hour after the polls are closed, it is readily apparent that competent officials can be secured for less compensation, since the machine eliminates the all-night ordeal of counting ballots.

"A recount under the paper ballot system frequently requires thousands of dollars and months of time. When voting machines are used, in a few hours and at small expense it is very easy to recheck the totals.

"The items of saving are in the aggregate more than sufficient to offset the capital expenditure for the machines."

SLAIN KIDNAPER OF GIRL BURIED

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 5—Burial of the body of Dante Diemichele, 27, known as James Dando, alleged kidnaper of Julia Vandetti, Pittsburgh girl, who was found murdered a week ago near New Bedfort, was mate in Graceland Cemetery in the presence of his brother, Serafina Diemichele and six friends from Pittsburgh. No service was held. Police are still making an effort to get some clue to the identity of the murderers.

NORTH SIDE GAS VICTIM DIES

SEIZED ALCOHOL TO HELP WAR ON BEETLES

The fight being waged by the government to exterminate the Japanese beetle, a foreign insect causing heavy damage to fruits and vegetation in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, will be carried on partly with 50 drums of contraband alcohol seized two years ago in Pittsburgh by the prohibition authorities, should the Federal District Court agree to a petition prepared by United States District Attorney John D. Meyer for turning over the 50 drums to the entomologist in charge of the Japanese Beetle Project at Moorestown, N. J.

The petition of the district attorney will ask also that 80 drums of alcohol be turned over to Postmaster George W. Gosser; two drums to the United States Bureau of Mines, 4800 Forbes street; 12 drums to the director of Public Buildings and Public Parks of the National Capitol, Washington; 80 drums to the United States Army Quartermaster, Third Corps Area, Baltimore, Md.; five drums to the United States Army Engineers, Philadelphia; 126 drums to the Lighthouse Service, Department of Commerce, and the balance of an eight-carload shipment seized in Pittsburgh in November, 1925, for the United States Navy yards at Philadelphia.

The alcohol involved, a matter of long litigation in the Federal District Court, was definitely condemned last week by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The alcohol had been unlawfully shipped from New York by the Republic Chemical Corporation as "woodstain" and "creosote," when F. C. Baird was prohibition administrator. The government contended that it had been consigned to Pittsburgh for bootleg purposes.

The alcohol sought for the postmaster would be used in the motors of mail trucks during the winter months.

Puts Neuralgics on Their Feet

New York Specialist's Prescription Amazes Hospitals and Physicians

DRUGGISTS GUARANTEE NURITO

So many thousands have found quick relief from neuralgia, neuritis, sciatica, lumbago and rheumatism thru Nurito that it has now become the standard relief throughout the world. It was discovered by a New York Specialist famous in the East for the speed at which his own prescription banishes pains and aches. He has finally been persuaded to place it at the disposal of the general public through drug stores everywhere. Nurito contains no opiates or narcotics and is absolutely harmless. He has authorized druggists to guarantee that a few doses of Nurito will stop the most intense pain even of many years' standing—or your money will be instantly refunded.

If you want to feel again the joy of living, banish needless agony, and sleep soundly at night, go to your druggist at once and ask him to let you try Nurito, under this money-back guarantee. At all drug stores and McCulloch drug stores.

FOUND, SAYS HE WAS ABDUCTED

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Missing since Thursday and reported to have been kidnaped for $75,000 ransom, Morris Roisner of St. Paul was found by police in a Loop hotel, where he said he had been held by abductors.

The police took Roisner to headquarters, where he insisted he had been kidnaped, declaring he thought that the abductors seized him after learning he had come to Chicago to purchase $100,000 worth of diamonds for a Milwaukee jeweler.

Hemorrhoid Sufferers

You Can End All Pile Misery Without Cutting or Salves

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting often fails?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood circulation in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by May Drug Co. and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, quick and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.

IF YOU HAD A NECK AS LONG AS THIS FELLOW AND HAD SORE THROAT ALL THE WAY DOWN TONSILINE The National Sore Throat Remedy SHOULD QUICKLY RELIEVE IT ALL DRUGGISTS

PISO'S

Quick Relief for that Cough—PISO'S is a pleasant, effective syrup used since 1864. Soothing—contains no opiates. 35c and 60c sizes.

Use PISO'S THROAT and CHEST SALVE with the syrup. Applied externally, it quickly penetrates. 35c.

NEW FORD CAR exceeds all expectations

Official announcement of new model last week created unusual interest throughout entire country

THE new Ford car has been on the market only a few days, but it has already created unusual interest throughout the country. Millions of people got the full details of it last week for the first time and were delighted with the story of its beauty, speed, comfort, safety and low price.

All day long and far into the night, great crowds gathered in hundreds of Ford salesrooms from Maine to Florida and from New York to San Francisco. Never has such interest been shown in a new car. Never has any new car so far exceeded expectations.

People knew that Ford was making a new car. They knew it was a good car. They had read announcements about it. But they had no idea it would be a car like this. Their quick appreciation of it is shown by the record-breaking sales.

NEW FORD TUDOR SEDAN

An example of the fine coachwork of the new Ford cars. New military-type sun visor and with crown roof. Narrow pillars and new door construction give unusual vision. Both front seats fold forward, giving easy access to rear seat. Ample space between seats. Your choice of four colors—an unusual feature in a low-price car. $495 (F.O.B. Detroit)

Greatest day in the history of the automobile industry

Thousands upon thousands of orders for the new Ford car have been received since last Friday. These and the advance orders placed with us by motorists even before the car was officially announced, will keep the entire Ford plant working day and night for weeks to come.

Such figures are a clear and unmistakable reflection of the value that has been built into the new Ford car. It is, without question, the outstanding purchase of all time in the light-car field.

Until you see the beauty of the new Ford car—ride in it—know the thrill of driving it easily and safely through thickest traffic or step it up to sixty and sixty-five on the open road, you cannot begin to appreciate the extent of the many mechanical improvements embodied in its construction. It is difficult to believe that so much speed, power, beauty, quiet, comfort and safety can be had at such a low price. It would be impossible if this new car were made by anyone but Ford.

THE NEW FORD PHAETON

Another long, low, roomy car. All four doors open forward. Curtains open and close with doors. Side curtains have unusually large windows. Your choice of four artistic colors.

Only Ford could sell such a fine car at such a low price

The low price of the new Ford car and its exceptional performance are the result of manufacturing practices and economies as unusual as the car itself. The new Ford is more than a new automobile. It is a new idea in modern, economical transportation.

By all means, take a little while today to learn about this new automobile. You will know that there is nothing quite like it anywhere in quality and price.

LAUNCH "DIME-DOLLAR" DRIVE FOR COOK FOREST

Y. M. H. A. TO HOLD SMOKER TONIGHT

A men's smoker, at which the principal entertainment will be provided by a musical comedy company, will be held this evening in the Morris Kaufmann Memorial Auditorium of the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association, South Bellefield avenue. In addition to the feature number several vaudeville acts and skits will be given by "Y" members. This is the first of a series of entertainments.

EX-U. S. ATTORNEY TO BE SPEAKER HERE

Former United States Attorney General George W. Wickersham will speak at the sixteenth annual luncheon of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania in the William Penn Hotel, January 14, George R. Bedinger, a director of the organization, said yesterday. Mr. Wickersham is a native Pittsburgher and at one time was president of the American Bar Association. He now resides in New York.

Hope to Raise Needed $70,000 by Christmas

The public's reaction to the news that the purchase of the Cook Forest by the commonwealth is far from assured, notwithstanding that the Legislature at its last session appropriated $450,000 for the purpose, has inspired promoters of the project with confidence that the $70,000 yet to be collected before the 8,200-acre tract of virgin woodland can be turned into a state park soon will be raised. An effort is to be made to get small contributions, dimes or dollars, from a great number of persons of modest means, and the hope is entertained that the drive will "go over the top" before Christmas. For taxation reasons it is important that the deal be consummated before January 1. The Cook heirs, who have been waiting for 20 years for the state to take over the property, are becoming restless.

The Cook Forest contains the largest stand of virgin white pine east of the Mississippi River. The timber alone is reported to be worth more than the $650,000 the owners are asking for the property. Nearly 20 years ago, during Gov. Edwin S. Stuart's administration, the Legislature passed an act creating a commission to inquire into the desirability of purchasing the Cook Forest. Experts employed by the commission estimated the amount of timber in the forest at 41,000,000 feet, board measure, and, figuring the value of the white pine stumpage at $16 a thousand, the hemlock at $12, the oak and chestnut at $8 and the other hardwoods—beech, birch, ash, maple, cherry and basswood—at $5, they found the property was worth the price then asked for it, $600,000.

Timber prices have soared since then, and the amount of wood in the trees has increased with growth. Based on a more recent survey, the estimate is offered that there are 51,000,000 board feet of salable timber in the tract today, and that it is worth more than $1,000,000 on the stump.

But the venerable pines are regarded as worth far more for their recreational value as living trees than for saw mill purposes. And it is on that account that the effort is being made to save them and make the forest a great public playground. It offers every facility for such use. Hundreds of camp sites are available. Lovers of nature will find innumerable attractions. Already a great mass of information concerning the natural resources of the forest has been obtained, against the day when it will be turned over to the people of Pennsylvania as a park. Bayard Christy, the ornithologist, has been studying the birds. Dr. O. E. Jennings, professor of botany in the University of Pittsburgh, has been investigating the flora.

The present status of the campaign to save Cook Forest was thus described today by Arthur E. Braun, a director of the association having the matter in charge:

"About two-thirds of the $200,000 to be contributed has been subscribed. The work has been done quietly by a few men comprising the board of the Cook Forest Association.

"The response of those who have been solicited was such as to indicate their strong approval of the effort to save these historic trees, and, while the last one-third is usually the most difficult to secure, we have every confidence that the people of Western Pennsylvania will contribute what is still required to save this last remnant of the original Penn's woodland.

"It is desirable that as many small subscriptions be made as possible. They should be sent to Thomas Liggett, secretary of the Cook Forest Association, 328 Fourth avenue, Pittsburgh."

N. Y. EXPERT TO GIVE HEALTH TALK HERE

Health students and others interested in the subjects of diet and natural healing were looking forward today with keen interest to the talk to be given here tonight by Dr. William Howard Hay, the noted New York authority.

Dr. Hay is to speak at the Second Presbyterian Church under auspices of the Pittsburgh Health Club, but the general public is also invited to attend.

An added feature of the evening will be a discussion of the recommendations made by the Pittsburgh Health Club to the state on the subject of proposed revision of the state health laws.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Death and Illness Strikes Somber Note and Causes Postponement of Social Functions

A SOMEWHAT somber note is struck in Pittsburgh's social world today with announcement of the cancellation of three parties on account of death or illness in the family. All three affairs were arranged in honor of debutantes, and two, at least, were to be quite large parties.

Mrs. Samuel Davis Foster of Marlborough avenue was to have given a luncheon today in the Pittsburgh Country Club for 50 guests in honor of Mary Currier Lewis, a prominent bud of the season. This event has been canceled because of the illness of Mr. Foster's brother, David A. Foster.

Because of the serious illness of their brother, B. Reed of Wheeling, W. Va., the William McK. Reeds have postponed indefinitely the dinner they were to have given on December 10 for Juliet Hillman, another of the season's buds.

Because of the death of Margaret Brainard's grandfather, Ira F. Brainard, Mrs. W. Harry Brown has postponed the ball she had planned for December 15 in honor of her debutante niece.

Quite the outstanding event of the week-end for the younger set was the interesting dinner the William E. McKelvys of Westminster place gave Saturday evening for their daughter, Christine Latimer McKelvy, in the Pittsburgh Golf Club. Although Christine's parents are not bringing her out this year, she has been much entertained.

The junior John M. Tates of Sewickley attended the wedding Saturday of their niece, Virginia Tate, daughter of the Dale S. Tates of Springfield, to Horace Carleton of New York, which was an event of Saturday. The ceremony was performed in the Faith Congregational Church of Springfield. Mr. and Mrs. Carleton will reside in New York. The marriage is of interest to members of both Pittsburgh and Sewickley society, many of whom know the bride.

Miss Marie and Miss Anne Nevin of Edgeworth have as their guest their cousin, Mrs. Ethelbert Nevin of New York and Blue Hill, Me. Mrs. Nevin arrived in the Sewickley Valley Saturday, I believe.

Despite the attentions showered upon the debutantes, the sub-debs are not cast into limbo as far as social life is concerned, for they have their own parties and have, moreover, all the delights of the debutante age to anticipate. That charming sub-deb, Barbara Irwin, daughter of Henry Taylor Irwin of "Twin Hollows," Edgewood, was one of the guests at a week-end luncheon given by Mrs. James M. Charles, of New York, at Sherry's, for her sub-deb daughter, Mary de Peyster Charles. Barbara is, I hear, a classmade of the honor guest at the Shipley School, Bryn Mawr.

The school set always believes in making the most of its vacations, and during this holiday season the boys and girls home for a precious two or three weeks are going to entertain much and be much entertained. An important event in the life of this group of society will be a dance Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Evans will give Christmas Eve in the University Club, the scene of many a merry Yuletide ball. The honor guest, as you might expect, is their second daughter, Laura Salisbury Evans. Laura is one of the popular Farmington girls.

A number of dinners will precede the dance, I hear, and among these will be a small dinner the George A. Kellys will give in the University club for Mrs. Kelly's sub-deb sister, Anne Douglas Stewart, daughter of Mrs. Douglas Stewart. The guests at the dinner will be, of course, members of the school set, all of whom will go later to the Evans ball. Anne, like Laura Evans, is a Farmington girl. Her parents expect her to arrive in the city on December 23.

An interesting event to precede the holiday season will be a tea Mrs. Benjamin Gilbert Follansbee and Mrs. William Uhlers Follansbee will give in the Twentieth Century Club December 14 in honor of the new member-to-be of their family, Elizabeth Lewis, daughter of Mrs. Laura Fawell Lewis of Amberson avenue, who came out a season or so ago. Elizabeth's marriage to John Haynes Follansbee, son of the John Follansbees, will be an event, you will remember, of February 2.

Interesting to a number of their friends and relatives here is word that Mr. and Mrs. William Thaw III, of Fifth avenue, New York, are planning to give a large dinner dance New Year's Eve in the ballroom of the Madison Hotel, New York, for their daughter, Virginia. The Thaws have postponed bringing Virginia out for another two years.

The marriage of Miss Mary Jane Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur John Smith, of Millbridge street, Allentown, South Side, and Melroy Charles Schnupp, of the South Side, was solemnized last Wednesday morning in the United Presbyterian Church, Fourteenth and Bingham streets, by the Rev. W. Simpson.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Lillian Mae Cargo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Cargo, of Woodlawn avenue, and Jesse Reynolds Oakley, of Edgewood, which was solemnized November 23 in the Cargo home by the Rev. J. C. Matteson. Miss Elsie Cotterill, of Edgewood Acres, was maid of honor and Ralph Cargo, brother of the bride, was best man. Mrs. James Wright played the wedding music and Mr. Wright sang. A dinner followed the ceremony. After a southern motor trip, Mr. and Mrs. Oakley will be at home in Franklin avenue, Wilkinsburg.

About 80 children are quartered in the Jewish Home for Babies and Children, for whose benefit the annual ball and dance is to be held Wednesday night in Syria Mosque. In addition to the various booths one of the features of the ball will be the tea garden under the supervision of Mrs. Max Luskin and Mrs. Max Danowitz.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hansen, of Grenet street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Florence Elizabeth Hansen, to Howard Merle Barnum, of Pittsburgh, son of Mrs. John Merton Barnum, of Miami, Fla. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mrs. J. E. Humes, of Eastern avenue, Aspinwall, entertained with a bridge-luncheon Saturday afternoon in her home in honor of her daughter, Miss Vera Humes, who has selected December 31 as the date for her marriage to Harold Winters, son of Dr. Alonzo D. Winters, of Philadelphia. Seven tables were in play.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thacker Herr, of Academy road, Merion, Pa., announce the marriage of their daughter, Muriel Herr Churchill, and Ivins LaRue Browne, of Hartford, Conn., which was solemnized Friday, November 25, in Hartford.

COLLEGE CLUB TO HEAR OF AROUND WORLD TRIP

A line in the College Club Bulletin for December is likely to catch the attention of every member. This line—"Miss Brown was able to visit and picture many places not ordinarily seen" is in comment of the motion picture which Miss Agate Brown will show to the club members on Friday, illustrative of her trip around the world. The tea hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. P. C. Hodfil, Mrs. William H. Hetzel, Mrs. Newell G. Alford, Mrs. O. B. Opsion and Mrs. K. R. Cunningham.

As a Christmas benefit for the children of the explosion sufferers, the pupils of Miss Matilda Orr Hays will give a recital tonight in the Congress of Clubs. On the program, which will be opened with the salute to the flag by Mrs. Eliza J. Moore.

Paul Leyssac, New York diseur, will appear before the Alliance Francaise of Pittsburgh in the Twentieth Century Club Thursday night, December 15. M. Leyssac's program will take the place of the lecture scheduled for tonight which had to be cancelled on account of the death of Emile Villemin, official conferencier.

Mrs. Robert Hood, of Wainbell avenue, Dormont, will entertain the Lincoln Park Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle at a buffet luncheon in her home tomorrow afternoon. The junior circle will meet Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Charles H. Good, Hastings street, East End.

A silk flag was presented to the Liberty School by the Parent-Teacher Association this afternoon. The occasion was a frolic at which mothers of the pupils were guests and at which Miss Cortula Loose told Christmas stories and Mrs. A. B. Blocksidge had charge of the musical numbers.

Members of the evening department of the Woman's Club of Aspinwall will meet tomorrow night to make Christmas stockings for the Lawrence kindergarten. A program of entertainment has been arranged by Mrs. John Duff and Miss Sara Tesh and Mrs. H. L. Lang is to be chairman of hostesses.

The Wilkinsburg Civic Club has changed the date for its Christmas party and will hold it Thursday afternoon of this week instead of next week. The meeting will, of course, be in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel. Mrs. Bertha Gross King will direct a program of Christmas caroling and toys for the poor children of Wilkinsburg will be collected.

How 20 Neediest Cases Money May Be Sent

Designate the particular case you wish to help.

Checks or money orders should be made payable to the "Twenty Neediest Cases Fund" and sent to The Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., or to the following co-operating organizations.

The Associated Charities of Pittsburgh, Fulton Building.

The Catholic Charities, Diocese of Pittsburgh, Wabash Building.

The Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, 428 Duquesne way.

The Salvation Army, 425 Second avenue.

The Volunteers of America, Volunteer Building, Pittsburgh.

GROUP GIVING HELPS NEEDY

contribution that he feels he can afford deter him from doing something to help the poor old folk, the widows and orphans, the sick and crippled fathers whose families constitute the Twenty Neediest Cases.

ORGANIZATIONS AID

But the fund can be swelled by inviting the co-operation of one's fellow-employes, or fellow-members in an organization, in the good work. This has been done in a number of instances already. For example, there came a check with the following letter:

"This is a contribution to this worthy cause from the Pittsburgh Postoffice Finance Bowling League. The Sun-Telegraph has the best wishes of the members of the league in its efforts to scatter Christmas cheer among these unfortunate people."

Another check, from a girl, was accompanied by a note to the effect that it represented the collective giving of a group of five. They all had been saving money for a year through a Christmas saving club in one of the banks, and on getting their deposits with interest a few days ago they decided that each would contribute something to the Twenty Neediest Cases. The fund that they thus pooled will bring comfort and joy to some of the poor souls that are to receive the benefit of the girls' benevolence.

The Twenty Neediest Cases have been reported by the Associated Charities, the Catholic Charities of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, the Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America. Checks and money orders should be made payable to the "Twenty Neediest Cases Fund" and sent to The Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., or, if preferred, to one of the societies named.

CASE NO 8

All of the 20 cases were described in The Sunday Sun-Telegraph of November 27. One case will be repeated each day. Here is case No. 8:

Is $12 a week sufficient to support a widow with seven children under 15 years of age? The widow has high blood pressure, two of the children have seriously defective vision, and one is in need of a major operation. And that is the only income Mrs. W has. Her husband was killed in a mine accident; because she receives workmen's compensation she is ineligible for mothers' assistance and yet she cannot work herself.

Mrs. W herself was reared in an orphan asylum and is determined that none of her children shall be robbed of parental love and inspiration, which cannot be supplied in any institution.

The children are well mannered, devoted to their mother, but are becoming bewildered at the sudden change in fortune.

(Reported by the Catholic Charities of the Diocese of Pittsburgh.)

Case No. 9 will be described tomorrow.

S. S. MERCHANTS TO ERECT TREE

A community Christmas tree will be erected by the South Side Business Men's Association at South Tenth and Carson streets, it was decided at the annual meeting of the association. Plans for the annual banquet in January were made.

POURS HOT SOUP OVER WIFE

Badly beaten and scalded, Susie Kremush, 38, of 2943 Mulberry way, is in St. Francis Hospital in a serious condition today after a quarrel with her husband, John Kremush, late Saturday afternoon. Hot soup was the weapon used in the argument.

According to Mrs. Kremush, when her husband returned home Saturday evening she requested that he give her $5 with which to do some shopping. Becoming enraged, he beat her with his fists and poured hot soup over her. Kremush, when arraigned in Morals Court before Magistrate A. D. Brandon, was ordered held over.

POWDER, MATCH, BOY IS DEAD

Alex Po[illegible], 4, of Lovedale Hollow, Elizabeth, died Sunday in McKeesport Hospital. Late yesterday, playing in the rear yard of his home, he found that black powder in a can and lighted matches form a dangerous combination.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.
U.S. Senator from New York

Sound Habits Help Irregular Hearts.

A PERFECT machine is smooth and regular in its running. If it is jerky, suddenly stopping and starting, or if it is noisy, you suspect trouble of course.

DR COPELAND

The perfect heart is regular in its pulsations, going steadily along, quite deliberate in its action. If the pulse drops a beat now and then, is painfully slow, or suddenly develops speed like a race-horse, the symptom deserves attention.

I do not mean by this that one of these happenings is a sign of something dangerous. It may be a passing thing and of no consequence whatever. Indeed, it may be a chronic and ever-present condition and yet be of little importance.

It is not at all uncommon to find a person in pretty good health who has considerable irregularity of the heart's action. The doctors give it a long, hard name—"arrhythmia." Of course, in simple language, this means nothing more than lack of rhythm.

It is not at all an uncommon thing to find that the pulse of young children and young adults, too, is quite irregular. As they grow older, the heart settles down to perfect regularity.

After a severe attack of one of the fevers, the heart's rhythm may be disturbed for a time. Great care must be taken after diphtheria and influenza. These diseases have a tendency to attack the heart muscles and to damage it seriously. The other fevers disturb the heart, but do it little real harm. The loss of rhythm is restored when recovery is complete.

Most of what we call the "functional irregularities" disappear as soon as the victim exercises vigorously. When I was a young doctor I was a United States pension examining surgeon. One of my associates on our board was a wonderful doctor. He knew more about the heart than any other physician I ever met.

The examining board met in my office on the third floor of the building. When we had an ex-service man with an irregular heart, my colleague would direct him to run down the stairs to the street and return at once.

It was surprising how many disturbed and irregular hearts would become steady as a clock after this rather strenuous exertion.

Of course, seriously involved hearts would not be benefited by exercise. On the contrary, violent effort is likely to do harm. The irregularity may be greatly increased by it.

Dyspepsia, anemia, excessive nervousness, the abuse of liquor, tobacco, tea or coffee, overworry and overwork—these are among the causes of irregular action of the heart. Plenty of sleep and out-of-door life will help to restore health. Nothing is more important than the chewing of proper food with good teeth and leading the sort of life we call "sensible living."

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, and emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

RITZY ROSEY has quite an armful. . . . However, he's only a doll, even though twice the size of his holder. It's quite the thing to have one of these giant-like creatures patterned after the "boy friends" or your favorite movie star. Of course, it would be a little disconcerting to bump into one of them in a dark room, so perhaps it's as well that they are just a fad. And if you don't care for the big ones, there are some small enough to pose on the dressing table.

Current fashions are strongly featuring lace, in cream, ecru and rose beige shades. Back panel berthas with small, rounded front collars, oval-shaped, frilled-edge, plastrons extending nearly to the belt, and vestees are extensively worn, and usually have matching cuffs.

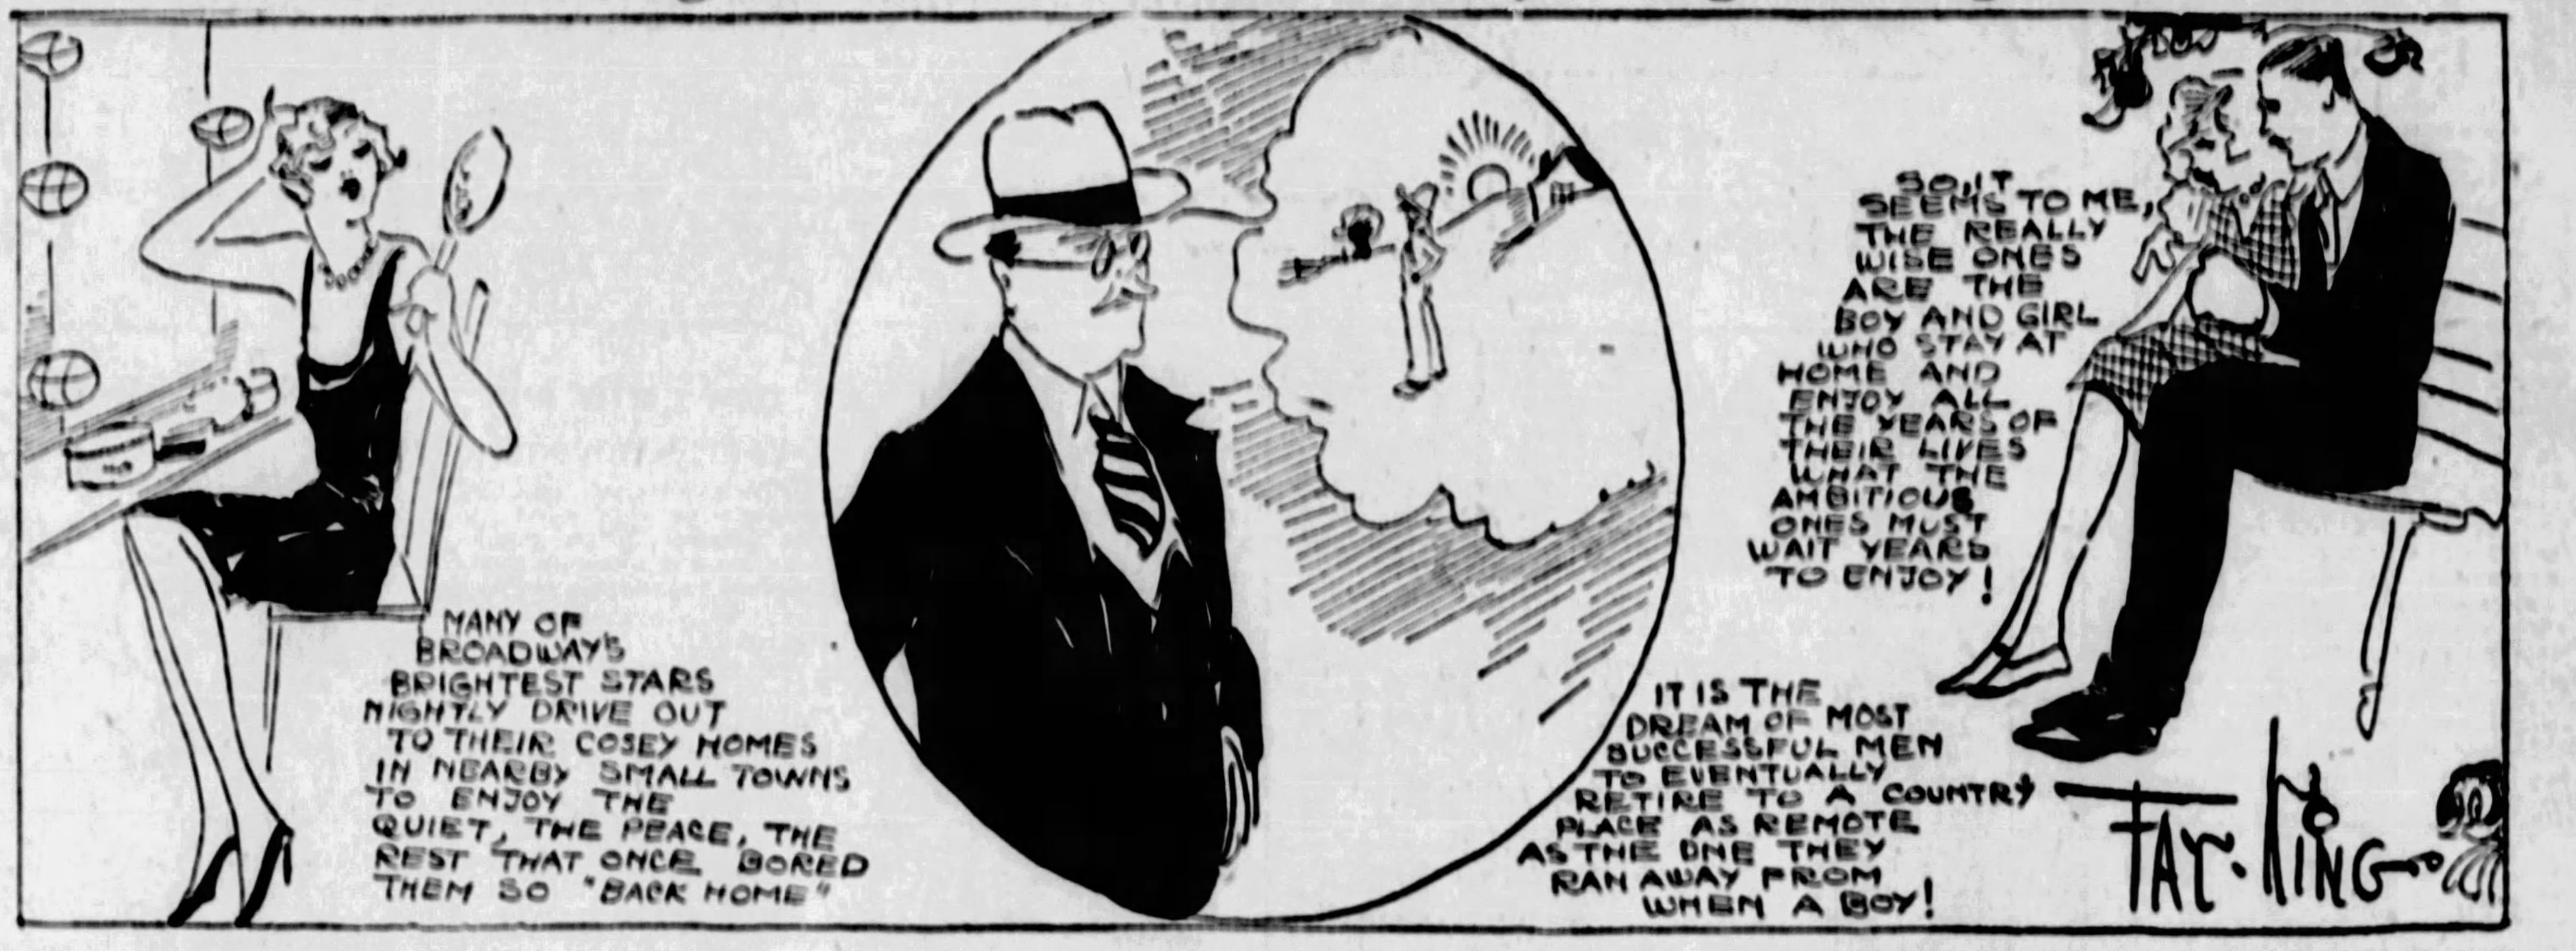
Success Only a Detour in Life, Fay King Proves



MANY OF BROADWAY'S BRIGHTEST STARS NIGHTLY DRIVE OUT TO THEIR COSEY HOMES IN NEARBY SMALL TOWNS TO ENJOY THE QUIET, THE PEACE, THE REST THAT ONCE BORED THEM SO "BACK HOME"
IT IS THE DREAM OF MOST SUCCESSFUL MEN TO EVENTUALLY RETIRE TO A COUNTRY PLACE AS REMOTE AS THE ONE THEY RAN AWAY FROM WHEN A BOY!
SO IT SEEMS TO ME, THE REALLY WISE ONES ARE THE BOY AND GIRL WHO STAY AT HOME AND ENJOY ALL THE YEARS OF THEIR LIVES WHAT THE AMBITIOUS ONES MUST WAIT YEARS TO ENJOY!
FAY KING

By FAY KING.

SUCCESS is often just a big detour back to the things we were so willing to leave.

The train pulls through a little Western one-street town, and we see the small boy standing at the station looking longingly after the ribbon of steel that wends its way to the far places he longs to see.

He grows older. He hates the small town with its limitations.

He starts to seek his fortune.

He thrills with the adventures of big cities.

For a time the struggle is hard and sometimes hopeless, but eventually success is his.

And then what becomes of his ambition in life?

To move to some small city.

To get away from the grind and crowds. He buys a country place and is never so happy as when he sits under the big trees and listens to the birds and crickets that once bored him so!

And as it is with the boy, so these days it is with the girl.

Girls, too, go out into the world to seek their fortune and find success.

The little miss in her faded pink dress stands beside the boy in his faded blue overalls, and, too, has dreams of towering skyscrapers and Broadway fame. She, too, leaves the farm, and may in time find her name in lights on Broadway.

And after she is satiated with Paris gowns and applause she, too, returns to the quiet of a country place.

A quiet, cozy retreat is the ultimate goal of nearly every successful person. So that if we compare the end with the beginning, we often find that the glittering highway was only a long detour from the country path they loved best after all.

Simple Vamping

(Lesson One.)

By HELEN ROWLAND

DOES "IT" MATTER,

NOT every girl can have "IT." Because "IT," like a sense of humor, or blue eyes, cannot be cultivated. You have to be born with it!

But there are lots of substitutes for "It," which the average man cannot distinguish from the real thing; and one of these is a good, ready line of "pet names."

* * *

Any girl who knows just how, when and where to apply a tender nickname, can start a man's imagination working.

HELEN ROWLAND

For instance, there is "Lamb-pie!" Just what there is about this idiotic appellation, which goes straight to the softest spot in a man's heart and buttons up the back, heaven only knows. But "Lamb-pie" or "Lamb" judiciously placed has such a "mothering" sound that it never fails.

Another favorite with coo-ey little girls is "Angel Face" or "Angel Cake." Young men look rather sick when you call them that—it is so gooey—but almost any man over forty can be melted by it.

"Handsome" is a sobriquet that has to be used carefully and skillfully. It will make a man tingle with pleasure if there is the slightest excuse for it. But if he has a face "that only a vegetarian could love" and a figure like that of a brass Buddha, naturally it makes him suspicious that you may be kidding him, and NO man can stand being killed.

"Nice Man!" is always an effective and infallible appellation. You can use it on anybody from your lawyer or your butcher to your boss with telling results. It has a particular charm for sheiks and Don Juans—perhaps because they are NOT so nice.

The one perfect formula for beginning a note of thanks is "Dear Santa Claus." Santa Claus is every man's favorite role; and once you have elected him to that, he will wish he had sent you seven dozen roses instead of only two dozen, and a limousine instead of a cigaret holder.

"Prince Charming," if you are that kind of a girl, will inspire any man to propose to you within 24 hours, and make the fairy tale come true. Every man would like tobe SOME women's "Prince Charming."

"Big Boy," before it became so popular and so commonplace, was an awfully safe bet. The "big" thrilled the young ones with a sense of masterfulness and made them want to patronize and "protect" you. And the "boy" gave the older ones hope that perhaps they WERE only as old as they felt.

* * *

"Darling," "Sweetie" and "Honeyboy" have passed into the discard with yesterday's seven thousand sentimental follies. But, the girl who can invent her own original line of "pet-names" and use them with discretion and telling effect, won't need any "IT" to make her popular.

FOR QUALITY
WHITE HOUSE COFFEE and TEA

FOR THE LOVELORN

Discouraged

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a constant reader of your column and must say that your advice is very good. I am 26 years old. Four years ago I was engaged to a girl. We had the date set and plans all made to be married, but through the influence of some of her girl friends she started to smoke and to drink. Of course, she thought it was all right. When I tried to show her it was not right she would get angry and tell me I was a wall flower. I soon got discouraged in her and broke our engagement. Since then I have met many girls, but the majority of them seem to think they must smoke and pet to attract the opposite sex, which is far from right. I have not seen this girl for three years, but recently she wrote me three letters asking that I would forgive her as she now sees where she was wrong. She says that she would like me to come and see her. What would you advise me to do? She is the only girl I ever cared for, but since I have not seen her for so long I do not care so much now.

DISCOURAGED.

Go back and see her anyway, Discouraged. Perhaps you still love her in your heart of hearts. You must, since you have never found another girl who interests you.

Wondering

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a constant reader of your column and think it gives wonderful advice to some girls. This is the first time I have written and here is my trouble: I was going steady with a boy for some time and just before I went away I met another one. When I went away I wrote to both boys and from the one that I had been going with did not get an answer. He claimed he never received my letter. The one that I just met is just three years and one day older and he wrote and wants to marry me when everything is o. k. Mother is always wanting me to go with the fellow that never wrote, but I think that if he cared anything for me he would have written, don't you? Now since I have been back I saw him once, but I hardly spoke to him. Did I do the right thing? Is it all right to make a promise to a fellow if you intend to marry him some day. I am a girl in my teens, but mother permits me to go with fellows.

WONDERING.

Give the boy the benefit of the doubt, my dear. If he seems still to like you, continue your friendship with him. Perhaps he was quite hurt by thinking you did not like him well enough to write to him.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Tuesday, December 6.

THE astrological testimonies for this day may be interpreted as weak. There is a sign of restlessness and uncertainty as well as a presage of a most definite doubt in financial matters. Speculative moves or sudden adventures would be attended by hazard. Conservatism and caution should rule the day.

Those whose birthday it is may have a rather unsettled and restless year, with anxiety about finances. But this should not lead them into speculation or to moves born of nervousness or depression, for these are not steady guides, and the situation is not ominous. Be patient and careful in all operations.

A child born on this day may have a restless, unsettled and nervous temperament, which may invite it to hasty moves or adventures. These should be shunned, as should all speculative enterprises.

BURNS, SINCLAIR DENY CHARGES OF CONTEMPT

INSIST ACTIONS WERE NOT ILLEGAL

By GEORGE E. DURNO,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—A blanket denial that any action which could be construed as criminal contempt had been committed by William J. Burns or any of his agents was filed with Justice Siddons today as the contempt trial of Burns, Harry F. Sinclair and their associates got under way.

Burns declared there was nothing improper in the surveillance of the jurors in the Fall-Sinclair trial because none of the jurors were approached in any way. There was no attempt to "bribe, molest, intimidate or influence said jurors," his answer asserted.

Burns further denied he had anything to do with the making of the false affidavit by William J. McMullin, a Burns agent who turned government informer. This affidavit alleged that Juror Norman Glasscock had been in conversation with an assistant to the Attorney General.

ONLY SAFEGUARD

Sinclair admitted he had caused H. Mason Day, one of his oil company officials, to engage the Burns agency to watch the jury, but only to safeguard his interests and see that no one attempted to tamper with the jurors.

The Sinclair brief challenged the jurisdiction of the court and said the government had no case.

He denied he had instructed Sheldon Clark, of Chicago, vice president of the Sinclair Refining Company, to engage Burns operatives.

Day and Clark jointly are charged with having been "contact men" between the Burns agency and their chief.

MEXICAN ARMY BUYING AIRPLANES IN FRANCE

By Universal Service.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 5.—Tests of a new attack plane Mexico is contemplating buying in France have been successfully completed by Maj. Pablo L. Sidar, of the Mexican air service, according to a message received from Paris by the War Department. The plane will be dismantled, crated and shipped to this country where it will be put through final tests. If the plane is found to be adapted for service in Mexico, six more will be purchased.

In the "Down Stairs Store" Low Price Doesn't Mean Low Quality—

OFTEN times we advertise a certain lot of merchandise at a price that is far below the regular selling price—but the quality and the usefulness of the article is still there. "Buying for less, we sell for less."

FIRST quality merchandise is often reduced for clearance—and when we offer seconds or irregulars in certain lines at a low price we scrutinize the items carefully that appearance or wearing qualities are not impaired.

Georgette Agrees to Meet Brooks Clandestinely; Ann and Bill Meet

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ann and Georgie Hastings, sisters, live together in Mrs. O'Leary's boarding house. Ann, the elder, works in a factory and Georgie in an insurance office. Ann is proud of her sister's good looks and charming manners and pleads with her to accept the attentions of Bill Warren, who is madly in love with her, and to have nothing more to do with Ernest Brooks, a chance acquaintance who has been rushing her. Bill makes a confidant of Ann and proposes to Georgie, who refuses him. Ann's solicitude for her sister ends in a quarrel between the two, and Ann becomes conscious that she herself is fond of Bill, and the day after the quarrel he asks her to have lunch with him. During lunch he shows he is still devoted to Georgie, and Ann asks him why he doesn't call on her sister that evening. Bill comes to the boarding house and after waiting for Georgie sees her arrive with Ernest. Georgie vindictively tells Bill she doesn't care if she never sees him again, and in desperation he turns to Ann and asks her if she would be willing to go out with him now and then. Ann discovers that Bill has been drinking and shows her great disappointment in him, but resolves to do all she can to help him. Meanwhile Georgie, in a spirit of adventure, goes to call on Ernest in his studios. He proposes a trip abroad with her, promising to marry her when they get to Italy. Georgie leaves his studio, telling him that was impossible.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

THEN at last he spoke, crisply and grimly. "Listen, tomorrow night I'll go to Rivard's restaurant, I'll be there at 7. Come there and dine with me. I'll wait. If you do come there, I'll understand you've thought things over and decided to go away with me, because you trust me, care for me a little. If you don't show up, then I've only one thing to say; don't ever come near me, speak to me, see me again, so long as you live!"

She felt angry now. As if he could force her with that kind of childish threat!

"Then we'd better say good-by now," she said.

"Whatever you like," he replied in a tone so cutting and self-controlled that she was hurt in spite of herself.

And suddenly she took the only course left to her. Without thinking, she fled, but as she did so she told herself she hated him.

She would never see him again. Let him have his Mrs. Mountfords—a lot she cared!

Rivard's Restaurant—that was on the corner of Seventh avenue and Gable street—Rivard's Restaurant—tomorrow at 7!

CHAPTER XVII.

ON THE same evening that Georgie had first gone to Ernest Brook's studio, Ann had met Bill Warren on the street, had taken him in hand as if he were a bad child, and walked off to dinner with him.

And curiously enough, it was Bill Warren's apartment she went to.

This was not a high studio, with divans and easels and a Jap servant. It was on the top floor of a downtown house that had been knocked into small, unpretentious flats.

A square room littered with a small radio, magazines, pipes, slippers, photographs, bills, memoranda, a few sporting pictures unframed, with half an Edam cheese, a shelf-full of medicines, four recent novels of the Far West, two cans of sardines (unopened), a bathrobe, an unpressed suit, and a hundred other things, comprised Bill Warren's actual home.

Leading from this was a smaller room with a porcelain basin and a two-burner stove on a box, plentifully surrounded by coffee grounds. Neckties hung on the towel rack. An opened book rested on the stove.

"Bill! I've never seen anything so awful in all my life!" Ann exclaimed. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself."

"You ought to see it when it isn't fixed up," he boasted. "Why, this is wonderful compared to what it is sometimes!"

"But how do you live this way?"

"Have to, I guess. Besides I'm not here very often. I just sleep here."

He sank down in a chair, and though he was smiling, it was plain that he was uncomfortable and depressed. Ann found a cloth, held it under the cool water, and put it around his forehead.

"How did you know I had a headache?" he asked in surprise.

"Don't ask such foolish questions. Do you want me to become angry at you? Just sit there and take things quietly, while I try to do something with this awful mess."

He did sit quietly, watching her deft movements, her surety, the way she straightened things up with an efficiency that seemed like a miracle. The room was swept, cleaned up of rubbish; the straying odds and ends were arranged. In three-quarters of an hour it looked like a different place.

Lifting a picture on the mantel, Ann came upon a partially depleted gin bottle.

"What do you want me to do with this?" she demanded.

"Give it to your worst enemy," he said with a sick grin. "It nearly polished me off, I'll tell you!"

He looked around with unbelieving eyes when at last she was through.

"This does look like a different place," he admitted. "You know, Ann, this is mighty nice of you. I always said you were about the nicest girl I ever knew, anyway."

Then his mouth drooped and he looked away. The compliment had lost its value, for Ann knew he was thinking of Georgie again.

"Let's eat right here," she suggested. "I can cook something on the little stove if you've got any sauce-pans or things."

"Will you really? Say, that would be great!" he explained.

"What would you like?"

"Oh, I don't know. Coffee—and—well, all I can think of is coffee."

She picked up her hat.

"Where are you going?"

"I'm going out to buy some food, of course, before all the stores are shut."

"Fine. Here's some money—is that enough?"

"I said I was going to buy some food, not order a banquet."

"Well, bring me back the change, then, and be sure it's the right change!"

"You know what you can do, don't you?" she asked, with a smile.

Strange how easy it was to talk to him, how easy it was to be natural, and say everything she felt—or nearly everything!

She felt strangely happy when she was out buying things, buying things which she was going to prepare for Bill. He was feeling badly and she was taking care of him. They were all alone, and there wasn't any loud jazz music or silly talk to disturb them. It was heavenly!

She came back and found him prowling around again. "I'm looking for some aspirin," he admitted.

"You don't need aspirin, you need food. Wait, I'll fix another bandage for you."

He lay back docilely, only looking up at her with his frank, youthful eyes.

"Why are you so good to me?" he asked simply.

"Don't be silly. Why shouldn't I be good to you? You're so helpless anyway, someone has to take care of you."

She had bought some chops, and some watercress, and a bottle of milk. Also she had discovered a not too indigestible looking pie in the window of a bakery. Also there were rolls and sweet butter, and some tinned chicken broth.

There were just enough pans to prepare this meal, and just enough plates to serve it. While she was cooking, Bill threw remarks at her which he did not answer. But untroubled by that fact, he went on talking.

Then she found a small table, that was heavy in spite of its size, and started to push and drag it towards him. He jumped from his chair quickly, and their hands touched. She thought for a moment he was going to kiss her, but he seemed quite suddenly to change his mind.

As they ate, she watched out for his comfort, saw that he had everything he needed. He accepted them superbly, not even noticing. But he did notice the deep quality of her sympathy which had transformed the little room.

The meal seemed to work wonders for him. "I feel lots better," he admitted. "Oh, Lord, what a fool I've been the past week! Ann, if you knew what I've done—!"

"I don't want to hear about it," she said quickly, but suddenly she was hurt and furious. She looked at him with narrowed eyes. She imagined him making love to girls who took all that as a matter of course, and she was amazed at the heat of jealousy that rose in her.

But it was gone as soon as it had come. And she had found a pipe for him, and filled it, and put it in his fingers, and struck a match.

"Why are you so good to me?" he said again, as if wondering.

"I don't know. Perhaps because I like you," she answered with a smile.

He smiled back. He could not read the intensity, the outpouring of her heart in that simple sentence.

"Gee, it would be wonderful to be married to someone like you!" he commented.

Then she got up, saying she must go, and when he asked her why, she could not answer.

"But you've only just come here," he protested.

"What you need is lots of sleep," she said.

"But when am I going to see you again?"

"That's up to you, Bill," she said, and left.

CHAPTER XVIII.

HE CALLED her up the next day, which was Friday. He asked her, of all things, if she would like to go fishing.

"Fishing? Bill, are you sure you've not been finishing that gin bottle?"

"No, no kidding, I mean it. I saw an advertisement in the paper. There a boat that takes parties out—into the bay. We could go tomorrow right after lunch. Will you come along?"

"I'd love to, Bill."

She put down the receiver, smiling to herself. What fun he was, what fun it was to do the things that came into his unconventional brain. Not yet usual things—but strange, beautiful, romantic things like going fishing in the bay! And even as she thought that way, Ann admitted with a smile that to do anything with Bill would be beautiful and romantic.

She knew she was in love, hopelessly, tremendously in love. She knew that when she wasn't with Bill after this, she would be thinking about him—always. And she had been trying her best to make Georgie marry Bill, and loving him herself all the while without realizing!

Somehow this new tide of emotion that had come over her, seemed to engulf everything else

NINE RESCUED FROM FLAMES

SCORE FLEE IN NIGHT CLOTHES

Nine persons were rescued by firemen and more than a score of others were forced to the street in night clothing early today, when fire was discovered in a two-story apartment building at 616-618-620 East Diamond street, North Side.

The fire was in the apartment of John Mercer, on the second floor of the structure, and it is believed to have been caused from an overheated water heater. Damage was estimated at $1,500.

The fire originated during the absence of the Mercers. Dense smoke filled all parts of the apartment. A pedestrian turned in an alarm when he saw smoke coming from the windows. Police from the North Side station, a block away, ran to the fire and assisted in rousing the occupants. Members of at least a dozen families were forced to the street scantily clad.

Patrolman William Tietz carried Miss May Wulff, 22, to the street when she was overcome by smoke. Her sister, Inez, was rescued by Hosemen William Hartung and Edward Barmauer. The two firemen also carried William Knoellinger, his wife, Pauline, and a son, Lawrence, to the street. The Wulff sisters make their home with Mr. Knoellinger, an uncle. Joseph Jaffe and his wife, and Harold Butler and wife were helped to the street by the firemen.

The apartment building is over a number of stores.

START SUIT ON NOTE FOR GAMBLING DEBT

MERCER, Pa., Dec. 5.—Jim Koros is law-abiding when it comes to paying poker debts. He is standing behind an old law that provides gambling debts are uncollectable. Five years ago Koros and John Barganza indulged in a game in which the former lost a large sum. In settlement he gave Barganza a note for $225. The latter has brought suit to collect.

NEW U. S. DAM IN ALLEGHENY

$1,250,000 SET FOR WORK

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Construction work on Lock and Dam No. 7, an Allegheny River development, will be new work to be undertaken during the fiscal year beginning July 1 next under the program submitted by army engineers in connection with the rivers and harbors appropriations by the new Congress.

The sum of $1,250,000 can be profitably expended during the 1929 fiscal year on this part of the project, the report said.

A total of $824,000 would go into completing the lock and guide walls; $190,000 into the lock power plant, gates and operating machinery and $236,000 into construction work on the dam and abutment.

There was $2,274,000 for the Allegheny work still available from previous appropriations at the beginning of the present fiscal year. This money is being used on Locks Nos. 5 and 6 and in the purchase of the necessary ground and for initial construction work on Lock No. 7.

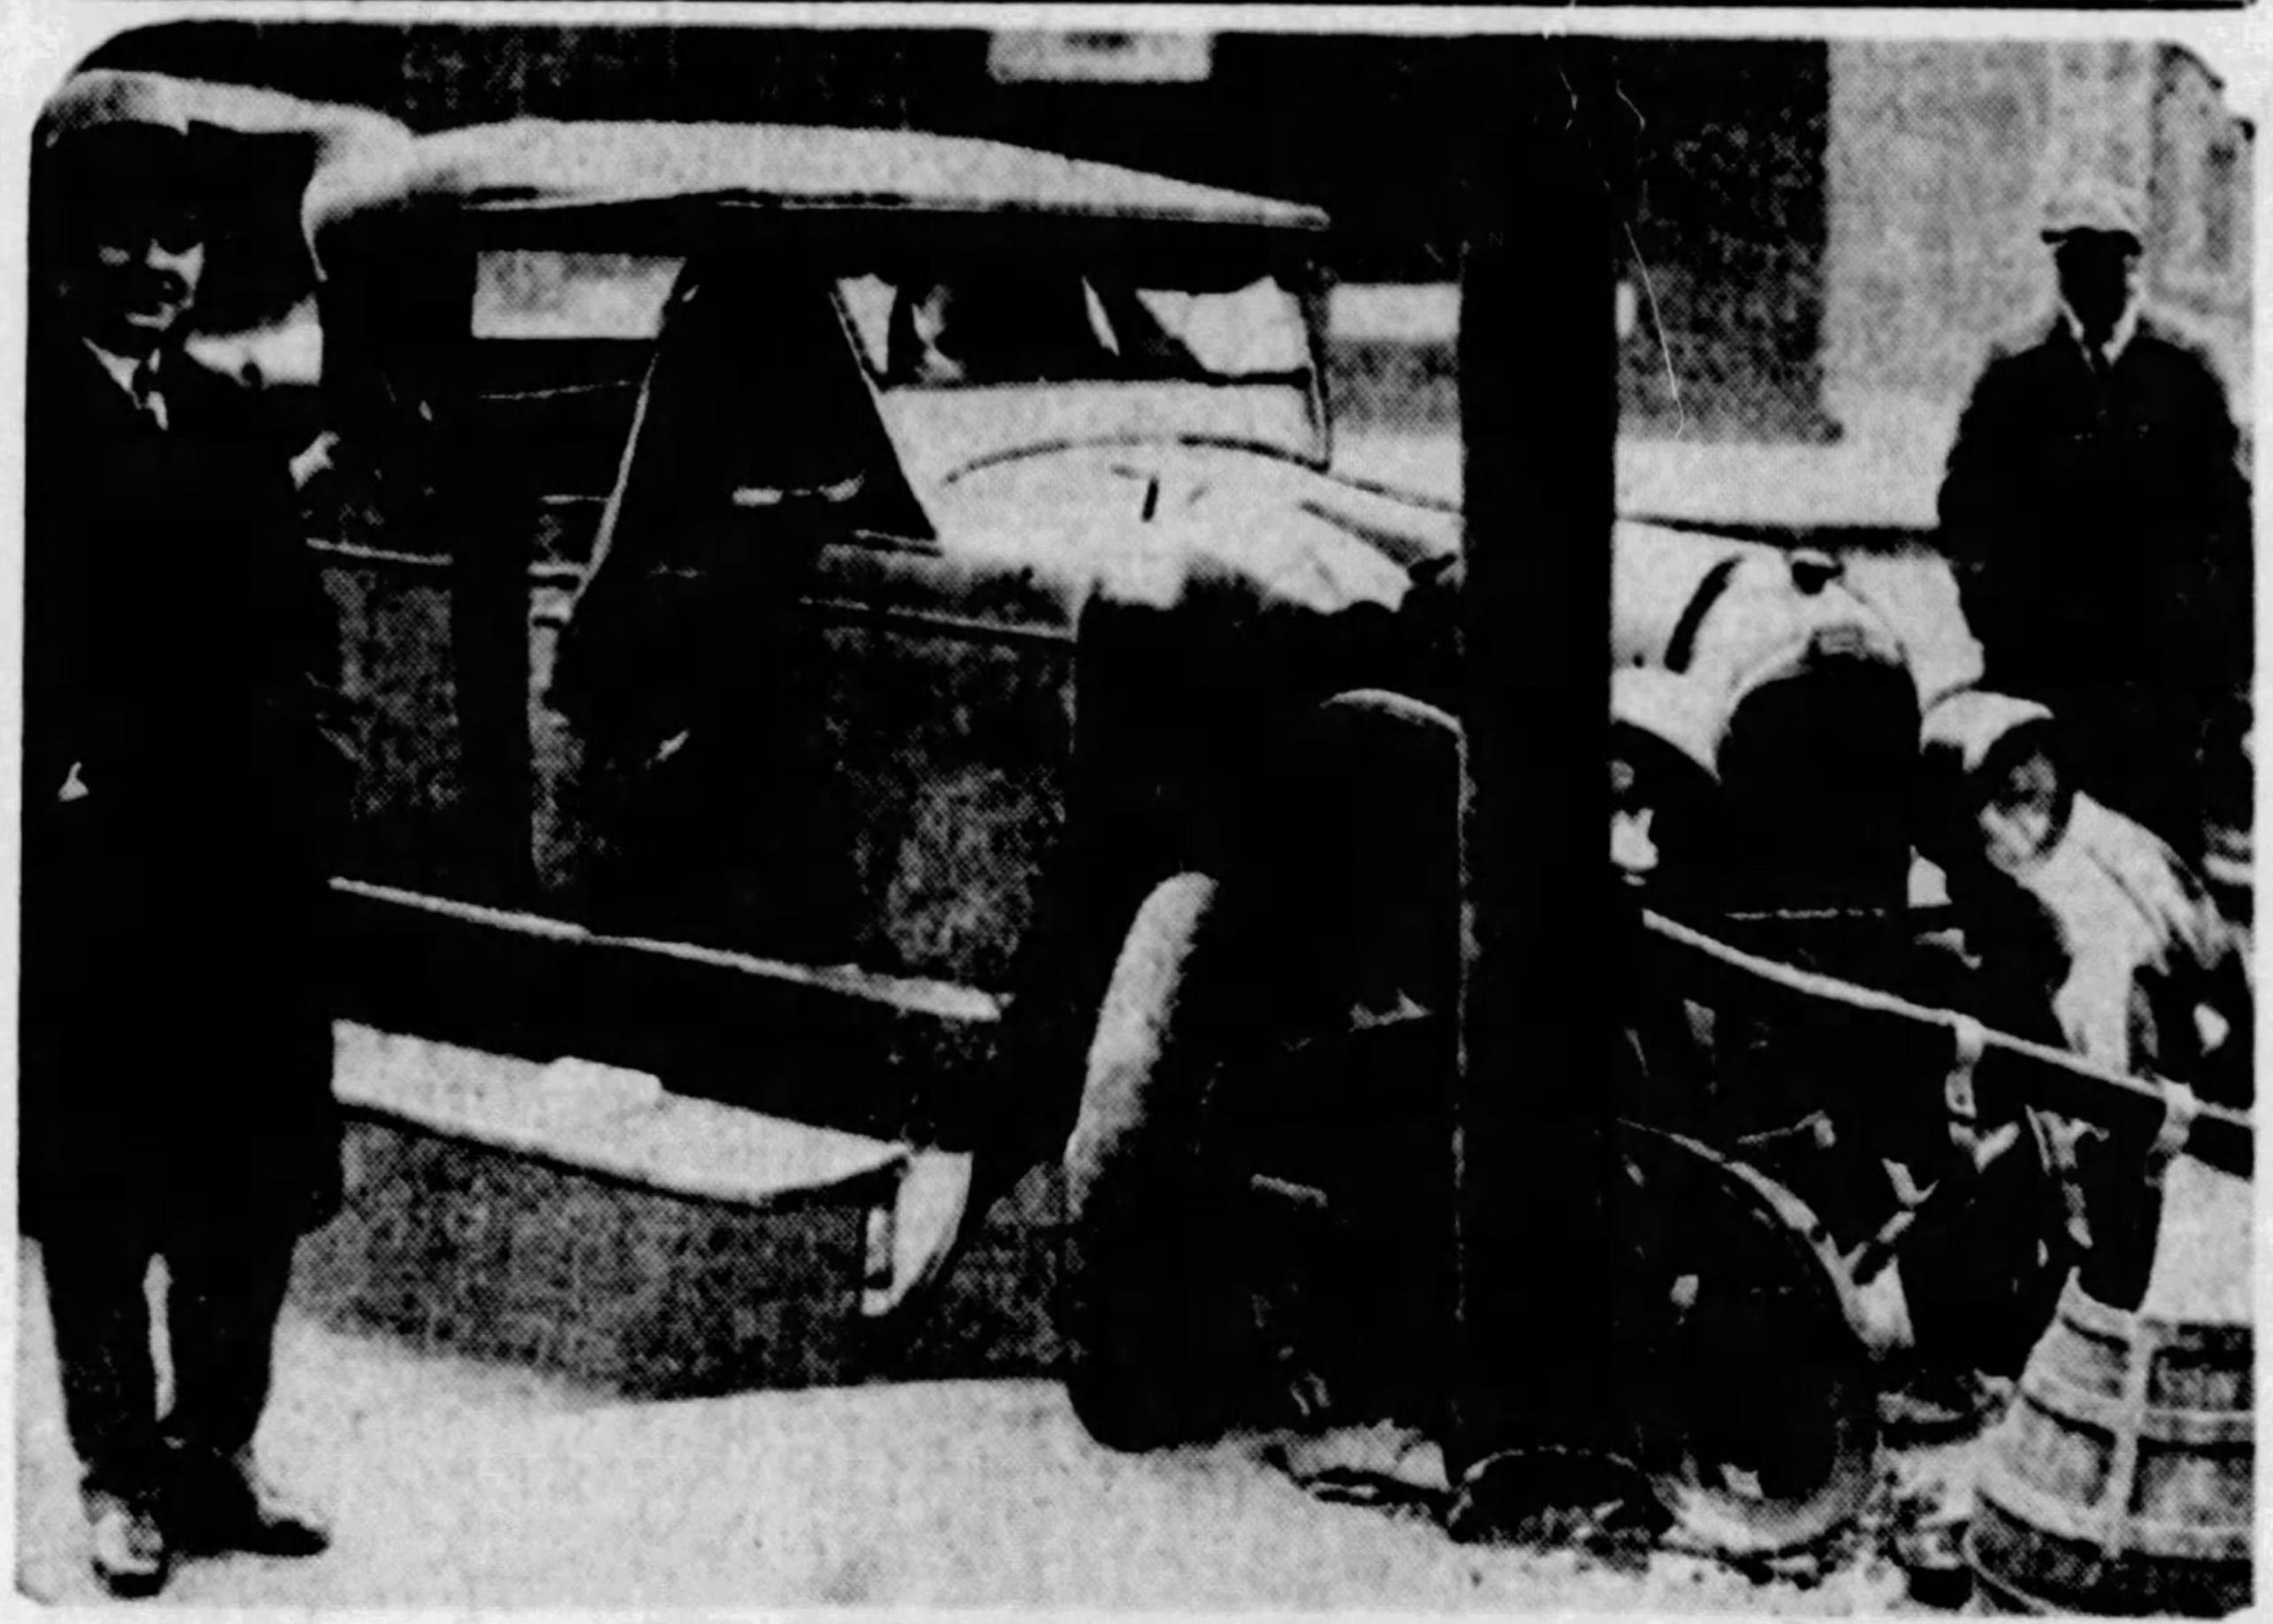
The entire Allegheny project calls for eight locks and No. 8 will be started presumably during the 1930 fiscal year.

Well Insured

DOLORES del RIO

Not content with a million dollars worth of life insurance, Dolores Del Rio pauses before leaving her Hollywood home to affix her signature to another policy which will protect her against all accidents in all corners of the globe. Now, it is said, the star carries two million dollars in insurance, including the policy held for her by the studios.

TWO DRIVERS CLAIM BLAME!



ONE IN HOSPITAL, ONE IN JAIL

Harry Shuster, 24, 5853 Ellsworth avenue, went to the hospital and Adolphe Manske, 29, 3230 Dobson street, to the police station after this wreck occurred in Bigelow boulevard at Webster avenue yesterday afternoon. "I was driving," declared Manske. "You're wrong, I was," contradicted Shuster. "You're both right," said the desk sergeant, "lock 'em up!"

SALOONKEEPERS FORFEIT $640 FOLLOWING RAIDS

Three McKeesport saloonkeepers arrested Saturday night forfeited $640 when they failed to appear for hearings this morning before Magistrate E. M. Trish. They are W. P. Torrence, Walter Sneddon and Walter Steiner, all proprietors of saloons in Fifth avenue. Nine visitors found in Torrence's saloon forfeited $10 each.

UPLIFTERS HOLD WOMEN'S DAY

A woman's meeting today will mark the second day's session of the sixty-fourth annual conference of the National Reform Association, which opened yesterday in the Smithfield Street Methodist Episcopal Church. The conference closes tomorrow. Mrs. Lulu Loveland Shephard of Salt Lake City, Utah, will speak.

Congressman William C. Lankford of Georgia was the principal speaker at the opening session yesterday. Other speakers were the Rev. Dr. Joseph C. Carpenter, local field secretary; the Rev. Dr. W. S. Fleming of Chicago, the Rev. Dr. R. H. Martin of Pittsburgh and the Rev. Dr. Richard Cameron Wylie, editor of the "Christian Statesman," of Pittsburgh. The devotional period was conducted by the Rev. Dr. George E. Brenneman, associate pastor.

ELKS HOLD SERVICES FOR DEAD MEMBERS

B. P. O. Elks of the Pittsburgh district yesterday held their annual memorial services for members who have died in the last year. The names of the dead were read and the speakers eulogized the work they had done for the various lodges. Some of the speakers here were Charles J. Finnell, of New Kensington; the Rev. Dr. Carl A. Voss; Attorney George F. P. Langfitt; W. S. Brann, of Duquesne; Judge Frank P. Patterson; Rabbi Isadore Rosenthal and John P. Bligh, of McKeesport, and the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson.

Varconi, Collier Are Cast With Patsy Ruth Miller in Baggott's "Tragedy of Youth"

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.

THE Pontius Pilate of "The King of Kings" and the haughty Prince of "The Volga Boatman" is now a featured lead with Tiffany. There seems no stopping this company these days. We even hear foolish and unconfirmed rumors of one of the most powerful men in the industry affiliating himself with this growing child. Whom do I mean by Pontius Pilate and the Prince? Surely you know your movies?

In case you are having a lapse of memory, let me elucidate. I mean Victor Varconi. He draws the featured male role in "Tragedy of Youth," to be directed by King Baggott.

The story is that of two young people who fancy they are in love because they enjoy dancing together and find themselves matrimonially unsuited. The dancers are Buster Collier and Patsy Ruth Miller.

These two should give a good performance, both of them being past masters in the art of modern dancing. Patsy Ruth, it appears, is the only important feminine interest in the film. Her admirers will probably feel that is okay.

Things are still happening on the Barrymore picture. First, two leading ladies were removed, and now the director has stepped out, the second one to leave. Slav Tourjansky has been superseded by Lewis Stone and Sam Taylor, who are finishing the Barrymore—I almost said tragedy, and then I happened to remember that John Considine went into raptures over the latest Barrymore opus. He insists that for the first time on the screen John Barrymore is himself. Maybe Mr. Barrymore likes all these upsets and upheavals. Some people thrive on them and others die on them.

Irving Thalberg has had the signing bee this last week. Whenever he had nothing else to do, he took out his expensive fountain pen and put his name on the dotted line. His latest move in this direction is to resign George Hill on a long-term contract. Smart boy, Irving, to keep George Hill, who is a good director most of the time. Among his achievements are "Tell It to the Marines," "The Callahans and the Murphys," "The Cossacks," with John Gilbert, and Marion Davies' "Zander the Great."

"Peg" Talmadge returns to the home of the movies and the land of sunshine to find herself with a new home. While "Peg" was sojourning in Europe and New York with her daughter, Constance Talmadge, her eldest daughter, Norma, planned a little surprise—I might say a Christmas present. She furnished the roof apartment at the Hotel Roosevelt and when "Peg" stepped off the train, "Norma" put a receipt for six months rent in her hands. "Here, darling," she said, "is your Christmas present." Wotta Christmas present! You could spend your money for six months and not have to worry about next week's pay day.

The foreigners' idea of American comedy is not entirely complimentary. Dr. Ludwig Berger, who made the never-to-be-forgotten "Waltz Dream," discussed this phase of picture-making with me at the reception given by F. W. Murnau following the premiere of "Sunrise." "I have a fine idea for a comedy," Dr. Berger said, "but I believe Americans would look down on such a picture." I called attention to some of the early comedies made by Ernest Lubitsch—excellent pieces of work; also Charlie Chaplin's comedies, as proof that the American public is not entirely devoid of appreciation of the right sort of humor. There is a possibility that Dr. Berger will attempt to prove this statement by offering as his first Fox picture a sophisticated up-to-date comedy.

New York is to have the privilege of viewing the pulchritudinous (grand word) Maria Korda in person. She is on the way to the big city accompanied by Margaret Ettinger. Both of them travel East at this time to attend the opening of "Helen of Troy" in the Globe Theater. Only such an event could take either of them away from Hollywood during the Christmas rush.

Certain phases of De Maupassant's "The Necklace" have been borrowed so many times by the screen that it is interesting to know that Frank Donovan is really going to produce it in a two-reel drama. He is not only on the right track as far as story is concerned, but he has engaged Mary Alden for the lead. That seems to prove Mr. Donovan's sagacity, for she is one of filmland's best actresses. Others in the cast are Emile Chautard and Maurice Costello. Mr. Donovan will make F. Marion Crawford's story, "A Cigaret Maker's romance," as soon as "The Necklace" is completed.

Ready Adviser Is Puzzled Herself

BEATRICE FAIRFAX played in the photoplay, "The Lovelorn," by Dorothy Cumming, has received another communication from a troubled girl (Molly O'Day) and the famous answerer of questions appears to be not a little concerned. It's a scene from "The Lovelorn," film adaptation of the Beatrice Fairfax serial of the same title now appearing in The Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers. The picture will be presented in Pittsburgh soon.

Friend of Ingram Not Amazed at Faith Turn

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—That Rex Ingram, American film producer, has forsaken the screen and turned Moslem is no surprise to Gordon Hillman, who was associated with him for three years.

"For years, Rex's friends knew he was deeply interested in the Moslem religion," said Hillman. "He was always a free thinker, with a trend toward the fatalistic. I remember hearing him say, 'Humanity needn't make such a fuss, it's only like a bunch of ants swarming over this planet,' when we were talking about the scenario for a new photoplay."

NEW BILLS COME TO THEATERS

William Hodge will be seen in the Alvin, beginning tonight, and playing matinees Wednesday and Saturday, in a comedy by himself entitled "Straight Thru the Door." Assisting Mr. Hodge is a cast including Carol Perrin, Francesca Hill, Nicholas Joy, Betty Nyrne, William F. Cullen, Abbott Adams, Robert Hyers, Emil Hoch, Carol March and Paul Jacchia.

Herbert Saunders of the "2 Girls Wanted" company, coming to the Nixon for the week beginning tonight, probably is the only actor who made his stage debut at the age of 61 years. He is a retired business man of Hartford, Conn., and took up acting on the professional stage more as an avocation. Friendship with Winchell Smith landed him his first part some five years ago in a John Golden production.

Alice Brady opens an engagement in the Pitt tonight, appearing in a new play, "The Ark," by John Meehan and Robert Riskin. It deals with the commercial phase of evangelism as conducted by a sensational woman preacher. It is said a New York engagement is to follow that in Pittsburgh.

Joe Frisco, humorist and dancing comedian, brings his popular cigar and derby to the stage of the Davis this week. On the screen is "The Last Waltz," adapted from the Oscar Strauss operetta of the same name.

Maxwell Anderson's comedy, "Saturday's Children," with Ruth Gordon, booked for the Pitt for the week beginning Christmas day, will bring the same cast seen during the play's run of 40 weeks in the Booth Theater, New York. Humphrey Bogart, Ruth Hammond, Frederick Perry, Richard Barbee, Anne Tonetti and Grace Roth Henderson comprised the Actors Theater ensemble presenting the comedy.

Coming to the Alvin next week is the Gene Buck musical comedy, "Yours Truly," in which the jelly-legged Leon Errol is the bright particular star, and who will be supported by a numerous company.

"Wooden Kimona" is the cheery title of the newest mystery thriller, to be presented in the Nixon next week. This is one in which the thrills are said to click so effectively that they give heart stimulant with every ticket purchased. Helen Carewe and Clara Vender have important roles.

Charles Ray Signs Spoken Stage Contract

By Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—Charlie Ray, film actor, will open an engagement at the Palace in New York in a comedy vaudeville act next month, it was learned today when he signed a contract. The act calls for songs and piano accompaniment.

It was also stated that Mrs. Ray has signed to act in a play on Broadway.

Ray, it is said, has been taking training for several months for stage speaking and singing.

Georgette Agrees to Meet Brooks Clandestinely; Ann and Bill Meet with it, seemed to make everything less important. She had gone home last night to talk idly to Georgie about dresses, about nothing at all. Georgie's affairs, even her future, seemed less important subjects than they had been. And everyone in the world walked in a sort of mist, unreal, vague, shadowy—everyone in the world except Bill Warren!

She met him the following noon, and he suggested that it would be a bright idea to take some sandwiches and eat them on board.

They reached the water-front in half an hour, and found the decrepit boat called the Gertie B, and her skipper, who looked as if he lodged on a park bench. Some other fishermen had arrived, and an hour after the scheduled time the Gertie B gave a convulsive snort and started off at the rate of three miles an hour.

The wind that whipped over the water, however, was traveling considerably faster than that, and they were less than half a mile away from land before the boat began to rock and pitch under the waves.

Ann noticed that she felt a little dizzy. Then she felt a little dizzier. She fought the sensation with might and main, gripping the combing with both hands, shutting her eyes, and praying. But a tide of misery rolled up, and she was powerless to resist it.

"Oh, can't they stop the boat?" she pleaded. "Can't they take me back to land?"

Bill put his arm around her, steadied her, took her down to the cabin, where she lay, feeling green and ugly and unutterably miserable.

And there he stayed, apologizing, declaring himself to be a fool for having brought her on this expedition. She begged him to get his chance at the fishing, saying she would be better soon in a whispery voice, but he would not leave her.

If she had been tender and thoughtful with him a couple of evenings before, he was more than that now. She wondered that a man could be thoughtful, so kind.

It was almost worth it, this feeling so upset and dizzy, just to have him close by, taking care of her.

The wind and the rough water fortunately made any protracted fishing impossible that day. But when she was on shore again, even the land still rocked around her.

"Come back to my place," Bill suggested, "and lie down."

"No, I'd better go home."

"You'll do as I say!" he insisted. His voice was masculine and determined. Somehow it thrilled her a little. She thought then that Bill was everything, her master and her child, someone whom it was a joy to look out for, and someone who could look out for her so tenderly.

When she had rested an hour she felt better. She lay back on the pillows of his couch, with his bathrobe over her.

"I must look terribly," she complained.

"You do not," he said loyally. "After all you couldn't help being sick."

There was a touch of pride in his voice, as if his own escape from sea-sickness were a kind of special virtue, and very much to his credit. Ann smiled happily. She didn't mind anything about Bill Warren. She felt she even loved his faults.

Would he come to like her? She'd make him like her, she'd make him! He would fall hopelessly in love with her, just as she loved him, and someday they'd go away together where there were no offices and no troubles, and they had nothing except each other. And then they'd live like that forever and forever, and never, never change!

It was growing dark again. Already the memory of the short voyage seemed less real.

She had grown so used to the little room now, that though this was only her second visit, she felt at home here.

Getting up and going to the mirror, she looked at herself critically.

"I really ought to go home," she sighed.

"We've got to eat first."

"The way we did the other night?"

"No listen, I got paid, and I got a raise today. I didn't tell you before, but I want to celebrate. Let's go out tonight to a real restaurant. What do you say?"

"You mustn't be extravagant."

"No, I really mean this. I want to. I want you to." His face was serious.

"Then I'd like to," she told him.

"All right. Ever been in Rivard's? . . . No? Well, that's where we're going!"

In half an hour they were on the street, strolling through the crowd. And Ann was happy, happier than she had ever been. Something, a subtle sense as vague as a feeling, told her that Bill was enjoying her more and more, that he was liking her more and more.

There was a look in his eyes that said more than words. It wasn't love, but it was something warming and friendly, that warmed her, too.

Rivard's Restaurant was guarded by someone who was at least an admiral. Ann and Bill entered through the great revolving doors. People were chattering away, eating, enjoying themselves. Everything was gay and very cheerful.

Bill sat down and grinned at her. "This is what we'll do every night when we're rich," he said.

"We." That word was the one that counted. Had it slipped out accidentally? Was he already thinking of being with her always, as she was thinking and dreaming of being with him?

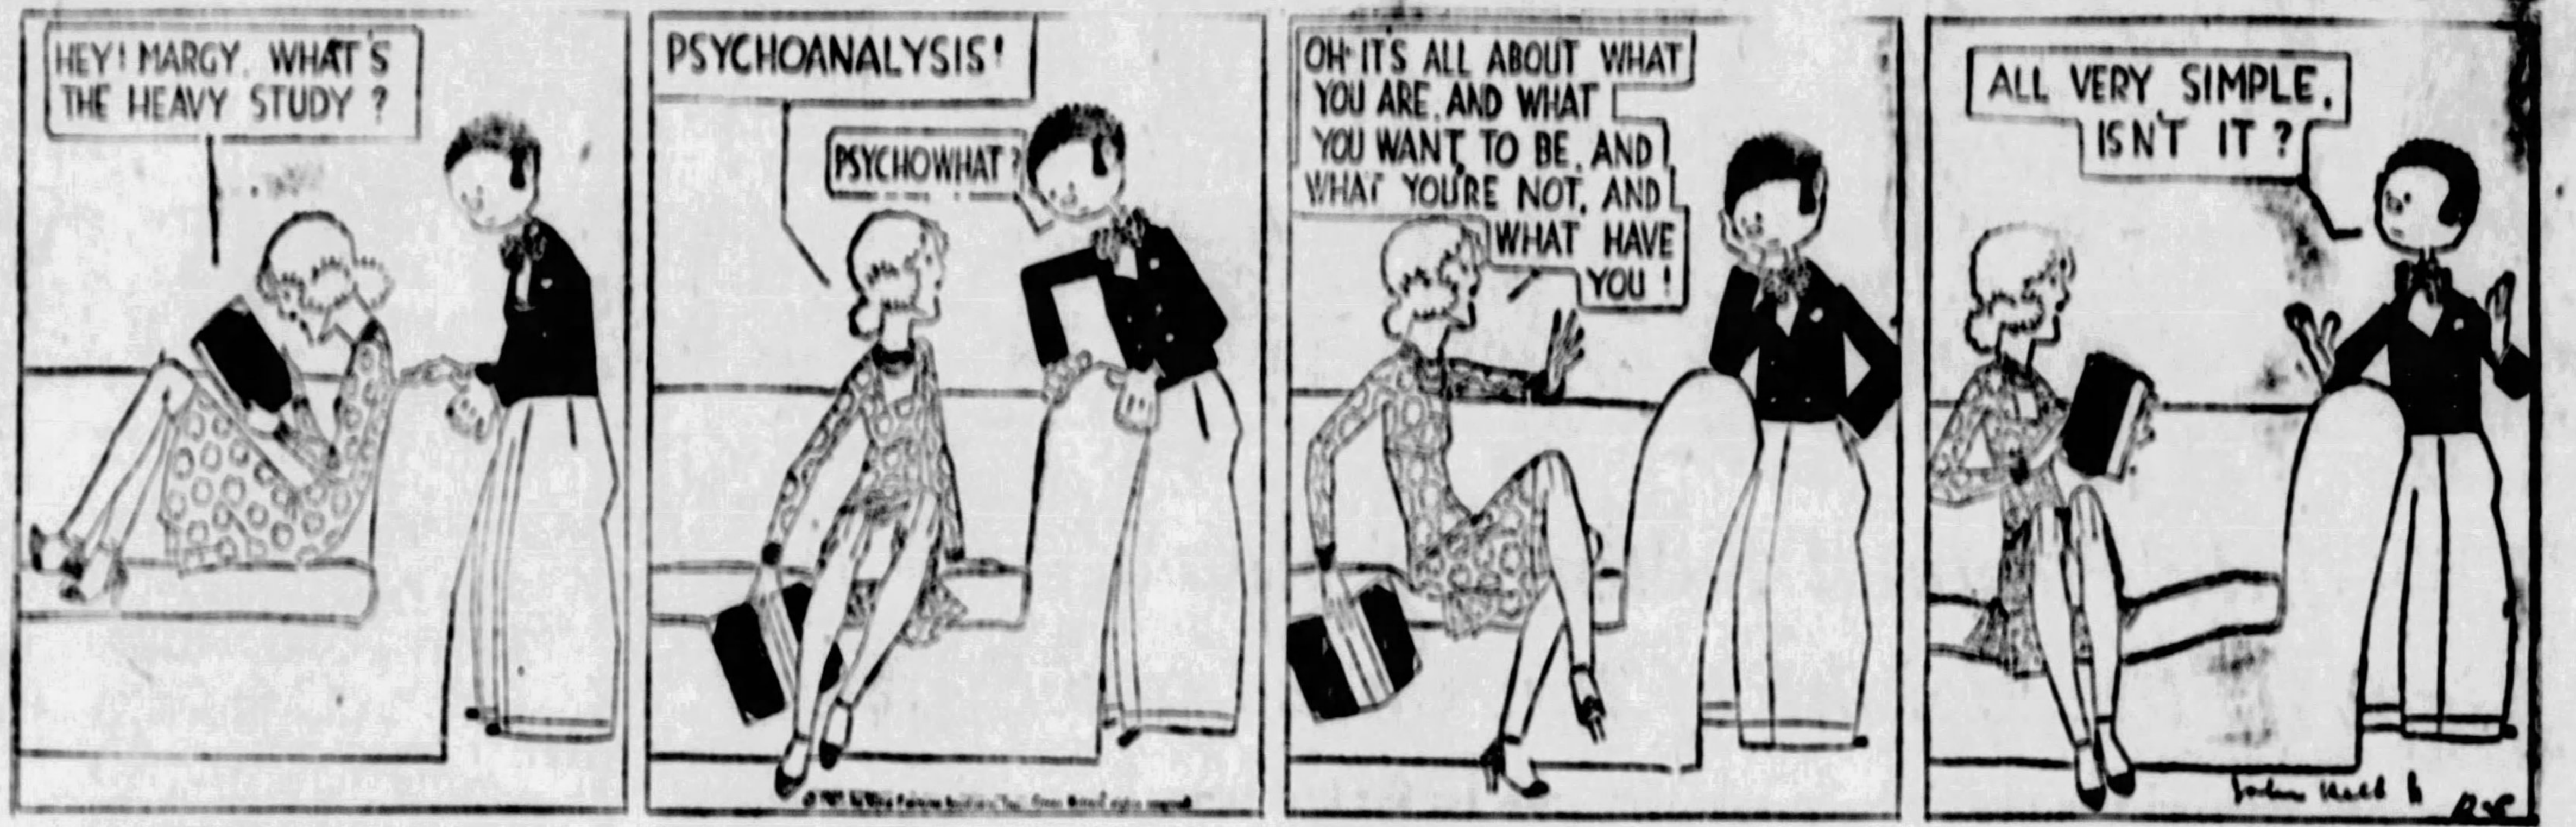
Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.



HEY! MARGY, WHAT'S THE HEAVY STUDY ?
PSYCHOANALYSIS!
PSYCHOWHAT?
OH! IT'S ALL ABOUT WHAT YOU ARE, AND WHAT YOU WANT TO BE, AND WHAT YOU'RE NOT, AND WHAT HAVE YOU !
ALL VERY SIMPLE, ISN'T IT ?

"My dear, I'm all-of-a-BIB-and-TUCKer at this point—I ACtually AM, because I have SUDdenly decided to become awfully sort of intelLECtual—you know the TYPE, my dear! Well, ANYways, I HONestly think it is an awfully good THING for a girl to sort of imPROVE her MIND or something and so I am FRANtically READing a simply FAScinating BOOK which I snitched from MOTHer, my dear, and I mean it's really AWfully inTRIguing because it's about this PSYchoanALysis stuff which you are all the time HEARing about nowadays, my dear, because don't you know how everybody is all the time talking about inHABItions and rePRESsions or something? Well, ANYways, it's terribly inTRIguing because this BOOK sort of goes INto it all very THORoughly and makes it all so PLAIN, sort of, that practicably ANYbody can underSTAND it, only PARTS of it are rather risQUE, I think, and anybody who wasn't sort of SErious-minded might think you were READing it just for the sort of risQUE parts, do you know what I mean? But, my dear, I NEAlly had hysTERics because JUST when I was right in the MIDdle of one of those rather SNAPpy PASsages, WHO should SUDdenly pop IN, my dear, but ARab, and of COURSE he started RIGHT in READing over my SHOULDer—can you BEAR it, my dear? REALly, my dear, I'm all upSET about it because it would be just LIKE him to s'pose I was just READing those risQUE parts of the book and nothing ELSE, do you know what I mean?"

Love's Embers

☐ Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife" ☐

By ADELE GARRISON

Philip Veritzen Hears About the Larches' Tenants.

LILLIAN'S answer to Philip Veritzen's sally was prompt and mirthful, but I saw that her eyes were fixed upon me as she spoke and that her thoughts were focussed upon my reaction to her announcement that she and her daughter, Marion, were not coming to the farmhouse for the summer. Yet her words betrayed no hint of the inward disturbance which I was sure was hers.

"If you're only infirm enough," she told Mr. Veritzen laughingly, "Madge will welcome you into her home gladly. That's her specialty, taking care of derelict humans, dogs and cats. There's usually a menagerie outdoors and a hospital inside wherever she is."

"What preposterous nonsense, Lillian!" I protested at this exaggerated reference to my unwillingness to turn away any tramp seeking a night's shelter in the barn, or to have any stray dog or cat put out of the way. But Lillian rattled on as if I had not spoken.

"Of course you'd have to be a total wreck for Madge to take any interest in you," she said. "People who can take care of themselves never appeal to her at all."

"I shall have to devise some way of getting crippled artistically," Mr. Veritzen replied, with a challenging glance at me. But I was quite proud of the perfunctory little smile I gave him in answer, the sort of thing which a fatigued hostess gives to the hundredth "You've given us such a marvelous evening," and then I turned to Lillian with a topic which I knew was sure not only to engross her attention but to call forth her loquaciousness. I was resolved to give Philip Veritzen no more opportunity for the embarrassing personal comments he appeared determined to voice.

"There's one 'lodge in the wilderness' which is lost to you this summer," I said. "I've hated to tell you ever since I heard the news."

She struck her hands together in burlesqued despair.

"Don't tell me 'The Larches' is sold," she begged and there was real apprehension in her tone. Ever since she first saw the rambling, neglected old place years ago upon her first visit to the farm, she has admired it, although, because of a crabbed rebuff by the caretaker, neither of us ever repeated our first essay to pass the group of towering larches which guarded the place and hid its beauties from the profane eyes of passers-by.

"Not sold, but rented," I told her, "to the queerest group of people I ever have seen."

"I breathe again," she said theatrically, ignoring my reference to the new tenants of "The Larches." "For years," she said, turning to Mr. Veritzen, "it has been my ambition to own 'The Larches,' a neglected country estate near to the Graham farmhouse. Of course, there isn't the slightest chance of my ever having money enough to buy a corner of the barn, and I wouldn't have the slightest idea what to do with it if I did have it. But I've had the fun of dreaming about it all these years that it has been unoccupied. And now somebody else has it! I'll wager the occupants don't know enough to appreciate it, whoever they are."

I silently agreed with her as I remembered the half contemptuous, careless words with which Eleanor Lincoln, the young chatelaine of "The Larches," had answered my encomiums of the place. Yet honesty compelled me to admit that I was sure the reason for Miss Lincoln's indifference was her probable past sojourns in much more beautiful places.

"They like it but they're not particularly enthusiastic over it," I said.

"Then they have 'eyes' that see not'," Lillian intoned dramatically. "But you said they were a lot of queer fish. Tell us about them."

A swift, sudden recollection came to me, that of Noel Veritzen's surprising reaction and disclosure when he had been told the nationality of the men in the shack at the edge of our farmstead. I felt an overweening curiosity to know what the boy's stately poised father would do with a similar revelation.

"In the first place," I said, "although the young mistress of the place denies it, I am sure they are all Transvanians."

"The Long Count" by JACK DEMPSEY
Former Champion's own story of near-knockout victory in return bout with Gene Tunney.
THE KNOCKDOWN
MIXUP ON CORNERS
THE COUNT

Jack denies pre-fight understanding that count would not start until man scoring knockdown retired to neutral corner---Says referee first ordered him to his own corner, then to the farthest corner.

CHAPTER I.

EVER since Gene Tunney and I fought it out in Chicago, I have heard it said, or seen it written:

"Dempsey's stupidity in failing to go to a neutral corner cost him the championship."

Up to this moment I have not attempted to make any detailed answer to those comments. I felt that if I stepped out and attempted it, without any reasonable provocation, it would be construed as a "squawk." But since Gene Tunney, under his own signature, attempted to justify the "long count" that Referee Dave Barry gave him—well, I guess it's okay for me to have my little sayso on the neutral corner thing and a few other happenings in that punching festival.

In the face of Barry's attempt to defend his "long count," and in the face of Tunney's long-delayed support in Barry's behalf, I say this:

The actual truth of this much discussed "no neutral corner—no count" angle, is that it never was mentioned by Referee Dave Barry, within my hearing, AT ANY TIME. My first knowledge that there was supposed to be such a rule, came AFTER THE FIGHT when Barry used it to explain his failure to start a count over Tunney until the champion was on the floor six or seven seconds.

NO AGREEMENT MADE

Barry has said that it was agreed between Tunney and myself that the count over a fallen fighter would not

SPORT COMMENT
by
JAMES J. LONG

FROM time to time, the annual custom of proclaiming a certain player the most valuable in his particular major league has come in for considerable criticism among thinking baseball men, and not without reason. It cannot do any good, but on the contrary may do a great deal of harm.

In the first place, a club that wins a pennant (and the award is generally made to a member of a pennant-winning team) cannot be a one-man club. If it were, it would not win any pennants. There are six other regulars, not to mention the pitchers and catchers, who do their share to win games and pennants, and without whose individual efforts and combined co-operation the "most valuable player" would not stand out very prominently.

BESIDES, honoring one player over all the others on his team is not conducive to club harmony. It is not only unfair, as stated above, to put a club in the light of being a one-man organization, but there is the danger of breeding petty jealousies among some of the player's team mates, who are apt to resent, in their hearts, if not openly, the implication that "one man did it all" and that they had nothing to do with it.

No one will for an instant begrudge Paul Waner the honor that has come to him in being voted the most valuable player in the National League. He is richly deserving of the distinction in view of the great record he made in leading the National League in batting, making the greatest number of hits and driving in the largest number of runs. Pittsburghers are proud to see such an honor conferred upon a local player and will heartily approve the choice of the committee.

BUT it is not the Waner case that calls attention to the objectionable features of the practice. The custom itself is all wrong from the standpoint of baseball's best interests.

If any further evidence were needed to show that the decision on the most valuable player is apt to be unjust, and that the big leagues would do well to do away with the "most valuable player" voting, it would be found in the record of this year's balloting, which shows that out of a total of 80 votes possible, Third Baseman Pie Traynor of the Pirates received only the absurdly small number of 18.

SIX players were ranked ahead of Traynor, but the real surprise is that in all the voting Traynor got only 18 votes against totals for the others which ranged from 72 to 25.

District Minors Meet

ACTION on two player rules, an announcement by President Elmer Dailey that three towns are seeking admittance to the circuit, and perfect harmony marked the meeting of Middle Atlantic League moguls at the Hotel Henry yesterday afternoon.

A rule providing for each club carrying five men on the roster who have never had professional experience, and a second providing for the cutting of "class" players from seven to four, was passed.

The towns seeking league franchises were not divulged by Dailey, but the league prexy said that two applications were worthy of favorable consideration. The expanding of the loop will be discussed at the annual meeting in January.

Following the meeting here, Dailey and Bob Prysock of the Wheeling club left for the national minor league convention at Dallas, Tex.

O. & P. HOLDS MEETING

CANTON, O., Dec. 5.—The Ohio-Pennsylvania Basketball League is to have a new member in 1928, it was revealed at a meeting of team owners from seven cities here yesterday. The eighth franchise will be awarded to Warren, O., Sharon, Pa., East Liverpool, O., or Meadville, Pa., at the league's January meeting here. Massillon, New Castle, Beaver Falls, Youngstown, Canton, Akron and the Tellings of Cleveland, represented yesterday, will retain their berths.

SPEAKING of SPORTS
by HARRY KECK
SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

SOME disappointed players are going to be left behind when the University of Pittsburgh football squad pulls out for Pasadena along about Christmas night for the Tournament of Roses feature battle with Leland Stanford University, January 2. They will be the 10 or 11 members of the Panther squad who will not be carried along, according to present plans. It is understood only 24 players will be in the party, and something like 35 players have made up the squad throughout the season. These extra players were out for practice daily, scrimmaged with the varsity for the tough battles and took their bumps regularly, seldom got into the lineup and received neither glory nor credit for their efforts. They were not carried along to Des Moines for the Drake game, and now they are slated to be left behind once more.

Wonder if it wouldn't be possible for the Pitt authorities to make some arrangements to carry along these extra players? They've earned some sort of a reward and I understand they will be sadly disappointed if it is not forthcoming in the form of the trip to the Coast. It is an expensive proposition to cart an entire squad on such a jaunt, but the guarantee from the Rose tourney game is sufficiently large to permit the carrying of three full teams and then some.

GENE TUNNEY, the heavyweight champion, in his talk over the radio from New York the other night, told how he braced himself mentally for his first meeting with Jack Dempsey, at Philadelphia the night he won the title last year. He admitted that he talked a braver fight than he felt before he entered the ring, because he was not unmindful of the fact that the consensus of opinion was virtually unanimous that he didn't have a chance to win, but he managed to get his nerves under control and fight the battle he had within him. It was because I was convinced that Gene was the type who could banish fear of his opponent's reputation from his mind that I figured he was the one man who had an excellent chance of beat-

Most Valuable and Almost

In other words, meet the Waner brothers, Lloyd and Paul, who were the sensations of the National League last season to the extent that Paul has just been awarded the most valuable player prize for the year with Brother Lloyd, who starred in the Pirate outfield with him, sixth in the voting. Lloyd appears at the left in the picture and Paul at the right. The numerals on their bats are their hitting averages for the campaign that saw the Pirates win the pennant and meet the New York Yankees in the disastrous world series later. Lou Gehrig of the Yanks was voted the American League's most valuable player.

HAVEY BOYLE

A LESSON is pointed in the unlucky experiences of Battling Levinsky, heavyweight boxer. His case is recalled by cancellation of his appearance here tonight. An injured eye keeps him idle. Levinsky rolled up a sizeable fortune through the medium of his fists, meeting such notables as Dempsey and Carpentier, among many others. With a pretty good bundle of the world's goods under his arm, Levinsky at the age of 31, quit the ring. He invested his money, but not wisely. He lost most of it. This prompted him to return to the ring at the age of 35. He is now 36 and expects to stay in for a couple of more years, in which time he hopes to replenish the family larder. He says that when next he retires with a bundle he will be careful his investments will be sounder than those which forced him back to the ring.

HAVEY BOYLE.

HE WAS here the other day, showing only slight wear and tear after so many years in a rough old game. He reports himself not suffering as much as one would expect a man of 36 to suffer in a strenuous sport. One thing that helped him was that after he retired from the ring he kept up his training in a mild fashion. Had he allowed himself to get out of condition he never would have been able to stage the return to the ring so necessary to his recouping of his fortune.

Levinsky now lives in Philadelphia, where he operates a gymnasium. He has no hope of rising to any great place, but he believes he is good enough to show well against many of the present heavies to allow him to regain the fortune he lost in bad investments.

BUC GETS NATIONAL LEAGUE AWARD

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

MEET Paul Waner, folks, the most valuable player in the National League.

The league officers today, through President Heydler, announced that the hard-hitting Pirate rightfielder was the winner of the honor and the cash prize of $1,000.

Brother Paul found the stiffest kind of opposition in Frankie Frisch, Fordham Flash, and second-sacker for the Cardinals. Rogers Hornsby, Giant second baseman, and natural rival of Frisch, was a good third.

Out of a possible 80 ballots, Paul of the Pirates polled 72; Frisch was awarded 66 and Rajah collected 54.

Lloyd Waner made a fine showing in the ballot-casting, attracting 25

Four Bucs Get All-Star Rating

Four Pirates and three Cubs gain places on an all-star National League team picked on the basis of balloting in the "Most Valuable Player" contest, which shapes up as follows:

First base—Jim Bottomley, St. Louis, or Bill Terry, New York.
Second base—Frank Frisch, St. Louis.
Shortstop — Travis Jackson, New York.
Third base — Pie Traynor, Pittsburgh.
Right field — Paul Waner, Pittsburgh.
Center field — Lloyd Waner, Pittsburgh.
Left field—Hack Wilson, Chicago.
Catcher — Charley Hartnett, Chicago.
Pitchers—Charley Root, Chicago; Jesse Haines, St. Louis, and Ray Kremer, Pittsburgh.

ROCCO AND GEMAS TOP HEAVY CARD TONIGHT

A NEWCOMER in local fistic circles will substitute for Batting Levinsky, former American light-heavyweight champion, against Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City's very promising young heavyweight, in the 10-round main bout of an all-heavyweight card at Motor Square Garden tonight. He is George Gemas of Philadelphia, who has boxed Levinsky, Matt Adgie, Ricardo Romano and others well known in the East. He comes highly recommended and with the promise that he will defeat Rocco.

Rocco has scored a number of knockouts over fairly good men for a heavyweight not yet 20 years old, and is now under the new management of Jimmy Dunn of Cleveland. Included among his knockout victims are Quintin Romero-Rojas, Sailor Maxted and Joe Burke. His most recent notable feat was to earn the popular decision over Sandy Seifert of the North Side at Youngstown. Last week he boxed Jack McAuliffe of Detroit in a slashing bout at Youngstown in which McAuliffe was given the popular verdict by a shade margin. Unless Gemas is as good as he is said to be, Rocco may turn in another knockout victory.

The fans like to see big men sock and fall, and, with this idea in mind, Matchmaker Johnny Ray has cooked up an entire bill of heavyweight and light-heavyweight tussles for this

MANY GRID COACHES HIT BY SHIFT RUMORS

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Bill Roper has signed to serve as head grid coach at Princeton for the next two years, and John W. Heisman has resigned as head coach at Rice Institute in Texas—these are the only definite announcements today in news of firing, hiring and retiring big league grid coaches involving schools from coast to coast.

The wholesale rumors of wholesale shifts in coaches started Saturday night when Chick Meehan intimated that he would not return to New York University next season. Since that time it has been reported that Chick will go to Nebraska, to Yale, to Rutgers and to Lehigh. Rumor tickets to these destinations were

THE P. & O. League will open its second week's schedule tonight when the Sianos, defeated by the Mieles in their inaugural battle, clash with St. Catherines at Columbus Temple.

The Sianos are taking nothing for granted in their contest tonight, as they realize they are meeting a tough opponent in the Beechview passers, who upset the strong Goldensons last week.

The Sianos have been working hard since their defeat at the hands of the Mieles and will take the floor tonight determined to score their second victory of the season.

WEAKENED by the loss of Eddie Losman, its star center, the Sumer Somerman Club has signed Hyman Labelle, former star at Colgate and Fifth Avenue High School, to fill the important pivot position.

While Labelle has been out of the game for several years he is reported in excellent condition and should have no trouble getting himself adapted to the Somerman's style of play.

Labelle, during his days at Fifth Avenue High School, was regarded as the outstanding center in local scholastic ranks.

THE Doc Gordens, winners of the A. A. U. championship, will start their home schedule a week from tomorrow night when they meet a strong attraction at Taylor Allderdice High School.

The management has started negotiations with Abe Feleer, former center of the A. P. Moore Club.

Friday the Gordons open their schedule abroad when they meet Holy Cross on the Center avenue Y. M. C. A. floor.

Members of this year's Gordon squad are Wilder, Levin, D. Rosenberg, Mandell, Cohen and B. Rosenberg.

DRIBBLES

The fur should fly on the Trinity floor tonight when the undefeated Knickerbockers meet Trinity in a West Penn League game.

Teams desiring games at home and abroad with the Doc Gordons, call Al Kriegar at Mayflower 6728.

The S. H. Adlers will play all preliminary games to the Gordons' attractions at Taylor Allderdice High School.

The Commercial-Industrial League will start operations at the Market House tomorrow night. Hornes meets Carnegie Steel and Reliance Life engages Liberty Baking in the two openers.

Eddie Weinberger, former McKeesport Alumni star, is fitting in nicely with the Sumer Somermans this season.

Johnny Serbin will start at forward for the Enoch Rauhs when they meet P. & L. E. on the Columbus Temple floor tomorrow night.

The Y. M. H. A. evidently means real business this winter, judging by its impressive victory over Mellon National, champion of the Bankers' League.

The Goldensons will play two P. & O. League games this week, meeting the B. L. Sperops on Wednesday and the Sianos on Friday.

The Somermans do not believe in drinking water during a basketball game. The management provides its players with hot tea at home and abroad.

George Wheeler, Somerman star, is playing a strong game for the P. & O. Leaguers, despite an injured eye.

St. Canice, St. Michaels (South Side), St. Michaels (Munhall), Manchester Community, Pittsburgh Lyceum and St. Joseph's Protectory are enrolled in the Kaufmann Lyceum League, starting play this week.

The Goldenson Vanities are open for a game with a strong girls' team playing girls' rules. Call Hemlock 2338.

Sheagan and Reisberg are playing important roles in the success of the Lou Gordon Club this winter. The Gordons are playing preliminary to the Somerman attractions at Columbus Temple.

handed Chick after he announced that he was considering offers from four big schools, three in the East and one in the Midwest.

Yale was placed on the Meehan list because Tad Jones insisted that he will quit the Elis. Nebraska gets the Midwest nomination because the Huskers have been the only Midwest opponents of Meehan teams in recent years, and Rutgers and Lehigh get recognition because they are open for new coaching talent. Just to make the situation a little complicated, N. Y. U. alumni met yesterday and asked Meehan to reconsider and stay with the Violets.

During the comparative quiet of last evening, when Yale men quit the stage for a win, lose or draw rally, Gil Dobie, head coach at Cornell, spoke his piece. Dobie said that he would resign at Cornell provided those not satisfied with his work bought his contract, which has two more years to run. The object of the Yale rally was to keep Jones at New Haven, and the object of Dobie's announcement was to silence those who have been bombarding him with criticism. Indications today are that both objectives may be realized.

JACK ONSLOW GIVEN RELEASE BY SENATORS

Jack Onslow, former Pirate coach and last year with the Senators in a similar capacity, has been given his release by the Washington club, according to an announcement from the capital. Onslow, who lives in Tarentum, has a number of offers under consideration.

Georgia's Loss Help

By JESS CARVER.

BOTH a National and a Southern gridiron championship slipped from the grasp of the University of Georgia Crackers Saturday afternoon as they were "taken for a ride" by the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech, not so golden as in former years, but brilliant enough to turn back the conquerors of Yale, 'Bama and North Carolina.

It was a heart-breaking defeat for the Georgians, for it not only knocked them out of their national title claim, but took away what seemed to be almost an assured Southern Conference flag. It was a victory, however, for football tradition, which has ruled that no eleven can survive a major schedule without some sort of a setback. Once in a while it is done, but like throwing peas at your hostess, not very often. In fact, it is as out of place as a barber with halitosis.

Now then, with Georgia out of the way, all that remains to decide the national champion for 1927 is to figure out the records of Yale and Pitt. Yale, of course, has been defeated. Georgia attended to that early in the season. Pitt is unbeaten, but has a single tie, with Wash-Jeff on the books.

ILLINOIS BEST

So it seems as though we'd have to look westward for a team worthy of disputing Pitt's claim.

The the middle west, Illinois, unbeaten and tied but once, arises to contest the Panther's claim. In as much as Minnesota could have contested from a percentage basis, the claim of the Illini to the Big Ten title, which they very graciously did not, being content to have tied Notre Dame, the claim of the Zuppkemen is not so very hot.

Let's see, there is one more Conference—oh, yes, the Rocky Mountain League, where the once defeated but seven times victorious Colorado Aggies are ruling the roost.

If the Panthers are able to hie themselves out to the Coast and trim Pop Warner's Stanford Cardinals New Year's Day, after all they have done to tear things up here in the east, it will really be only fair that they be awarded the crown. Of course, a defeat out there will throw things into a sweet mess, and someone will start shouting "twenty four votes for Tufts" before it all ends.

ing Dempsey in that bout and picked him to come through. It is rather pleasing to have the champion at this late date confirm my own views of his mental attitude before he entered the ring with the so-called man-killer.

BATTLING LEVINSKY, the former American light-heavyweight champion, who was to box Emmett Rocco of Ellwood City in the main bout at Motor Square Garden tonight, but had to call off the match because of a badly cut left eye, is a remarkably well preserved ringman for one of his age, with 18 or 19 years of fighting behind him. He has a slightly "tinned" left ear and a slightly twisted nose, but no other marks of his profession aside from the cut over his left eye, which caused his cancellation here. The Battler always has been a smart ring general and hasn't been hit much. He believes in keeping on the move in the ring and thus avoiding danger. Harry Greb worked along the same lines. He never was rated a hard puncher, but he explained this in his own way.

"I could punch as hard as anybody my weight," he said, "if I cared to stand flat-footed and swing, but if I were to do that I might be punched just as hard in return. My own system works better. I hit the other fellow and he finds I'm out of range when he tries to strike back. There's nothing like outspeeding the boys."

NOW that the regular football season is out of the way and Pittsburgh has had its Gibby Welch finly recorded among the heroes in the Hall of Fame as a member of the various and sundry all-America elevens, the thought comes to mind that this city is likely to have another very strong candidate for such laurels next year in the person of Howard Harpster, Carnegie Tech's brilliant quarterback, who concludes his career with the Tartans next fall. Harpster runs, punts and passes and receives passes, directs the team, plays safety man on defense and is the best man running back kicks I have seen in a long while. He takes them on the dead run and is hard to tackle, while many other defensive backs, either by choice or because they are so coached, prefer to let the ball drop and roll dead rather than risk a fumble or injury running it back.

CHILLY SAUCE By CHILLY DOYLE

"I AM going to try to win 25 games for you next year," said Grover Alexander to Bill McKechnie, according to Skipper Bill who discussed his Cardinals Saturday before leaving for St. Louis and Dallas. Aleck, of course, is a doubtful quantity, on account of his remarkable service, but he can still go to the slab with a sore arm and be the master of many of our present-day pitchers.

ALEXANDER is one of the few hurlers who can "look good" as he is shelled from the hill. That doesn't happen often, but I saw the Pirates bombard him for more than 20 blows one afternoon in Chicago.

CHRISTY MATHEWSON, perhaps, is the only pitcher of the past 20 years who knew as much about the art as the Redbird marvel.

"Why, Aleck is so good he won't give you a nice one to hit with the count three-and-nothing," said one of the Bushwackers last summer after Alexander had fooled the Pirates through nine innings. Aleck did not have a lot of "stuff," as speed and curves are catalogued by the athletes, and he had three balls and no strikes on more than one batter without walking anybody. A chucker who refuses to give you a "fat" one with the count three-and-nothing is in a class by himself.

vestment could use Levinsky's story which would illustrate strikingly how money must be guarded to be held.

IT IS true as Pirate officials point out that they won a pennant without Cuyler and therefore may not miss him next season, but by the same logic they also could get along without Sparky Adams, for if memory serves, the Pirates won the pennant last season without Adams, too.

A DISPATCH from Erie says that Cuddy DeMarco's recent fight in that town was one of the roughest ever staged there. Having lost his appeal here and in closer points, Cuddy, once a promising boy, is evidently determined to make it unanimous. And no one can tell him different for his wise old head has come to think it contains far more than the heads of his elders. Of a sudden Cuddy will come up against a hard wall of circumstances with his head, and like many another youth, will be in for a few regrets. From a great classy boxer Cuddy has slipped into a sort of rough and tumble fighter. Too bad.

"THAT plane would have sunk, but Ruth Elder," writes in John Ringgold Gloninger. "I just thought this one up out of my own head," he continues. The joke is to be grasped if one simply imagines that Elder sounds like "held her." A 2¼x3½ cream puff, in a holiday package, is on the way to the Gloninger menage.

THE big league meeting in New York to be held soon will lack its usual spice because Ban Johnson is not around to cause "war clouds to gather." All this great organizer had to do in the old days was to say "boo," and at least a dozen magnates started with fright.

The winter league meeting is the ballyhoo which is expected to furnish enough fan fodder to carry them up to the start of the training trip season which starts in February.

Duke McCurry's sensational and effective work against the Boston Bruins here last week has earned him the regular left wing post on the Pirate hockey squad. Tomorrow night when the Bucs go against Tex Rickard's Rangers on the Duquesne Garden ice, the future dentist will be found paired with Milks and Darragh on the starting line.

For the last two years McCurry's work was confined for the most part to relief duty. When the local outfit lost its first five games this season Manager Cleghorn shook up his starting combination and in the shuffle Duke was found in the regular lineup. Against the Boston aggregation he demonstrated that he belonged up front and that is where he is going to remain for the time being, at least.

votes. He finished sixth. Pitcher Charlie Root of the Cubs was given 46 votes for fourth place, while Travis Jackson scored 42 for fifth spot.

Capt. Pie Traynor of the Pirates was placed right behind Sprout Waner with 18 votes. Remy Kremer was another fair scorer with 14. Between Traynor and the Frenchman was Jess Haines, Redbird star of the mound. Jess polled 16.

Carmen Hill was another Pirate to be honored in the balloting. The spectacled twirler received two votes. Max Carey, former Pirate captain, who served in the same capacity with the Dodgers, received three votes.

Others included in the voting were Leo Hartnett, Chicago catcher, 12; Red Lucas, Cincinnati pitcher, 10; Hack Wilson, Chicago outfielder, nine; Cy Williams, Philadelphia outfielder; Bill Terry, New York first baseman; Jim Bottomley, St. Louis first baseman; Jake May, Cincinnati pitcher, and Bubbles Hargrave, Cincinnati catcher, six each; Eddie Farrell, Boston second baseman, and Burleigh Grimes, New York pitcher, four each. Grover Alexander, St. Louis pitcher, and Riggs Stephenson, Chicago outfielder, three each; Jess Petty, Brooklyn pitcher, and Frank Ulrich, Philadelphia pitcher, two each.

Paul Waner finished up his banner year with a batting average of .379. Through most of the season the little slugger was out beyond .380. Paul led the league in driving in runs and in many ways was a power on the offensive.

Brother Lloyd made a wonderful finish, the wee center fielder bringing his batting average up to .355, Hornsby only standing between him and Brother Paul.

DUQUESNE LAFAYETTES BEAT CUMBERLAND, 32-28

CUMBERLAND, Md., Dec. 5.—The Duquesne Lafayettes, champions of the Allegheny County League of Pittsburgh, opened their season here last night by defeating the local Knights of Columbus in a hard-fought game, 32 to 28.

Tonight the Duquesne Lafayettes meet the Corry Independents at Corry. Last night's lineup:

Cumberland K. C.	12	16—28

Field goals—Piefer 1, Benedict 5, Morrow 4, Minnick 3, May 4, Keegan 6, Mullaney 1. Foul goals—Duquesne Lafayette 10 out of 18; Cumberland K. C. 6 out of 17. Substitutions—Duquesne Lafayette—Minnick for Piefer, Piefer for Gubby; Cumberland K. C. Minal for McMullen. Time of halves—20 minutes. Referee—Ike Law.

"The Long Count"

By JACK DEMPSEY

start until the fighter who was on his feet had retired to a neutral corner. No such agreement ever was made.

And even if Barry had attempted to suggest such a procedure, he would have done so without power, for a referee has no right to change the laws of a state or a Boxing Commission as he may will. A referee's job is to ENFORCE EXISTING RULES—NOT CREAT NEW ONES.

I answered the first round bell assuming we were fighting strictly according to the boxing rules of the State of Illinois, which, in substance, were as follows, concerning conduct of all parties in the event of a knockdown:

"When a fighter is knocked down, the timekeeper shall immediately arise and announce the seconds audibly as they elapse. The referee shall first see that the opponent has retired to the furtherest corner and then, turning to the timekeeper, shall PICK UP THE COUNT in unison with the timekeeper, announcing the seconds to the boxer on the floor."

It will be noted that the rule states that after the referee has seen to it that the fighter who is on his feet has retired to the FURTHERMOST CORNER that he shall PICK UP THE COUNT OF THE TIMEKEEPER. Nowhere in the rules is there one iota of authority for a referee to nullify a count that already has started and then begin a new one.

Yet Barry did exactly that in absolute violation of the written rules governing boxing in Illinois—the exact and ONLY RULES under which Tunney and I were fighting.

ORDERED TO OWN CORNER

Without a single line in the written rules to back him up, and without any amendment offered by himself BEFORE or DURING the fight, Barry quoted a mythical verbal rule of his own AFTER THE FIGHT to justify his conduct in doing everything but take a walk around the arena before he personally started his so-called "official" count over Tunney.

When Tunney went down in that seventh round, the first thing Barry did was to yell at me:

"Get in YOUR corner."

As Barry ordered, I went to my corner. That's where he told me to go. He was bossing the job. Inasmuch as he said "Get in YOUR CORNER," I assumed that's what he wanted me to do. And that is what I did without hesitation. I didn't go into my corner to be near my seconds for advice. Nor did I go there so I'd be close to Tunney when he got up. I went there because Barry ordered it.

When I had arrived in my corner, the timekeeper already had started his count. Barry seemed to be in the attitude of picking up the count, but changed his mind about this, looked at me, then walked over to my corner, got hold of my arm and said:

"Get into the neutral corner."

That was okay with me—and I went where Barry told me to go. Then he went back to where Tunney was slumped on the floor. Arriving there he did not pick up the count immediately. He turned and took a look at me to see that I was parked in the neutral corner. That also was okay with me, for I figured that the timekeeper was tolling off the seconds and that Barry would PICK UP the timekeeper's count.

DELAYED FINAL COUNT

But Barry pulled the strangest trick in modern ring history by cancelling the timekeeper's count and, instead of PICKING IT UP, beginning a new count that started with "ONE."

After Barry had reached the count of "nine" over Tunney, he raised up his arm, presumably for the stroke of "TEN." Tunney was getting up then—but not with any speed. When that arm went up for the stroke, I felt certain that Tunney never could get up before the arm dropped for "Ten." But Barry obligingly held up that arm until Tunney did get up.

If the ringsiders will refresh their memories, they'll recall that having raised his arm for the final stroke, Barry seemed suddenly to have suffered petrification of that arm. He didn't seem to be able to get it down for that "Ten," although, to me, it seemed that he held it there for nearly two seconds while Tunney was climbing off the floor.

Delay of Barry's personally conducted count gave Tunney a 15-second rest on the floor. But I'll always feel that he could have had that much time for "resting" and I'd still have won a knockout victory if Barry hadn't poised his arm, after the count of "nine" and delayed dropping it, thus giving Tunney all the chance in the world to beat the chant of "ten."

West View Defeats Hope-Harvey, 13-6

By TOM BIRKS

THE long awaited gridiron battle between West View and Hope-Harvey, two of the leading independent football teams of the district, was played yesterday afternoon on a field frozen hard as marble and before a fair sized crowd of half frozen enthusiasts. West View won the ball game, 13 to 6, taking an early lead and holding it throughout.

The Hope-Harvey eleven, with several new faces in the lineup, was swept from its feet right at the start of the game when West View took the offensive and scored a touchdown in the first period. Led by Cole and Kelsch, the Steam Rollers rolled down the field, Cole finally placing the ball on the 20-yard line with a try at tackle. He fumbled, however, and lost the chance to push over the first score, Left End Brown scooping up the pigskin and racing 15 yards for the touchdown. Klinzing added the extra point with a goal from placement.

HOLD EARLY LEAD

With a seven-point lead, West View battled through the first period safely, but in the second, Hope-Harvey scored when Rielly, a substitute, or rather, a backfield replacement who was not in the game when it started, ripped off long gains through the West View line and around the ends and finally Dan Rooney grabbed a pass and scored.

Previous to this, Klinzing had missed a try for field goal from the 35-yard line.

West View nursed its one point lead through the third period, and finally late in the final quarter, Dan Rooney opened up with a last minute aerial attack, and gained a lot of ground with it until Cole intercepted one and raced 40 yards for a touchdown. That was the punch that set Hope-Harvey back on its heels, and the boys never again were able to get going.

Cole was the star of the game, playing well both on the offense and on the defense. The lineup:

West View—13.		Hope-Harvey—6.
Brown	L. E.	Mulligan
Valentine	L. T.	Kelly
M. Klinzing	L. G.	Murphy
Mattie	C.	Rooney

MINOR LEAGUE HEADS MEET

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 5.—(AP.)—With the American Association club owners deadlocked on the question of major league ownership of minor clubs, officials of that circuit today turned to other problems preparatory to the opening of the National Professional Baseball Association convention here tomorrow.

Introduction of a resolution against the policy of the majors to buy minor league clubs for use as farms by William Neal, vice president of the Louisville club of the American Association, brought a tie vote. Indianapolis, Kansas City, Milwaukee and Louisville favored the resolution, while Minneapolis, St. Paul, Columbus and Toledo voted against it.

The leader got 72, and the five following him on the list received respectively 66, 54, 46, 42 and 25. And Traynor got only 18! It is an unjust reflection on the worth of one of the most valuable ball players that ever lived.

AS A matter of fact, it is hard to figure how any player at any time could be more valuable to his club than Traynor is at all times. He is not only a wonderful ball player with scarcely a weakness and the greatest third baseman in the game today, but he is a model in clean living, an example for all the rest of the club, a player who loves baseball so well and is full of enthusiasm for the game and loyalty to his team that he is fighting and hustling every minute and often is found at his post when nursing injuries that would put many another pastimer on the hospital list. And as a recognition of all these qualities in which few players in history have been so rich, Traynor gets only 18 votes!

PERHAPS a player has got to do more than step out there and win ball games week after week to be named among the leaders. It is one of the farcical side developments of the custom which is enough to convince any unbiased and fair-minded fan that the sooner the most valuable player business is done away with the sooner the best interests of the sport will be served.

ARE the baseball fans of Pittsburgh and other cities in the National League circuit to see Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker playing in National League uniforms the coming season for the first time? More than one sign is pointing to such a development right now, and from present indications there is a strong chance that both of the famous American League veterans will be found in the lineup of the New York Giants.

That McGraw wants Cobb is not to be questioned. He was in the scramble for Ty last February, and since it was announced recently that the Georgian would not be with the Athletics next year the Giant boss has admitted he will endeavor to add him to his forces. Even the decision of the New York club to train in Augusta, Ga., next spring instead of in Sarasota, Fla., is being taken as a sign of which way the wind is blowing. Cobb's home is in Augusta, he is on all the clubs and committees to boost the town, and it is said he has influenced McGraw to make the shift.

NEITHER Cobb nor Speaker has yet been officially released by the way, though it is known such action is only a question of time.

Mack, it is understood, will give him his freedom and with the consent of the other American League clubs will open the way for Ty to join the Giants.

President Griffith of Washington wants to sell Speaker's release and has approached the Giant management on the subject.

It is known that the Gotham chiefs are considering the signing of both players, and it is reasonably certain that Cobb, at least, if not Speaker, as well, will be with the Stoneham outfit when the 1928 season opens.

In their fight against the Yankees for patronage and popularity, the Giant owners are not overlooking any player who gives promise of being a drawing card to offset Ruth, Gehrig and others.

CANADIANS SAIL SOON

Canada's star skaters, ski-jumpers and hockey players will sail from St. John, N. B., February 1, to compete in the winter Olympic sports in Switzerland.

Bowser To Coach Grads

By CARL W. SHATTO.

THE Pitt Oldtimers will go baseball and its player-manager idea one better at the Stadium Saturday afternoon when they introduce, as a member of their lineup, football's only player-coach. The gentleman in question is Charley Bowser, star center of yesterday and Pitt assistant coach of today.

At a telephonic meeting this afternoon, Bowser was prevailed upon to sign a one-game contract as head coach of the Old Grads. Although the figure stipulated in the contract was not announced, it is rumored that Charley is to receive one of the lowest salaries ever received by a Pitt tutor. When interviewed Bowser refused to comment on the salary angle other than to say that his pay was to be little more than that received by the average professor.

PRACTICE THURSDAY

Bowser will start his duties as coach of the rust-dimmed stars at the Stadium Thursday afternoon. Provided a sufficient number of his all-Caucasians survive the first day's scrimmage, a second workout will be held Friday. The third and final drill is carded for Saturday, when Bowser will lead his constellation into action against Jock Sutherland's Panthers of 1927. The battle is expected to keep the national champions on edge for their Tournament of Roses game with Stanford, and to take the edge off the Bowser brigade for their Tournament of Arnica test with the cot-carriers.

An interesting sidelight of Saturday's game will be the practical test to which the value of scouting will be put. It is rumored that Coach Bowser has scouted the Panthers in all their major engagements and the more radical of old-time backers allege that he has gained admittance to Pitt's secret drills. The Panthers, on the other hand, know no more of the old-timers' play than do the Old Grads themselves.

ANDY HASTINGS TO PLAY

A scandal which for a time threatened to result in a breaking off of relations was averted this morning when Bowser admitted he was "going out after players," but that "transfer" performers would not be used.

A checkup today of Oldtimer material revealed that Bowser has two or three strong backfields, but no line. Four out of every five players to answer Bowser's call to date are ball-carriers, and indications are that the coach will be the only man in the forward wall. Instead of using "guard back" plays, the Old Grads will present an "everybody back" attack, which will have one merit in that anybody except Charley will be eligible to receive a forward pass.

Bowser's hopes were buoyed up for a time today when a likely-looking prospect announced that he would play provided he received his tuition free, but his optimism was short-lived, for the newcomer proved to be Andy Hastings. Hastings is just another ball-carrier.

THE Corinthians defied fate Sunday and repeated their wonderful victory in the National Amateur Cup, defeating the National Tube eleven by a 4 goals to 2 score. This proved to be without a doubt the outstanding win of the day. The Tubers, as usual, played great football, but failed in front of goal.

Heidelberg traveled to McKees Rocks and displayed again that wonderful ability to get goals. Each week the forwards swing around in the matter of getting goals. Sunday found Bill O'Donnell scoring three times and then Johnny McCosky kicked in with another three. Manager Balsarini has one worry off his mind, and that is the fact that the National Champions are starting to get goals.

The West Penn cup battle at Chambers Field developed into a goal scoring session, with Westinghouse on the long end of an 8 goals to 2 score. Noble, rated as one of the best center forwards in the district, netted the ball four times, this being quite a feat in itself.

Mustard Hollow and the Germans failed to get the game finished Sunday. The Germans evidently got lost in that maize of byways leading up the Monongahela River. When the game did get under way it was a wonder. The German club is very popular up the river, and when the game finished the teams were all square. Each had found the net once.

Two real games are listed in the next round of the West Penn cup. Heidelberg is carded to play at Donora against Clan Grant. This is a real game, as Clan Grant looks as good as any club in the district. Of course, there is a feeling that Heidelberg will win the Western Pennsylvania championship, but there is a hard road ahead.

The Pittsburgh club will meet the German A. A., and what a brilliant game should ensue. The Germans are playing a great game of soccer and will extend Pittsburgh. Another game not to be overlooked is the Rovers-Westinghouse battle. So there is a chance that the coming round will provide the best games in the tourney.

Utilities Had to Become Giants, Declares Insull.

By B. C. FORBES

CONGRESS is going to get after the electric light and power people, tooth and nail, according to Washington's political forecasters. Utility men themselves expect an attack by radicals. Some of the foremost leaders welcome a public investigation into the work they have been doing.

My own guess is that there will be a lot of noise but that nothing hurtful to the industry or to the five million investors in utility securities will reach the statute books.

THE two developments which have excited most criticism have been, first, the introduction and rapid growth of so-called "superpower," which is nothing but the linking of one company's power lines with those of its neighbor's so as to be prepared to draw upon extra power in emergencies; and, second, the organization of holding companies or, as utility leaders prefer to call them, investment companies.

RUMOR has it that the disclosures regarding large political contributions by Samuel Insull will be delved into and an attempt made to ferret out political underground activities by other electric light and power companies. The industry declares, however, that there can be no sensational revelations.

HOW did large-scale operations come to be introduced at the start? What led to the nationwide adoption of magnitudinous operations? What led to holding companies being originally organized?

Samuel Insull, it so happens, was among the first, if not the first, to experiment with the new and larger-scale method of operations. Mr. Insull, the other day, gave this clear-cut description of the birth of the movement:

"We selected for our experiment, in 1910, a group of twenty-two little towns in Lake county, Ill., with populations of 200 and up. Ten of these towns had electric service of a sort, but only at night, locally supplied by little plants one jump ahead of the sheriff. The other twelve towns and the intervening farms had no electric service whatsoever.

"We bought the ten little plants. We then built transmission lines, centralized the production of current in one plant, and shut down the little plants.

"Within two years all but two of those twenty-two villages and towns, and 125 farms, were getting full 24-hour electric service—at lower rates than any part of the territory had previously enjoyed. Also, the establishment of financial credit for further development that would have been impossible under previous conditions.

"This experiment gave impetus to the development now conspicuously exemplified by long distance transmission, inter-connection, "superpower" and group management.

"What was done in Lake county is exactly what has been done throughout the country in recent years on an immensely larger scale."

CONCERNING the inception of holding companies, Mr. Insull illuminatingly says:

"Proposals for harassing or shackling electric developments by governmental action is only history repeating itself. It is off the same piece as the opposition to industrial consolidations twenty-five or thirty years ago and to railroad mergers in the Hill-Harriman-Morgan era. The railroads are now governmentally advised to consolidate.

"Electrical development may be harassed and impeded, but it will not be stopped. That which has been provided has been provided in the only way it could be provided in view of the enormous capital requirements: That is, by amassing capital and credit under centralized management to provide facilities for the utmost in economical mass production and employment of the energy itself.

"For achieving this the 'holding,' or investment, company and customer-ownership are the best expedients yet devised.

"When users of the service supply a large part of the capital required, efficient operation, rather than financial manipulation, is the chief interest of the management. There are approximately five million stockholder owners of the public utility industry. We who are the officers are only the operators. I and my friends do not own a controlling interest in any of the companies with which I am connected."

LET'S have fair play for all.

HEAVY SELLING OF OIL FORCES MARKET DOWN

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—Early irregularity in today's stock market gave way to a period of heaviness which was featured by the widespread liquidation of the oil shares. Selling was for both accounts and influenced, in part, by commission house advices suggesting a lightening of long accounts in some of the recently strong industrials and specialties. Trading showed a marked falling off in volume.

The opening of Congress revived fears of adverse legislation in some quarters, although it was generally agreed that business would benefit from the lower tax schedules likely to be adopted during the present session. The day's business news was largely favorable to the stock market, including another advance in the price of export copper and reports of increasing inquiries for railroad equipment.

Weakness of the oils was based on the belief that the continued overproduction of crude would have an adverse effect on the profits of the leading producing companies. Atlantic Refining broke 6 points by early afternoon, and the Pan-American issues sank to new low levels for the year. American Republics, on the other hand, showed independent strength, gaining nearly 6 points.

Bear pressure was particularly effective against the baking issues. A few strong spots developed in the automotive group, but General Motors was again in rather free supply. United States Steel common and other standard industrials also made little headway.

Rails were mixed, with sharp advances in Lehigh Valley and Canadian Pacific standing out.

MENTION THE SUN-TELEGRAPH WHEN ANSWERING ADVERTISEMENTS

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Atlantic Refining.

The Street was at a loss to explain the sharp drop in Atlantic Refining today. Company is said to buy about 90 per cent of the oil it refines and the supposition was that it was doing well in the low priced crude market. There was some vague talk of a possible suspension of dividends again, but observers usually right on the stock declare there is no reason for passing the payment. A payment of $1 a share was made a short time ago. When dividends were resumed several months ago $1 was paid, but the company stated that the $1 was not to be considered as a "quarterly" payment, but that it would be continued as earnings warranted. Another piece of gossip in the Street was that Atlantic is meeting stiff competition in some sections, with Gulf Oil being mentioned as making strong bids for prominence in districts heretofore considered as being sewed up by Atlantic.

Vanadium Enters Chemical Field.

The Vanadium Corporation of America, after three years of intensive work in its research laboratories, announced through President A. A. Corey, Jr., its entry into the field of chemical technology, at the same time placing on the market something over 100 chemical products. These chemicals are compounded from vanadium, tungsten, molybdenum, chromium, alicontitanium and other rare and semi-rare elements, some of which have been used extensively in the steel industry for the production of alloy steels. The research laboratories are located at Bridgeville, Pa.

Fisher's Stock Index Higher.

Irving Fisher's index price of stock exchange issues for the past week 208.5 against 205.1 in the previous week and 164.0 a year ago. Last week's index is highest of year.

Seminole Output Lower.

For 24 hours ended 7 a. m. Saturday the Seminole area produced 415,440 barrels of crude oil against 419,680 Friday.

Expecting Seminole Drop.

The "shooting" program in the Seminole area has been almost completed. The "shooting" of wells there has been going on for slightly more than a month and is responsible for maintenance of the daily output at such a high rate. Since new wells in the area now come in with a comparatively small initial output, the total daily production of the area should decline rapidly. Many are expecting a drop of at least 50,000 barrels in daily output of the area within the next four weeks.

Seven Years' Melon Crop.

American corporations have paid stock dividends totaling $6,252,818,926 to shareholders in the last seven years, the Federal Trade Commission revealed. Enormous increases in the amount of these "melons" since the Supreme Court held them nontaxable in 1920 were shown in a report to be sent to Congress tomorrow. In the seven years preceding the decision known stock dividends amount to only $628,000,000. These facts were developed in an investigation, ordered by the Senate a year ago, of dividends paid by more than 10,000 corporations.

Mahoning Valley Operations.

Mahoning valley schedules for the week show 25 out of 53 open-hearth furnaces in the district active, 14 of 20 pipe mills and 80 of 127 sheet mills working. Strip and tinplate capacity is at 70 per cent. Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Republic Steel average 55 per cent and Carnegie Steel 50 per cent.

Postpone Baking Meet.

Meeting of Continental Baking directors scheduled for today was put forward to next Tuesday. This news was followed by further pressure on the class A stock, which has been declining for several days. Private reports from Wheeling, where the stock is held in large amounts, sounded a note of discouragement over the prospects of continuance of the present $1 quarterly dividend on the class A issue.

Congress and the Market.

Wall street turns its eyes to Washington today. Congress convenes and Congress always will be an influence to nervousness among those who follow the stock market. An election year is just ahead, the importance of which is enhanced by the "Coolidge choice." Therefore, the street's worry about Congress is greater than usual. Railroad legislation, taxation, Federal Reserve Board's power and agriculture are the subjects for congressional action, in which bankers, brokers and others are most interested. The stock market thus far apparently reflects belief that the legislative body will take constructive action on all. But there will be speeches, new measures, proposed investigations, etc. They are due just as the stock market approaches record high levels, with big public participation and the accompanying big loans to brokers. Any one or all may give the speculative community a case of "nerves" so that excited market sessions appear to be ahead, during which caution will be the paying policy.

California Oil Production.

Crude oil production in California last week averaged 626,800 barrels daily, an increase of 300 barrels daily over the week before.

Beechnut Preferred B.

Beechnut Packing will retire its $1,119,600 of class B preferred at 115 and accrued dividend on January 15. The final dividend of $2.05 a share was declared, payable January 16.

Scrap Higher at Chicago.

Heavy melting steel has been advanced 25 cents a ton in the Chicago district, quotations now ranging from $11.75@12.25. Youngstown dispatches say the recent price advance in shapes, bars and plates has been instrumental in driving in much new business, buyers being anxious to cover on this year's requirements at 1.75 cents a pound. The price advance by Wheeling steel, to be followed by other makers, likewise is exerting a stimulating effect on the market.

Steel Merger Rumor Persists.

Much confidence is expressed among observers of the independent steel industry that developments are impending in a merger way with Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company despite denials of such a step. Inland Steel is seen on the other end of the deal. Youngstown Sheet and Tube's $100,000,000 of available bonds is regarded as indicating the company is standing by for some important step.

Copper Prices Higher.

Copper metal was generally quoted at 14 to 14⅛ cents a pound delivered at Connecticut valley, a new 1927 high. This compares with 14 cents a pound Saturday. Domestic inquiry was reported as excellent. Export copper was advanced 10 points on continued buying to a new 1927 high of 14.35 cents, cost and freight, Hamburg.

50 Years at the Ticker.

Joseph H. Moore, senior partner of Moore, Leonard & Lynch, was the recipient of many congratulatory messages today, the fiftieth anniversary of his entrance into the brokerage business.

Dome Output Value Larger.

Dome mines November output was valued at $375,474, compared with $335,245 in October and $321,306 in November 1926. Eleven months output was worth $3,626,549 against $3,605,136 a year ago.

FLOOD CURBING HELD TASK OF NATION

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—"Nearly every levee district in the Lower Mississippi Valley is bankrupt and cannot raise the money to protect the lives and property of the people living in the areas subject to floods, Chairman Frank Reid, Illinois, of the House Flood Control Committee, has declared.

Testimony by scores of witnesses before the committee shows that flood control is a national problem, he said.

The committee is now ready to receive the Army engineers' plan for harnessing the Mississippi River. This report was expected Monday. Reid said:

"The evidence before the committee has clearly shown that the people of Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi would be able to construct and pay for protective works which would make them secure from local floods.

"It also has been shown that when the rivers from beyond their state lines, from 31 states in the Mississippi basin, pour torrents of drainage water down upon them, their burden is more than they can bear. Consequently, the Federal government must do the work."

The sentiment of the witnesses has been almost unanimous that only levees will not suffice, that they must be supplemented by spillways, floodways or storage basins, which will serve to reduce the flood heights to a stage which can be safely confined within the levees, according to Reid.

"The various other proposals offered, such as headwater reservoirs, reforestation, etc., are certainly worthy of study and should be considered in any ultimate plan for flood control," he said, adding:

"Control of the destructive flood waters of the Mississippi River, which have taken so terrible a toll of life and property and caused such untold suffering, is a national duty to be recognized by the Federal government.

"The adoption by Congress of a national policy assuming responsibility for the future control of destructive floods affecting the Mississippi River and its valley does not necessarily imply expenditures from the Federal Treasury for flood control works where acute flood emergencies do not arise, or are not likely to occur."

Representative Riley, of Louisiana, ranking Democrat on the Flood Control Committee, issued a statement praising the Republican majority members "for their untiring efforts, their patience and their great interest in the problem before them." Wilson said:

"From the almost unanimous testimony before the committee two essential points have been developed:

"1. That any plan of flood control to be successful must be a unified one, planned and directed by the Federal government.

"2. That the execution of such a plan must not be dependent upon financial assistance from any locality or subdivision of any government of the several states, for failure or inability of any district to meet such requirements would mean ultimate disaster to the whole scheme.

U. S. TO OPPOSE OIL FIX TRIAL DELAY

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The government will vigorously oppose any delay in the trial of the jury tampering contempt charges against Harry F. Sinclair, William J. Burns, and their four associates, which is scheduled to get under way today, Major Peyton Gordon, U. S. Attorney declared.

While the dozen or more lawyers retained by the various defendants held a lengthy conference, District Attorney Gordon and his chief aide, Neil Burkinshaw, rounded out their plans for presenting the government's case.

Two key prosecution witnesses, William J. McMullin, ex-Burns agent who turned government informer, and Charles G. Ruddy, manager of the 16 Burns' operatives who shadowed the Teapot Dome trial jury, had conferences with Gordon.

Six men have been charged by Gordon with an attempt to "Bribe, intimidate and influence" the 12 jurors chosen to sit in judgment on Sinclair and Albert B. Fall in the Teapot Dome naval oil case.

In addition to W. J. Burns and Sinclair, the defendants cited "to show cause why they should not be adjudged in contempt of court" include:

H. Mason Day, vice president of the Sinclair Exploration Company and declared by the government to be the chief "contact" man between Sinclair and the Burns agents.

FOLLOWS DAD'S STEPS TO SENTENCE AS THIEF

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 5.—William Thompson, 17, of Cambria, today in Criminal Court drew a five-year sentence in Moundsville Penitentiary for stealing copper wire. Then he was paroled.

A week previously his father, James T. Thompson, 40, drew a like term for the same offense.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP.)—The cotton market opened barely steady today at a decline of 10 to 18 points under southern and local selling promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables.

January eased off to 19.27c and May to 19.41c. Net declines of 20 to 23 points on active months, but these prices brought in a renewal of covering and trade buying also was reported. This steadied the market and caused rallies of 5 or 6 points from the lowest by the end of the first hour.

Private cables reported spot offerings were being slowly absorbed, with the futures market lower under liquidation and London selling.

The market subsequently eased under liquidation and some further southern or local selling which may have been promoted by a private report estimating the crop at 13,144,000 bales and ginnings prior to December 1 at 11,775,000 bales. It was pointed out in connection with these figures, however, that the estimate showed a reduction of 388,000 bales, as compared with mid-November figures by the same authority and the market was a shade steadier at rallies of 4 or 5 points from the lowest around midday.

Standard Sanitary Drifts Lower

Dealings in Arkansas Natural Gas and Lone Star Gas featured the trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange during the first half of today's session. Prices for Arkansas Gas were a little higher, but Lone Star hovered around the levels prevailing at the close of last week.

With the announcement of the capital change on Lone Star last week, the many rumors regarding that issue have been put at rest for the time being, but traders are still discussing the possibilities of a deal in Arkansas. This company has been the subject of many rumors over the past several weeks and there have been numerous spurts and reactions in the shares as the various stories found their way about the Street. Among the large interests reported to be interested in taking over the Arkansas company's properties are the Insull crowd of Chicago, controlling Middle West Utilities, and the Henery L. Doherty interests, controlling the Cities Service properties.

Buying and selling of Arkansas Gas continued in rather heavy volume as the session progressed with the price pointing definitely upward, but the movement was slow. On the other hand, heavier selling of Lone Star made its appearance and the price dipped to a new low since the stock began its reaction from around 60 several days ago.

Demand for Standard Sanitary was thin and sales of that issue were made on a range down to around 110. Westinghouse Electric was off slightly following the trend in New York. Air Brake was quiet.

NO. 769.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing and directing the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works to execute on behalf of the City of Pittsburgh an agreement with The Aspinwall-Delafield Company, for the furnishing of water to a portion of O'Hara Township.

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works be and they are hereby authorized and empowered to execute, for and on behalf of the City of Pittsburgh, an agreement with The Aspinwall-Delafield Company, for the supplying of water to a portion of O'Hara Township, said agreement to be in substantially the following language:

ARTICLES OF AGREEMENT MADE AND ENTERED INTO This .... day of .... 192... by and between the City of Pittsburgh, a municipal corporation of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, hereinafter called the "City," and

THE ASPINWALL-DELAFIELD COMPANY, a corporation of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, hereinafter called the "Company."

WHEREAS—The residents of a portion of O'Hara Township, about Three Hundred (300) acres adjacent to the Borough of Aspinwall, Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, and the Filtration Plant of the City of Pittsburgh, have petitioned the City of Pittsburgh to furnish them with water for domestic purposes through water lines now constructed or to be constructed by The Aspinwall-Delafield Company, and through the medium of a contract between the City of Pittsburgh and The Aspinwall-Delafield Company; and,

WHEREAS—The Aspinwall-Delafield Company is to pay the City of Pittsburgh for the water so supplied, and by the Company charged to the individual users;

NOW, THEREFORE, THIS AGREEMENT WITNESSETH:

1. The City of Pittsburgh hereby agrees and contracts with The Aspinwall-Delafield Company to furnish water of a quality satisfactory to the Department of Health of the State of Pennsylvania, from a connection at the north end of Gallery No. 1 to a six (6) inch line fed through a connection to the sixty (60) inch pressure main to Cabbage Hill Reservoir, within the confines of the property of the said City of Pittsburgh, subject to the following conditions and requirements:

2. Water shall be taken from one connection furnished and installed by the Company under the supervision and direction of the Bureau of Water of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh, and the quantity of water used shall be measured by meter furnished and installed by the Company under the direction and supervision, and according to the instructions of the Bureau of Water of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh.

3. The quantity of water used shall be paid for at the prevailing Pittsburgh meter rates plus a fixed charge of Twenty-five (25) per cent. All bills shall be based on meter readings taken quarterly and shall be payable within ten (10) days after the statement of said readings, together with a bill, shall have been presented to the officers of The Aspinwall-Delafield Company. The City reserves the right to shut off the supply of water under this contract if said bills are not paid by the Company within thirty (30) days after the same shall have been presented to the said Company.

4. The City will maintain the main source of supply, and the Company shall construct and maintain its supply lines in good and proper condition so as to eliminate leakage so far as may be possible, and regulate the charges, terms and conditions of use by the consumers of all lines beyond its connection with the City main, which are embraced by this contract. All work to be done shall be subject to the approval of the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh and in accordance with plans approved by him, showing the territory to be supplied under this contract.

5. The City does not, under this contract, guarantee the permanency of the supply, which shall be subject to all possibilities of interruption to which the supply of any section of the City may also be subject, nor does the City guarantee that the water furnished under this contract shall be of such pressure as to furnish adequate supply to any or all portions of the said district at all times.

6. The City reserves the right to terminate this contract and any obligation assumed under it at any time, upon giving one year's notice to the said Company, its successors, or assigns, said notice to be in writing.

7. The Aspinwall-Delafield Company, its successors or assigns has the right to terminate this contract or any obligation assumed under it at any time upon giving one year's notice to the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh, such notice to be in writing.

8. It is further agreed between the parties hereto, in the event that the City limits are extended to include the territory in which said water lines are located as herein provided, or if for any reason the City desires to acquire the said water lines together with the rights-of-way and privileges connected therewith, upon the following terms:

The payment of the actual costs of all rights-of-way and privileges, and the payment of the actual cost of construction, less 1% for depreciation for each year thereof or any part thereof of the life of said water lines, cost of the reproduction of said line or lines at the time of acquisition less 1% depreciation for each year or any part thereof of the life of said water lines. The said Company further agrees, upon the completion of the installation of said water lines, to furnish to the City the actual cost of the installation of said lines and rights-of-way, and at any time the lines are extended by the permission of the City, that the actual cost thereof shall be furnished to the City of Pittsburgh properly verified by affidavit of the officers of said Company.

This Agreement on the part of The Aspinwall-Delafield Company has been accepted in pursuance of a Resolution of the Board of Directors of said corporation, a quorum being present, at a meeting held on the .... day of ...., and a record thereof being made in the Minute Book of said corporation on page ...... a certified copy of which Resolution is hereto attached and made part hereof, and the City has by Ordinance No. .... approved the ..... day of ...... authorizing the entering into and execution of this contract on the part of the City.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, The Aspinwall-Delafield Company has caused the common and corporate seal of said Company to be hereto affixed, duly attested by its proper officers, and the City of Pittsburgh has caused its corporate seal to be affixed hereto, duly attested by the Mayor of the City of Pittsburgh and the Director of the Department of Public Works of said City.

NO. 770.

AN ORDINANCE—Granting unto The Pittsburgh Traction Company, its successors, lessees and assigns, the right and privilege of relocating the easterly curb line of Forbes Street from a point 74 feet northeastwardly from Craft Avenue, to a point 346 feet northeastwardly therefrom, to a new location as herein defined, subject to the terms and conditions herein provided.

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Pittsburgh Traction Company, its successors, lessees and assigns, shall have the right and privilege, and they are hereby authorized to relocate the easterly curb line of Forbes Street, from a point 74 feet northeastwardly from Craft Avenue to a point 346 feet northeastwardly therefrom, from its present location to a new location described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point in the existing easterly sidewalk of Forbes Street, situated at the right angles eastwardly and 4 feet distant from a point of connection with the existing easterly curb line on Forbes Street 74 feet, as measured along the said curb line from its intersection with the north curb line of Craft Avenue; thence by tangent northeastwardly and parallel with the existing easterly curb line of Forbes Street and 4 feet at right angles eastwardly from said curb line a distance of 221 feet to a point; thence by tangent northwardly a distance of 20 feet to a point of connection with the existing curb line on Forbes Street 420 feet as measured along the said curb line from its intersection with the north curb line of Craft Avenue.

SECTION 2. The rights and privileges herein granted to The Pittsburgh Traction Company shall be upon the condition—

(a) That any and all work involved in the relocation of said curb line as herein described shall be done by the said The Pittsburgh Traction Company, at its sole cost and expense;

(b) That The Pittsburgh Traction Company shall provide an additional 2 feet of its property abutting along Forbes Street in the new location of said curb line for sidewalk purposes, so long as said curb line remains as relocated.

(c) That The Pittsburgh Traction Company shall reconstruct, at its own cost and expense, the sidewalk along and in front of its property where said curb line is relocated as herein authorized.

Section 3. The rights and privileges granted by this Ordinance are granted upon the express condition that The City of Pittsburgh, without liability reserves the right to cause removal of said curb roadway and sidewalk back to its original condition, through the proper officers, pursuant to Resolution of Ordinance of Council, to the said Pittsburgh Traction Company, its successors, lessees and assigns to that effect and that said grantee shall when so notified and in accordance with the provisions of this Ordinance, forwith, remove said curb, roadway and sidewalk to its original condition at its own cost and expense.

Section 4. All of the work to be performed, as provided herein, by said The Pittsburgh Traction Company shall be done and performed subject to the full satisfaction and approval of the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh.

Section 5. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

NOTICE TO RIVER INTERESTS AND NAVIGATORS.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE TWO MAIN RIVER PIERS FOR THE POMEROY HIGHWAY BRIDGE, LOCATED 251.3 MILES BELOW PITTSBURGH, HAS BEEN STARTED. THE WEST VIRGINIA PIER IS LOCATED ABOUT 120 FEET FROM THE WEST VIRGINIA SHORE WITH THE RIVER AT POOL. THE OHIO PIER IS LOCATED JUST ABOUT THE SHORE LINE AT POOL LEVEL. BOATS PASSING THIS POINT SHOULD USE THE CHANNEL OF THE RIVER AND NOT GO TOO CLOSE TO SHORE FOR FEAR OF COLLIDING WITH THESE TWO PIERS, ESPECIALLY WHEN THE RIVER IS OVER TOP OF THEM.

EVERY EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO KEEP RED LIGHTS ON THESE PIERS AT NIGHT, EXCEPT WHEN IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO MAINTAIN LIGHTS ON ACCOUNT OF HIGH WATER, DRIFT WOOD OR ICE.

COPIES OF THE PLANS SHOWING LOCATION OF THESE PIERS ARE ON FILE AT THE U. S. ENGINEER OFFICE AT PITTSBURGH, HUNTINGTON, W. VA., CINCINNATI AND LOUISVILLE.

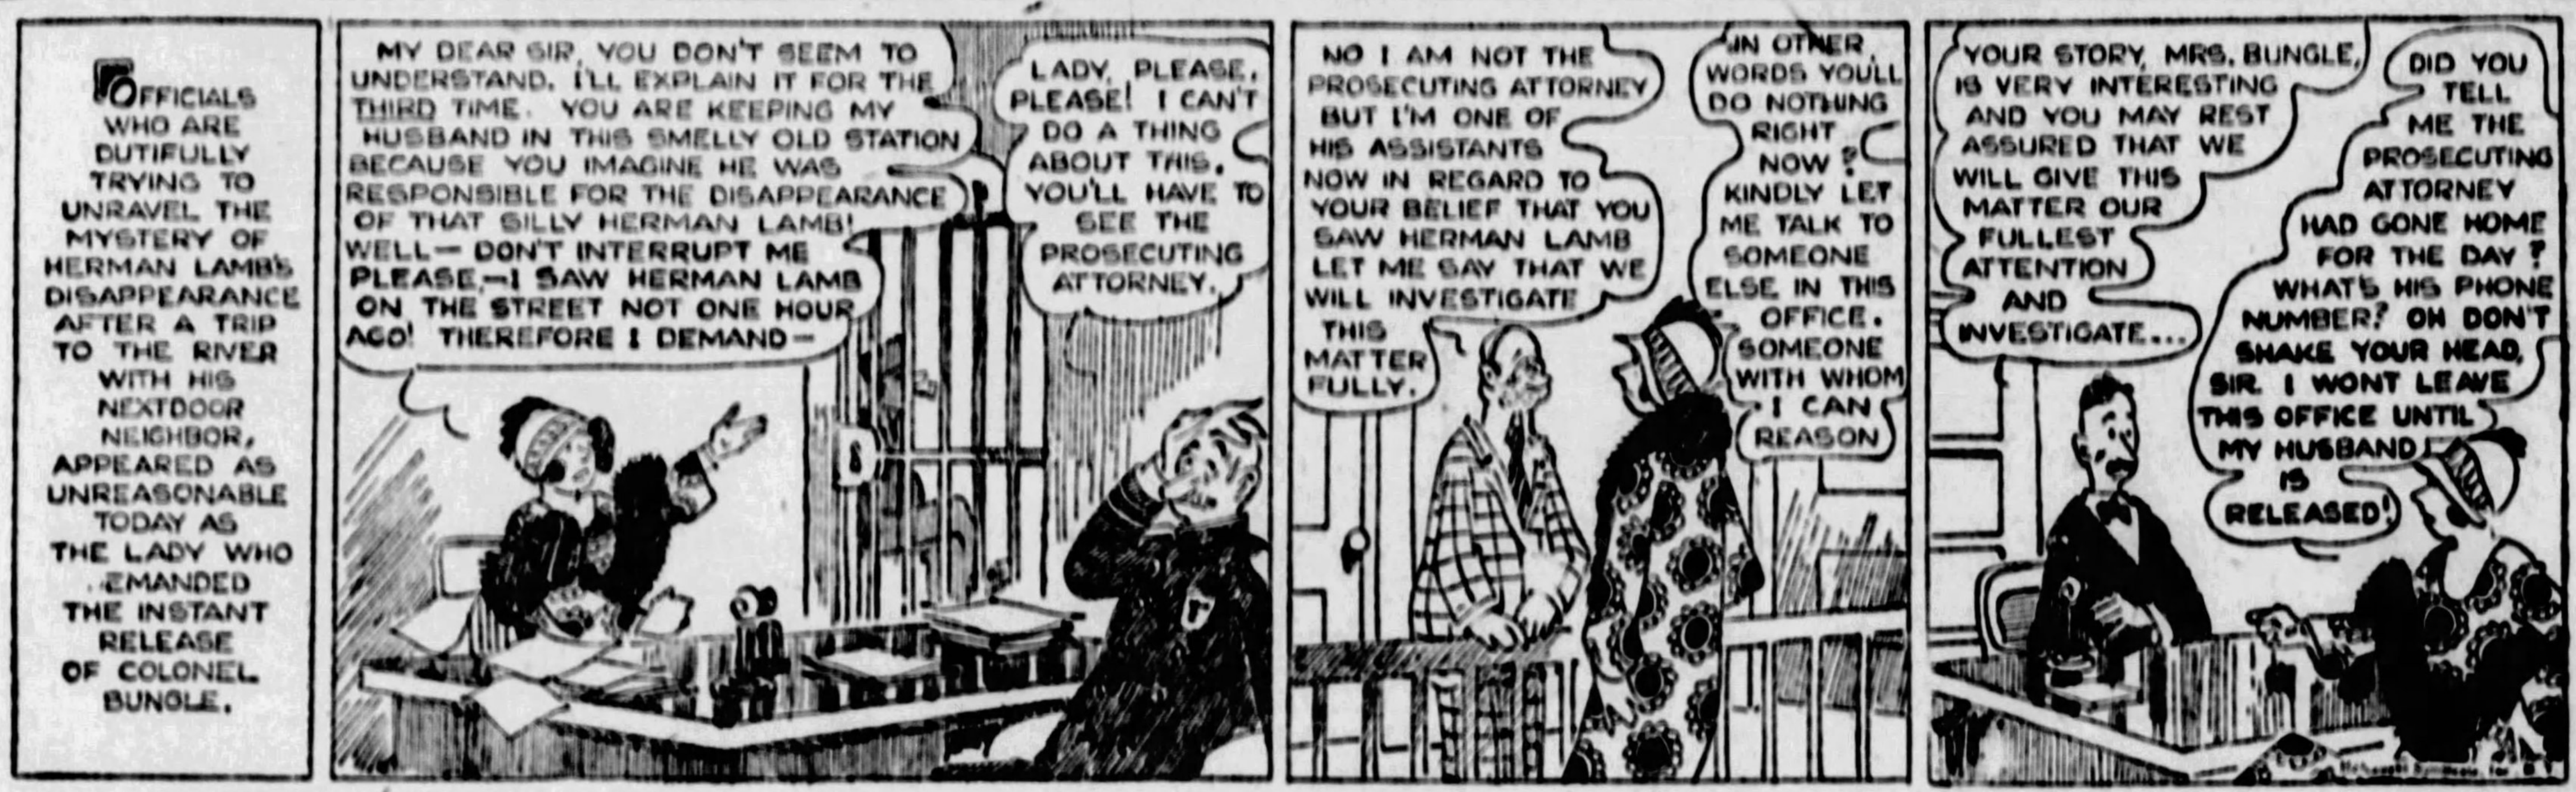
THE BUNGLE FAMILY — Hardhearted Officials



OFFICIALS WHO ARE DUTIFULLY TRYING TO UNRAVEL THE MYSTERY OF HERMAN LAMB'S DISAPPEARANCE AFTER A TRIP TO THE RIVER WITH HIS NEXTDOOR NEIGHBOR, APPEARED AS UNREASONABLE TODAY AS THE LADY WHO DEMANDED THE INSTANT RELEASE OF COLONEL BUNGLE.
MY DEAR SIR, YOU DON'T SEEM TO UNDERSTAND. I'LL EXPLAIN IT FOR THE THIRD TIME. YOU ARE KEEPING MY HUSBAND IN THIS SMELLY OLD STATION BECAUSE YOU IMAGINE HE WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE DISAPPEARANCE OF THAT SILLY HERMAN LAMB! WELL— DON'T INTERRUPT ME PLEASE,—I SAW HERMAN LAMB ON THE STREET NOT ONE HOUR AGO! THEREFORE I DEMAND—
LADY, PLEASE, PLEASE! I CAN'T DO A THING ABOUT THIS. YOU'LL HAVE TO SEE THE PROSECUTING ATTORNEY.
NO I AM NOT THE PROSECUTING ATTORNEY BUT I'M ONE OF HIS ASSISTANTS NOW IN REGARD TO YOUR BELIEF THAT YOU SAW HERMAN LAMB LET ME SAY THAT WE WILL INVESTIGATE THIS MATTER FULLY.
IN OTHER WORDS YOU'LL DO NOTHING RIGHT NOW? KINDLY LET ME TALK TO SOMEONE ELSE IN THIS OFFICE. SOMEONE WITH WHOM I CAN REASON
YOUR STORY, MRS. BUNGLE, IS VERY INTERESTING AND YOU MAY REST ASSURED THAT WE WILL GIVE THIS MATTER OUR FULLEST ATTENTION AND INVESTIGATE...
DID YOU TELL ME THE PROSECUTING ATTORNEY HAD GONE HOME FOR THE DAY? WHAT'S HIS PHONE NUMBER? OH DON'T SHAKE YOUR HEAD, SIR. I WONT LEAVE THIS OFFICE UNTIL MY HUSBAND IS RELEASED!

BUGS BAER Says

IN THE mail we had nabbed a ticket plus an invitation. The generous combination called for a chance to see the debut of the new flivver.

The ticket read, "You are cordially conscripted to see the first exhibition of the 1927 Ford. Present this ticket at the door."

Boys, life is getting pretty tough when you need a ticket to see a flivver.

However, we chased this one indoors. It has four-wheel brakes.

Four-wheel brakes are nothing new. Seventeen years ago we bought a dollar watch that must have had them.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

The best news is that the driver of the modern mechanical caravan no longer has to park himself on the gasoline tank.

The old Ford gas tank was under the front seat. Which was a dangerous spot for anybody possessing personal magnetism.

The tool box is smaller and less obtrusive. The shock absorbers are in the standard position and we hope that Henry is not mistaken in his optimism.

What we would like to know is why did Hank turn out fifteen million flivvers before admitting that he was mistaken.

The new car can do sixty miles on the flat. Which isn't fair to fifteen million Ford owners when impartial statistics call for two hundred and forty miles on four flats.

Will drivers of the original fifteen million Ford orphans feel happy when the new model skims by them? The first time that a Ford passes a Ford it will destroy the equality of tourists and the freedom of the detour.

The scenic possibilities of the new chugger are far less than the old cross-country ferry. What beautiful views of the road you could get by looking through the floor boards at your feet.

The reception to the younger flivver was formal. We had to wear a one-piece tuxedo with demountable collar and a windshield wiper on our shirt front.

All the guests walked solemnly around the new car like ants around a beetle.

And if success means anything, Henry should be happy, for all the guests agreed that the new model was still a Ford.

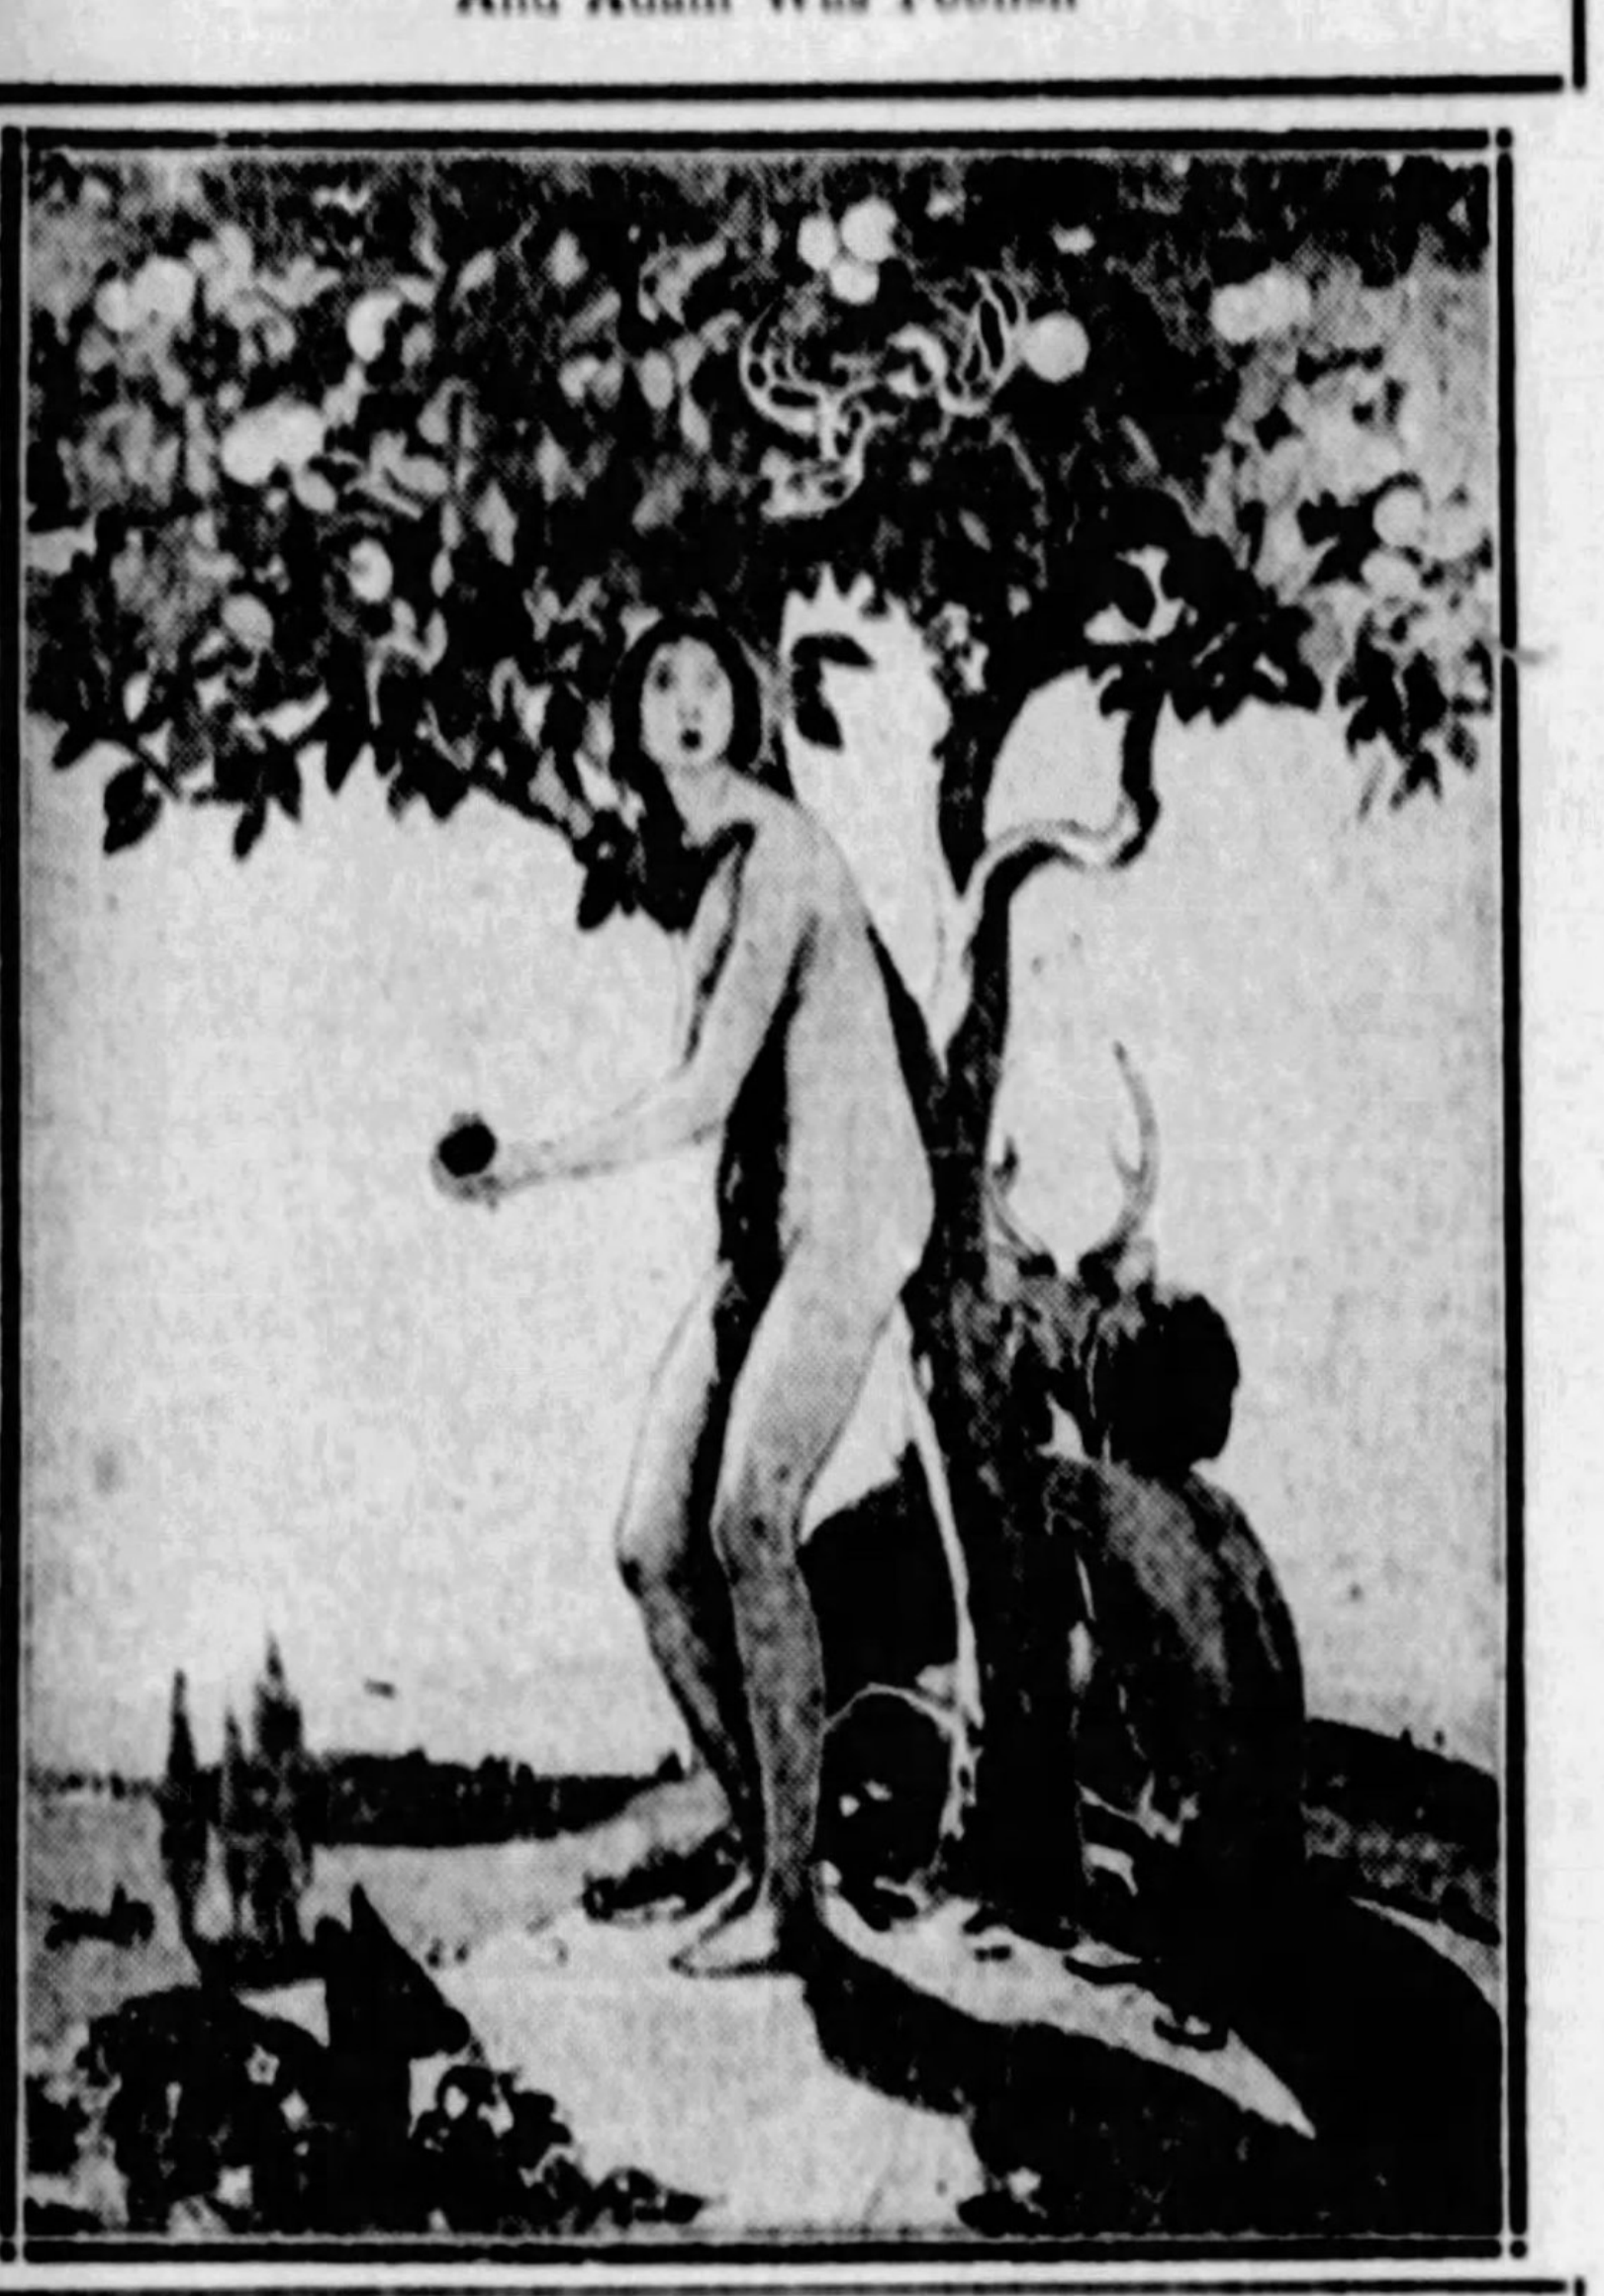
When Eve Was Young

And Adam Was Foolish



OH! SEE THE SNAKE.

We know that this picture tells what really happened, long ago, in the Garden of Eden.

Just HOW long ago we do not know, because clergymen do not agree as to the exact meaning of time as described in the book of Genesis. Some say "a day" meant a long geological period, instead of 24 hours. If that is so, it's lucky for us that our Sunday comes every seventh DAY and doesn't come at the end of every seventh geological period. If it did, none of us would see Sunday.

But to come back to this pretty picture of ancient days and ancient innocence. How hard it is for us to realize that things actually happened in this way, although this, of course, is how they DID happen.

Here is Eve under the tree, still young. And there is Adam—poor goose—who didn't know enough to let the apple alone. Everything is beautiful and sunshiny. Adam is talking to a deer that doesn't fear him. He evidently has not yet learned to eat meat. And the little fawn is lying at Eve's feet in the foreground.

Eve has just picked the apple; you see it in her hand.

And she is listening to that terrible snake in the leaves.

How hard it is for us to realize that even a snake would want to cause so much trouble. We understand it when we read that the snake was really Satan disguised, jealous of Adam and Eve's happiness, continuing his mean fight against the powers of heaven that had hurled him to the bottomless pit.

So here he is whispering, "Go ahead and bite it; you will know more after you eat that apple than you ever knew before."

Foolish Eve bit it, and after that everything went wrong.

The little fawns wouldn't come near her, and the deer ran away from Adam because they knew he would eat them. Eve and Adam were driven from the garden by an angel with a flaming sword, and Eve, who had been perfectly happy with that long hair and innocent look, suddenly discovered that she wanted clothing and started making it out of the leaves of trees.

Adam gradually got clothing, too, although he little dreamed that his descendants would wear "nobby suits," stovepipe hats, spats and ulsters.

Eve never dreamed of the bustle, the crinoline or the "back-to-Eve" skirt of today.

If only Eve had said to the snake, "Get out of here; I will call my husband," or if she had handed him the apple and said, "Eat it yourself, and when you know more you will know that you can't make a fool of ME."

But no, she ate it and gave Adam a bite. Happy Eden ended. The triceratops, the mammoth, dinosaur, humped-back camel and red-haired gorilla would no longer eat out of little Abel's hand. Snakes poisoned, donkeys kicked, lions bit and roared, geese hissed; everything was discord. And the clothing business and the cloak and suit business started.

How hard for us with our feeble imaginations to realize that this scene was positively the beginning of two great industries.

Buying the Arbitrator

Fine Chance We'd Have in the World Court

You read that the Mexican Government gave $100,000 as a private reward to an arbitrator who kindly decided that this country was not entitled to any damages for the killing of 16 members of an American mining party in Mexico. That need not surprise you.

The late President Harding told friends—several of them will remember it—that in one case he could have settled the claims of a European power for a few million dollars.

The case was arbitrated, with Europeans a majority on the board, and Uncle Sam had to pay several times as much as he could have settled for.

What a nice chance this country would have in the World Court, with one lonesome American voting against 10 or more gentlemen from different parts of the world, all united in the belief that making Uncle Sam pay would be a virtuous act.

This Year, Why Not?

No need of repeating the early Christmas shopping arguments. Not only does everybody know them; their logic is almost universally accepted.

As a matter of fact, we are shopping earlier every year, thanks to the campaign of education that has been going on a long while. But not enough, early enough.

This is a good year to make those often-adopted resolutions to shop early really work. And this is a good day—a good week—to start putting them into practice.

The Safest Bank

Last August the Russian Government took away Chaliapin's title, "The People's Artist," and took away his estates in Yaroslavsk Province. Now Russia takes his house and gardens near Moscow. They cannot take Chaliapin's brain or voice. He is out of reach, therefore he does not worry. Fortunate the man who carries his fortune in his head.

Keep in Middle of the Road

By DR. FRANK CRANE

It would save many people a lot of trouble if they would keep in the middle of the road. If they were not always walking along the fence and getting over into dangerous ground they would not have so much difficulty.

Many preachers have gotten into trouble on account of heresy and they have taken the attitude of being sacrificed because they were honest. The fact is they liked to talk about something about which they knew little and guessed much. Instead of talking about what they knew and what was generally understood, they ran over into the line of speculation, and their guess work got them into trouble.

They would never have had any altercation with their flock if they had kept in the middle of the road.

If most of us confined ourselves to what we actually know something about we would have no disputes with our neighbors. But we love to talk about and express opinions on what we know nothing about.

If we would stick to the common moralities of doing right or doing wrong, of being straight instead of crooked, of being clean instead of filthy, people would not quarrel with us.

Most quarrels are about questions that we do not understand at all, on either side, hence we quarrel. We are more tenacious about our fancies than we are about our facts.

Stick to the middle road of fact and regard all speculations about fancies with a tolerant hospitality.

Louis B. Mayer, of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, proposed the other day that the moving picture people should not portray nudity, traffic in drugs, ridicule of the clergy, offence of any nation, creed or race, arson, use of firearms, technique of murders, methods of smuggling, and so on.

It may be very bold and brave to do these things on the screen, but there is plenty to do without them. They pertain merely to the art of shocking and other kind of art they have not.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Moseley's Great Discovery

"Will you explain about the constitution of the atom, and especially about the discoveries of the party who, in England, investigated this matter, and who was killed in the war?—C. C."

THE "party" you refer to was Henry Gwin-Jeffreys Moseley, about whom our own Robert A. Millikan has written:

"Some day a poet will arise who will make an epic for the ages out of young Moseley's discovery."

Moseley was only 28 years of age when he was killed in the Allies' trenches at Gallipoli, August 10, 1915. Only a year before he had published his great discovery of the "atomic number," of which Millikan has also said that "it is perhaps the most beautiful and the most simplifying discovery ever made."

To fully understand this subject you need considerable elementary understanding of chemistry and physics, and it can only be presented in very brief outline here. But remember that it is a starting point for popular knowledge of the constitution of the atom, the basis of all matter. If you don't know what the atomic number means, much of modern scientific advance can only be confusing to you.

You probably know the ordinary spectrum of light. By means of a prism, or a grating, the rays of varying wave-length are separated, and different chemical elements are found to radiate light of characteristic wave-lengths, by means of which the elements can be identified. Physicists also now employ what is called the "X-ray spectrum" to penetrate deeper into the constitution of the elements. The X-rays are too short to be diffracted by ordinary gratings, but they are dealt with by the aid of crystals from whose internal "faces" they are reflected in such a way as to reveal characteristics distinguishing the particular elements used as anticathodes in producing the X-rays.

Now, Moseley's discovery was that the X-ray spectrum was similar for all the chemical elements, but that the frequency of vibration, or the wave-length of the corresponding lines in the spectra shown by the different elements, was proportional to a certain number, which increases in an arithmetical progression so that the number varies by unity from each element to the next, when they are arranged in the increasing order of their atomic weights.

Thus, starting with hydrogen, the lightest of all the elements, and calling its atomic number one, the other elements throughout the entire table arranged in the increasing order of their atomic weights, run in the unbroken series 1, 2, 3, etc., up to 92, which stands for the heaviest, uranium.

For the general reader the most striking fact about the atomic number is that it corresponds with the number of revolving electrons in the atom of the substance to which it is applied. Thus, hydrogen has one negative electron revolving around its positive nucleus, and so its atomic number is 1. Iron, which has the atomic number 26 possesses 26 revolving electrons in its atom. The number for gold is 79, for aluminum 13, for iodine 53, for radium 88, and so on. When you know the atomic number you know the number of electrons that revolve around the nucleus of the atoms of the substance concerned, and vice versa.

One other thing may be mentioned. While the nucleus of every kind of atom is electrically positive, yet, with the exception of that of hydrogen, every nucleus contains some negative electrons also. But these are neutralized by an exactly equal number of the same kind of electrons revolving around the nucleus, so that the latter remains, as a whole, positively charged. As just said, however, the nucleus of the hydrogen atom appears to consist of pure positive electricity. It is the only example of its kind, and is sometimes called the proton, also the "alpha particle."

Overcome Handicaps

WHY blame your parents for having brought you into the world and placed you under handicaps such as insufficient education, lack of social standing and prestige in general?

If the desire is strong enough and you are willing to work and deprive yourself of pleasures and some of the luxuries you crave, you can rise above any birth handicap you may have.

You think it unfortunate that your parents could not do more for you to give you a start.

But it may have been better for you that you are not the child of parents who could provide luxuries.

You can see many girls and young men who amount to little or nothing to the community in which they live who would have been better off if they had had to make their own way instead of using Dad's money.

Most great men have been handicapped.

The struggle to get and maintain a foothold has strengthened them and brought out the latent talents which easy going would have allowed to remain dormant.

It were better if wealthy parents helped less and required more.

Christmas Seals

GAY little seals for the gayest of times,
Seals that mean Christmas, with holly and chimes;
Every glad message the season has brought Seems but the sweeter for this kindly thought.
Some who are lying this Christmas in pain
Through these bright seals will find health once again;
Buy them and send with each bundle of cheer
Something that binds men in brotherhood dear!
So much of the gladness and gentleness go
Over the world with the Christmas-tide snow,
Yet all the love that the season reveals
Nowhere shines clearer than here through these seals.
Gay Christmas seals, bringing blessing to earth,
Brightening the candles and heightening the mirth,
Each Christmas thought gains in love from your cheer,
Bringing man's brotherhood ever more near!

New York Day by Day
by
O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Stirred out of sleep by a woman crying "Fire" and the doorman said she had set herself ablaze lighting a cigaret in a taxi and asked the driver to rush her to the river, which struck me as amusing, inasmuch as she was unhurt.

After breakfast at Child's with a group to visit a Hindu soothsayer on Barrow street, who amazed with divinations, telling much of our past with accuracy, our names and dates of birth. Yet convincing enough it was clever trickery.

In the evening to drive alone to the Battery to watch galleons in the harbor and walk through deserted Wall Street, the click of heels echoing through the lonely canyon. And idled in sort of fascination in front of Trinity churchyard, my head filled with melancholy thoughts. So to bed.

Most all-night places in midtown deposit receipts at midnight in the night banks as precaution against Broadway stickups. Stickup men work in threes. One to watch outside, one to keep a gun leveled on patrons and the other to attend to the cashier.

The usual procedure is for the leader to approach the cashier and purchase a package of cigarets. When the cash register drawer is opened the command is given: "Leave it open and stick 'em up." In the trade, a stickup's victim is known as "a cherry picker"—indicating the position of his arms.

So adroit are some of the robbers it often happens patrons eat on in total ignorance of what is going on. Stickup men make night lunch rooms their targets because people are generally going in or coming out and new faces are not noticed.

The footpad is known in the underworld as a "soloist." He works alone, usually in quiet residential streets. He pops out of a shadowy doorway and with a pistol pressed against his victim, executes his job. The victim is then commanded to walk on without looking back, and in this way the thief makes a getaway. For other hot crime information send self-addressed stamped envelope—Dept. Z.

So many women went stockingless the last summer hosiery manufacturers are, to put it softly, perturbed. And manufacturers of men's hats are not throwing hand-springs or laughing themselves hoarse over the summer custom of going hatless.

Manufacturers of hairpins can megaphone the world that many so-called fads are quite enervating.

The stage lost three old-timers this summer with the passing of Amelia Bingham, Arthur Deagon and Johnnie Ray. Miss Bingham was the best known star of her day, and in later years achieved much newspaper space as occupant of her famous "House of Statues" on Riverside Drive. It was once the home of Joseph Jefferson—a red brick structure with niches in its facade for white marble statues of Shakespeare and others. It was a place pointed out by yap wagon spielers.

A divorce suit reveals a New York bank teller making $42.50 a week, and bearing the classic name of Horace, deserted his dignified post for that of a laundry wagon driver with an average income of $125 a week—on percentage. His wife charged he could not stand prosperity and took to wines, blondes and everything. He became known in the wild set by the rollicking name of "Giddap."

Many mediocre appearing jobs are really worth while. Any number of doormen at expensive apartment houses work for nothing and are able to make as high as $5,000 a year. The big windfall is around Christmas when each tenant makes a substantial money gift. At least they had better, or move.

My preference in theatrical seats is the first few rows of the balcony. People there are more interested in the play than in the audience. The fact that such seats are cheaper has nothing—well, very little anyway—to do with the choice, tra, la.

Tales That Are Told

Lucky Number

THE policeman on point duty was having an unusually exciting morning. For some reason the traffic would persist in mistaking his signals, and lively muddles ensued.

Suddenly an old lady beckoned him. The policeman thought she wanted to cross the road urgently, and he obligingly held up a batch of buses and cars.

The dear old soul, one hand clutching her trailing skirt, hurried up to him.

"Do you know, officer," she whispered confidingly, "the number on your collar is my lucky number."—London Answers.

Quite the Reverse

A PROMINENT lawyer, in his early days, was often favored with poor clients. On one occasion the defendant was so poor that the lawyer offered to fight his case for nothing.

In due course the case came to court, and by his eloquence the lawyer turned defeat into victory.

The grateful client sent him a guinea, and in order not to hurt his client's feelings the lawyer accepted it.

Later, he met a fellow-lawyer, who reproached him for accepting such a modest fee.

"Don't you know," he said, "that it is unprofessional to take less than two guineas?"

"Well," replied the other, seriously, "I took all the poor chap had. You don't consider that unprofessional?"—London Tit-Bits.
